The City of St. Hilaire has obtained grants to help with replacing water mains and fixing the roads. The cost of replacing the culverts would be approximately $30,000. ## Polaris shares $6,817,425

Polaris Industries L.P. has announced profit sharing totalling $6,817,425 for 1,354 employees based on the company's 1992 record-setting performance which included the highest sales and earnings in the company's history.

Distribution will be made to employees at the company's headquarters in Plymouth, manufacturing facilities in Roseau and in Osceola, WI, and its Canadian subsidiary in Winnipeg.

In addition, under the Polaris Employee Ownership Plan, employees were awarded some 43,600 ownership rights with a value in excess of $2,250,000 at today's market price, and a $5 cash distribution for each ownership right held through 1992, a total of $318,000. This brings the total 1992 profit sharing to $9,385,425.

In a letter to Polaris employees, CEO Hall Wendel Jr. said "1992 was an outstanding year. We experienced record sales, the lowest field inventory levels in history and continued market strength for all products."

He congratulated employees on a job well done and encouraged them to become "active team members and participants" in their on-the-job problem solving efforts which will result in improved productivity, efficiency and reduced costs.

Wendel pointed out that the company's efforts to manage productivity as well as growth of the employee base has a direct positive impact on the size of the profit sharing pool—the more employees, the fewer profit sharing dollars per person.

Violent crime increases in Pennington County

Violent crime in Pennington county has Acting Sheriff Ray Kuznia concerned. Kuznia made the statements upon the release of annual statistics for 1992.

Despite the fact that the number of incident reports remained about the same as the previous year, violent crimes increased. Kuznia noted that if present trends continue violent crime will be higher next year and that scares him. "Let's hope we don't follow (trends of) bigger cities," Kuznia said.

Assaults, incidents of criminal sexual conduct, and disorderly conduct were among the classifications that showed significant increases in 1992. Assaults increased from 32 to 53. Incidents of criminal sexual conduct increased from 2 to 5. Incidents of disorderly conduct increased from 28 to 38.

One result of the increase in serious crime, was a decrease in routine traffic patrol and the number of traffic violations that were written. Total traffic violations recorded in 1992 decreased from 266 in 1991 to 166 in 1992. One of the most significant declines was observed in speeding tickets. In 1991, the sheriff's department issued 128 speeding tickets. In 1992, the sheriff's department issued only 55 speeding tickets.

Miscellaneous calls for service make up the bulk of incident reports to the sheriff's department. Miscellaneous calls for service are defined by such incidents as checking abandoned autos (12), alarm responses (67), ambulance calls (124), calls for assistance (138), attempting to locate people (71), business checks (58), commitments (237), court orders (302), dog and animal calls (141), opening car doors (92), outside arrests (101), prisoners (311), protection orders (125), public education (23), public health (63), delivering subpoenas (109), suspicious persons (84), warrants (325), and many others.

In all, there were 4,341 calls for service in 1992. In 1991, there were virtually the same number of calls for service — 4,364.

The sheriff's department is required to report certain incidents to the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension (BCA). In 1992, 517 reports were made to the BCA. In 1991 there were 496 reports filed with the BCA. The same increases noted in the sheriff's department overall report were noted in the report to the BCA. Assaults, criminal sexual conduct, and other violent crimes resulted in an increase.

BCA reports are broken down between crimes charged out to adults and crimes charged out to juveniles. The number of crimes charged to adults declined in 1992. In 1992 there were 204 crimes charged out to adults. In 1991, there were 252 crimes charged out to adults. Crimes charged out to juveniles also decreased. TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Shamrocks

St. Patrick's Day is just around the corner and moms all over are going to hear, "I have to wear something green today!" Here is a very quick, easy shamrock to make and wear.

You will need green paper, scissors and a little bit of glue. A shamrock is just three valentine hearts glued together at the tips. Since everyone has had recent practice making valentine hearts, it should be easy to just cut some out of green papaer. Attaching a small stem will complete the shamrock. If you tape a safety pin to the back of the shamrock, you can wear it all day and celebrate St. Patrick's Day with everyone else.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

Kwitz, Mary DeBall. Little Chick's Friend, Duckling. What will happen to the friendship between Little Chick and Duckling after Broody Hen's six eggs hatch? This is a delightful story for every child who has ever wondered how a new brother or sister might change his or her life.

VIDEO VARIETY

Fine Feathered Frenzy. It's fun for the whole family when you discover what happens when you cross a run-away lawnmower with a strong-willed parrot and a nail biting aerial rescue.

PARENTING TIPS

Preparing Your Child for School

Starting school is a big step in the life of a child (and his/her parents). Parents of young children often ask about what they can do to prepare their child for school, the first day and all the rest. These parents need to know that preparing children for school is like preparing them for life. It happens little by little over a long period of time. It's not something you sit down and do in one hour.

Experts recognize that what you the parent do during the first years of your child's life will greatly influence his learning and his ability to learn. Parents who are actively involved in their children's lives help their children become more successful in and out of school. They can do this by spending time with them, talking with them, listening to them and taking them places. If you would like to know more about what parents can do to stimulate their child's desire to learn, contact the Early Childhood Family Education program by calling 681-8670.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Help your child to notice and talk about the things around him/her in your everyday life. Notice and talk about sounds, shapes, colors, people, places, things and whatever else you can think of.

Dear Readers,
When a loved one dies, friends try to comfort us by saying, "Time heals", yet time by itself does not magically remove the pain. It is what we do with our time that helps resolve our grief. In the beginning, it may be difficult to work or handle the routine activities of life, but keeping active is one way to take your mind off your anxieties. Get busy, and keep busy - it is effective medicine.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

1992 MARSHALL COUNTY ROAD RESTRICTIONS

The effective date of road restrictions on all Marshall county roads will be concurrent with the placement of restrictions on truck highways in the area. Updates concerning placement of restrictions by the State are available by calling (612) 297-2093.

Restriction limits are based on gross axle weight which includes the weight of the vehicle and the load it carries.

The erection of signs on any highway governs the effective date of the restriction. As long as signs remain in place, restrictions are in effect.

No permits for overweight axle loads exceeding legal or posted axle weights will be issued.

During the period when signs are in place, any county or town gravel road is restricted to (5) tons gross weight per axle. If signs are erected, the restrictions as indicated on the sign shall govern. If no signs are erected, the (5) ton gross weight restriction shall apply.

Speaking Of . . .

Sharon LaCoursiere

. . . Hooray for Farmers and Their Families

In case you didn't know, today is National Agriculture Day and this entire week has been set aside especially to honor those involved in agriculture and related fields. This week is set aside to honor not just those who farm the land, but also their families.

We in Northern Minnesota are very dependent upon those who farm the land and work in farm related businesses and organizations. In this area, if crops are good, business is good – for the entire area.

Have you ever wished you could chuck it all, buy a little plot of land and be a farmer? Wouldn't it be wonderful to live and work on your own land, get back to your roots, be in harmony with nature? What a joy to rise with the sun, plow and plant the fields in the sunshine and harvest a bounty in the fall!

I don't think it works that way any more, though.

Maybe farmers used to be able to farm the old-fashioned way. In fact, most of us have ancestors who farmed the land in that idyllic, rustic manner. They brought their parents' and grandparents' way of farming with them from the old country and continued it when they came to America. Some of them did very well at it, too, but those methods are not the methods of today's farmer.

Today's farmers have to be much more than lovers of the land and, in order to make their farms produce, they must utilize farming methods that their parents and grandparents could never have imagined.

It takes more than love of the land to make a farm produce today. Technology has taken over farming and today's farmer must be many things. He must be a businessman, a banker, an accountant, a chemist, a veterinarian, a mechanic, an agronomist, a meteorologist, and, as well as all of that, he must, more than likely, be a loving husband and father.

And speaking of wives and children, what about those farm wives? What, you think they are in the kitchen baking cookies and staying home raising children? I don't think so!

All of the farm wives I know work just as hard as their husbands. Some of them do farm work right along with their husbands. They know how to operate and drive all of those monstrous mechanical machines that are used on modern farms, they help with the birthing of farm animals, they care for, feed and water stock, and know just as much about what, where and how to plant and the farm financial statement as their husbands. Other farm wives work out of the home and still find time to be "good farm wives," and all that entails.

As well as working alongside their husbands and/or working at non-farm jobs, they perform all of the other necessary tasks that need doing. They cook, clean, wash and mend. They act as chauffeur for the children and "go-fer" for their husbands, pay the bills, balance the books, cook and carry lunches to the fields, sow, hoe, plant, harvest and utilize the produce from their own gardens, go to church on Sunday, and still find time to bake and take a cake or pie to an ailing or lonely neighbor. Sometimes they even take a day or two out to have a baby.

Children who grow up on a farm are no strangers to hard work, either. Most of them have chores to do before and after school and yet they find time to participate in all types of extracurricular activities, as well as church groups, 4-H and scouting. They do the farm work side-by-side with their fathers and mothers, learning to love and care for the land first-hand.

So, give a salute to farm families this week. Tip your hat to your friends and neighbors who carry on the tradition of loving and working the land.

Farm families, I salute you with the words of Harry S. Truman: "...I've always thought and said that farmers are the smartest people in the world...They don't go for high hats, and they can spot a phony a mile off."

Impressions . . .

Beth Johnson

I have been noting with personal interest the news items about the "Storm of the Century" that occurred this past weekend on the East Coast. My family comes from the East. We still have many relatives there, so naturally we follow the reports of one to four feet of snow with awe if not concern.

The East Coast has had more than its share of snow this winter. My husband made a trip to Connecticut this past December just in time to help the relatives shovel out from under a foot of snow. He had mistakenly left his warm Minnesota winter wear at home and needed to borrow hat, gloves, boots and heavy coat from his cousin. His second trip to Connecticut this past February for his mother's funeral found him deciding to bring his good Minnesota warm winter gear with his as he had been so recently reminded that other places besides Minnesota also received snow and cold!

In phone conversations this weekend with our relatives experiencing the storm of the century we learned that all of the interstates were closed as were the airports. We learned that sleet followed the snow, but no one expected to be kept home from work or school come Monday. The plows were out and so was the supply of videos at the local video stores! My sister noted that the quantity of birds that had found their feeders was astounding. Even red-winged blackbirds were taking advantage of the sheltered area in which they found feed at the bird feeder.

My sister also noted that it was being announced on the news that the Catholics of the area were being given special dispensation and were being encouraged not to venture out to Mass this weekend! That is truly a sign of the storm of the century!

Here at home in Northern Minnesota we were much more fortunate. We did not have to see our houses ripped from around us by the wind. We did not have to shovel a foot or more of snow. We had power and we stayed warm. We did not have to deal with freezing rain on top of snow.

We at home, in spite of the below zero temperatures, could begin to dream of Spring. The beautiful sunshine of this past weekend tried to make us think Spring, not cold.

In my home I did some beginning Spring cleaning. I'm not done, but it sure felt good to get a start on Spring. One of the signs of impending Spring in my home is when I change the pictures on my wall. I have a number of cross stitch/needlework pictures that I display on my walls. I change them with the seasons. This weekend the winter scenes of reindeer and tomtens came down. In their place are spring flowers. I know that changing the pictures on my wall does not create Spring, but can Spring be so far away when we start to do Spring sort of things like spring house-cleaning?

Listening to the storm of the century news this weekend does not leave me envious of those experiencing this storm. It does once again leave me in awe of nature and how vast and varient it is. Listening to the news of this storm leaves me with a sense of relief that this time at least it is not us in the North experiencing the news-making weather. We have had more than our share of that. Instead, we can gladly allow ourselves just a peek at Spring and with that peek gain a bit of hope.

Volunteers made 2,845 pizzas in the St. Bernard's Church basement last Friday and Saturday. The pizzas are sold to raise funds for St. Bernard's School. St. Bernard's also sold 1,165 premade pizzas. St. Bernard's has sold pizzas annually for 12 years. With a full crew they can produce 500 pizzas each hour.

Local Co-op recognizes employees

Employees of St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator have been recognized by Cenex/Land O'Lakes Ag Services for outstanding achievement in building sales and retail market share through a focus on service as part of the Customer Connection program.

The co-op's Customer Connection achievements were recognized at an awards program held recently in Detroit Lakes. The cooperative and its employees were presented with awards for financial performance, largest increase in plant food, largest and most feed sold in the Cenex/Land O'Lakes region 5. The employees included: Wes Schroeder, Bob Miller, Arnie Geske, Craig Chaput and Dave Sorenson.

"This honor recognizes the teamwork of this cooperative's employees when it comes to serving our customers," said Manager R.E. Miller. "Just like no single player on a championship sports team can take credit for victory, it took the enthusiasm and commitment of each co-op employee to be a winner in the Customer Connection program."

Sal Hoffert seeks sparsity revenue

Sal Hoffert, Grygla-Gatzke and Goodridge School District superintendent, recently testified before a state legislature finance hearing.

As reported in Session Weekly magazine, Hoffert and other rural school superintendents traveled to St. Paul seeking more state funds, by an increase in the state's sparsity revenue.

With 116 students and some classes of one to three students, the Grygla district is so large that students who get on the bus at 6:45 a.m. don't arrive at school until 8:20 a.m., Hoffert told legislators. The Grygla-Gatzke School District covers 880 square miles.

Under the state's sparsity formula, the smaller the enrollment and the greater the distance between schools, the more revenue an individual district receives.

A high school must have fewer than 400 students in grades 7-12 to qualify. This year, 58 schools qualify for sparsity revenue.

The state directed $10.3 million in sparsity revenues to schools in the last biennium. The governor's proposed budget does not change the current sparsity formula, but slightly increasing enrollment in sparse districts would reduce that amount by $387,000 for 1994-95.

The Education Committee's K-12 Finance Division heard two measures to increase sparsity aid during its February 15 meeting.

One measure, proposed by Rep. Jim Tunheim (DFL-Kennedy), would guarantee that districts that consolidate would not lose sparsity revenues. Since sparsity revenue decreases as the number of secondary students increases, two "sparsity-receiving" districts that consolidate almost always receive less funding. The Tunheim measure has not yet been assigned a House file number.

Another measure, HF 180, sponsored by Rep Irv Anderson (DFL-International Falls), would allow the 13 most sparse districts to qualify for additional sparsity aid. Assistance would increase by $1.5 million annually under the plan.

Kamla Twomey will skate a solo "Showboat" number at the 18th annual Fantasy on Ice skating show in the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon, March 20 and 21.

Skating the roles of Miss Dixie and Miss Yankee at the local Fantasy on Ice skating show Saturday and Sunday will be Amy Johnson (left) and Robin Bollesen. Theme of the show will be "Mardi Gras."

Hansons receive Outstanding Ayrshire Breeder Award

Lynn and Norma Hanson of the Good-Vue Ayr Farms received the Outstanding Ayrshire Breeder award at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Purebred Dairy Cattle Association meeting in St. Cloud on February 22.

Lynn and Norma Hanson got their start with Ayrshires in 1956. At that time they moved from Minneapolis to the Goodridge community and were given two grade Ayrshires by Norma's family. Since that time the herd has grown to about 100 head of registered Ayrshires consisting of about 40 cows plus young stock for replacements and sales. Their son, Michael, and his wife Linda, and their grandson David are actively involved with the herd and Ayrshire activities.

The Hansons joined the National Ayrshire Association and the Minnesota Ayrshire Association in 1959. They registered their farm name Good-Vue Ayr Farm with the national association and have used the Good-Vue prefix when registering cattle. The Hansons have been actively involved with the Minnesota Ayrshire Association for many years and hosted the state Ayrshire picnic at their farm in 1984. In 1988, when the National Ayrshire Convention was held in Rochester, Norma chaired the committee for the program booklet.

The Hansons worked on a committee to get DHI into their county and have been on DHI test since 1977. The Good-Vue herd has been recognized by the Minnesota Ayrshire Association for high herd average for the past five years, including 1991 when the herd was high for milk with an average of 18,045 pounds. They have received the Constructive Breeder award recognizing both type and production from the National Ayrshire Association. Currently, Good-Vue has Minnesota all-time class leaders in the two-year old class for milk, the five-to-10-year old class for protein, and the 10-year-old and over class for protein. Individual milk records up to nearly 23,000 pounds have been completed in the Good-Vue herd.

The Good-Vue herd has shown cattle for many years. Michael showed his first Ayrshire calf as a 4-H project at the Pennington County Fair when he was eight years old. Since that time they have shown regularly at county fairs in the area and at the Northwest Dairy Days in Thief River Falls and at the State Fair. In 1988, they bred and owned the senior yearling, Good-Vue Linda's Holly, that was Jr. Champion at both the Minnesota State Fair and World Dairy Expo and was also All-American senior yearling.

The Hansons have been regular consignors to the Minnesota Ayrshire sale and to national Ayrshire sales. For a number of years they have given an award for the outstanding dairy project at the Pennington County annual 4-H banquet and awards night. Presently they are in the process of putting together the criteria for a scholarship to be offered to a student in the Dairy Science program at the University of Minnesota, Crookston.

The Hansons have been involved in community and industry affairs. These have included the Goodridge Area Historical Society, Minnesota Farmers Union, Marshall County and Region I American Dairy Association, Minnesota Dairy Promotion Council, and Goodridge Cooperative Creamery until it closed. Norma has held leadership positions including President of the Marshall County Farmers Union and Chairman of the State Executive board, President and vice-president of Marshall county ADA and Chairman of Region I ADA, and chairperson of the Goodridge School board. In addition, they have won community awards for Tidy Farm, Years of Service, Conservation Farmers of the Year (1975), Valley Farm and Homemaker of the Year (1985), Red River Valley Winter Shows Honored Dairyman (1988), Farm Woman of the Year — Marshall County (1983), and many others.

Farmers can call toll-free

Farmers with questions about regulations, permits or any other subject can now seek advice toll-free from the Minnesota Department of Agriculture by calling the new hotline number, 1-800-967-2474.

"I wanted Minnesota farmers to have a quick and easy way to contact our new agricultural ombudsman or to seek a referral to one of our farm advocates," said Elton Redalen, Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture, who announced the number as a prelude to National Ag Week, March 14-20.

In January, the agriculture department hired an ombudsman to respond to farmers' questions about regulations and inspections, to make referrals to other agencies when appropriate and to assist farmers in preparing the paperwork needed to get permits to expand or upgrade their operations.

Since 1984 the departments 13 farm advocates have been available to assist farmers with all aspects of their financial planning. Farmers are particularly encouraged to contact an advocate if they are in mediation, negotiating with lenders or liquidating the assets of their farm operation.

Commissioner Redalen noted that it is appropriate to kick off the hotline during National Ag Week when the nation honors the 20 million men and women who put food on Americans' tables. "Agriculture and its related industries account for nearly one-fourth of all jobs in Minnesota," Redalen said. "We need to do all we can to support this critical link in the state's economy."

Pennington co. spends $12,585 on Powerball

Lottery sales in Pennington county reached $12,585 or 83 cents per capita during the $59.1 million Powerball lottery frenzy.

From February 28 to March 3 the Minnesota county with the highest lottery ticket buying per capita was Polk county with $3.20. Clearwater county had the lowest with 61 cents per capita.

Lottery ticket retailers in East Grand Forks and Moorhead composed six of the top ten lottery ticket sales. The other top ticket retailers were in the metro area.

The Powerball jackpot rolled 13 times to reach $59.1 million. Minnesota's Powerball sales during those six weeks were $14.9 million. There were 422,881 winning tickets that paid $3.2 million in prizes.

Fourteen states and Washington, D.C., with a population of 38 million, make up the Powerball network.

During the March 3 Powerball, five $100,000 prizes were given out. Three tickets remain unclaimed. One lottery winner was from Holdingford and one was from Burnsville.

The peak selling time in Minnesota was recorded between 5 and 5:30 p.m. with about 115 tickets sold per second. On average for Wednesday's sales, 200,000 were sold per hour, 3,300 sold per minute and 55 sold per second.

The state received $4.6 million in profits from the sales. The General Fund received $2.2 million and the Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund received $1.46 million from lottery profits.

Is Your Child Abusing Inhalants?

Over 600 common products can be used as inhalants. Many are easily available to children, including gasoline, glue, paint, polishes, window cleaners, lighter fluid, typewriter correction fluid, felt tip markers and aerosols containing hair spray, deodorant, whipped cream, and air freshener.

Know The Signs

Death can occur when a user breathes too deeply and inhales enough chemical fumes to pass out. This may lead to asphyxiation and/or cardiac arrest. If the user inhales a substance out of a plastic bag, there is danger of death by suffocation. There is also a high rate of suicide and violent death among inhalant abusers.

HOW DO INHALANTS AFFECT THE BODY?
Inhalants are quickly absorbed into the bloodstream, affecting the brain, lungs, liver and kidneys. The resulting "high" can last anywhere from a few minutes to an hour.

WARNING
SHORT-TERM EFFECTS: Nausea/Dizziness; Sneezing/Coughing/Nosebleeds; Lack of coordination; Slurred speech; Impaired judgment; Rapid pulse/Irregular heartbeat; Blurred vision; Severe headaches; Acute poisoning; Depression; Aggression/Hostility; Hallucinations; Paranoia
LONG TERM EFFECTS: Hepatitis; Brain damage; Bone marrow damage; Liver damage; Kidney damage/Renal failure; Hearing & Visual Impairment; Violent assault, including murder; Sudden death (heart failure); Ongoing hallucinations; Lowered I.Q.

What is Inhalant Abuse?:
Inhalant abuse is the act of sniffing or inhaling a substance in order to experience mind-altering effects. Fumes or vapors may be inhaled (code words: "bagging", "huffing") directly from containers, from inside plastic bags placed over the head, or from cloth or clothing saturated with the substance.

Youth at Risk
While the abuse of most drugs has declined over the last decade, the abuse of inhalants has increased.

At least SEVEN MILLION CHILDREN between the ages of 5 and 17 have abused inhalants. Twenty-one percent of all 8th graders have experimented with some type of inhalant. Of these, 61% had used by grade 6. Inhalant abuse seems to peak at age 13, but use of inhalants has been found in children as YOUNG AS FIVE YEARS OLD.

HOW TO FIGHT BACK: Teach Your Children Well
EDUCATE YOURSELF: Learn the specific ways in which substances are inhaled and how children may conceal their inhalant abuse. Look for unusual amounts of empty aerosol or gas containers which may indicate abuse.
TALK WITH YOUR CHILD: Find out how much your child knows. Ask questions, but be careful not to give any "new ideas." Since they are at risk, children need to be aware of the dangers of inhalant abuse in an age-appropriate way. As with any other drug, use of inhalants may be a cry for your help. If you suspect your child is using drugs, get professional help immediately.
KEEP THE LINES OF COMMUNICATION OPEN: Encourage your child to talk openly with you about problems, feelings, school and friends. Then make the time to talk on an ongoing basis.
TEACH YOUR CHILD TO PRACTICE "REFUSAL SKILLS": The offer of inhalants usually comes from a friend or an older child, so along with saying "No", your child needs a list of positive alternatives and activities. Talk with your child and make a list of other options.

"Early inhalant use is clearly an indicator of high risk for multiple problems with school and other drugs." Bob Dickson, Texas Commission on Alcohol & Drug Abuse

Sixth graders continue tour fund raising

Fund raising events are continuing by the Franklin middle school sixth grade as they attempt to finance a history and science trip to the Twin Cities this spring.

Beginning Monday was a McDonald's coupon sale with students selling $1 coupons redeemable at face value at McDonald's restaurant in Thief River Falls. The sixth grade earns 40 cents per coupon.

On Saturday, March 20, class members will make and serve hamburgers at the American Legion club rooms with parents doing the cooking and students the serving.

On Saturday, April 3, a bowl-a-thon will be held at the Family bowl with 16 alleys being used and three students bowling per alley. Bowling shifts will be at 9 and 11 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. Pledges will be taken for one game on the basis of pin score and collected by the students following the bowl-a-thon. Matching funds up to $500 will be provided by Lutheran Brotherhood.

On Thursday, April 22, a spaghetti dinner will be served from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Franklin middle school cafeteria. Spaghetti, garlic toast, coffee and soft drinks will be served at an advance sale cost of $3 for adults ($3.50 at the door) and $2 for children under 12 years of age.

A white elephant and bake sale will be conducted the same evening —in the gymnasium during and after the spaghetti dinner—with Peter Mosbeck as auctioneer.

The trip will involve all members of the sixth grade class and include stops enroute to or from the Twin Cities for points of interest along the way.

Sparby supports legislation on senior programs

State Representative Wally Sparby, DFL Thief River Falls, said this week he supports legislation that renews or increases state funding for several senior volunteer programs.

Statistics show that in 1991 more than 20,000 volunteers over the age of 60 provided more than three million hours of volunteer service in Minnesota. Their volunteer efforts are equivalent to more than 1,421 paid employees with a value of more than $32 million.

A bill currently under consideration pumps funding into several volunteer programs that benefit retired seniors as well as the general community, Rep. Sparby said. Specifically, it calls for:

- $666,000 for the Foster Grandparent Program, which brings seniors together one-on-one with children who suffer from learning disabilities, developmental delays, autism, emotional problems, abuse, neglect or teen pregnancy.
- $391,000 for the Senior Companion Program, which helps homebound seniors with daily tasks so they can delay moving into institutional care. Senior volunteers also help other seniors who have been recently discharged from hospitals, allowing them to remain in their homes.
- $347,000 for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), which provides food to the homeless and homebound, teaches functionally illiterate people to read, and transports poor and disabled people to medical appointments.
- $2.19 million for the state's home-delivered and congregate dining services (such as Meals on Wheels). More than five million meals a year are served to more than 100,000 seniors.

The bill has been heard by the full Health and Human Services committee and has been sent to its finance division for consideration.

In addition, Rep. Sparby said, a separate bill also moving through the legislature would allow grandparents to petition for visitation rights to continue to see their grandchildren after their adult child has gone through a divorce.

The bill has been approved by the full House of Representatives and now moves to the state Senate for consideration.

Current law allows grandparents to seek visitation rights before the final settlement of a divorce case, but recent court decisions have cast doubts on their right to seek visitation after the proceeding is ended. Many grandparents don't realize until then that they might need a court's help in getting visitation rights. This protection is especially important in cases when a divorce results in bad feelings between the parents, or if one parent moves out of state with the children.

Incidents of violent crime increase in TRF

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser presented the annual law enforcement report to the city council Tuesday night. Statistics show that overall the number of incident reports remained about the same, but incidents of violent crimes increased.

"Overall, the numbers are very close to 1991. My concerns are the same as previous years. Serious or more violence, is prevalent in the call classifications. For example, assaults and burglaries by juveniles tripled from 7 to 22. Other crimes such as forgery, criminal sexual conduct, property damage and thefts continue to increase. These are trends that we see occurring across the nation," said Chief Froschheiser.

More violent crimes being committed appear to fit into a trend. Crimes against the family, for example, increased from 26 reported incidents in 1991 to 30 in 1992. Incidents of burglary increased from 67 to 79. Disorderly related incidents increased from 96 to 108. Property offenses increased from 208 to 268. Incidents involving a forgery or counterfeit increased from 17 to 21. (These same crimes showed an increase during 1990.)

This trend has Chief Froschheiser justifiably concerned. Last year, for example, the lives of two of his officers were threatened when a suspect leveled a rifle at them. Only by the fact that the rifle failed to discharge and then jammed were they saved from life threatening injuries. Several similar incidents were also recorded during the year.

This trend also means an increasing amount of his officers time is spent in investigations and filling out paperwork. As a result, less time is spent on routine patrol. A total of 15,000 less miles were traveled in 1992.

One of the most onerous duties a police officer has to do is fill out paperwork. The most complained about is the paperwork involved in driving while intoxicated incidents. In 1992, there were nine incidents of gross misdemeanor driving while intoxicated, seven incidents of aggravated driving while intoxicated, and 32 incidents of misdemeanor driving while intoxicated. That represents an increase of about 11 per cent. It takes roughly two hours to complete the paperwork involved with a driving while intoxicated arrest. The total amount of time elapsed from the traffic stop to completion of the paperwork takes from three to four hours.

Most of the calls a police officer makes in the line of duty, however, are service related. Not all police departments allow officers to open car doors for motorists who have locked their keys in their car. In 1992, the Thief River Falls police department opened 1,166 car doors. That's an increase from 1,045 recorded in 1991.

Chief Froschheiser supports the policy, stating that it's good public relations. In addition, there doesn't seem to be a locksmith in the community who wants to start opening car doors. Where officers can't open car doors because of the new devices being installed in car doors, locksmiths generally charge around $25 to $35.

The service has been abused in a few instances, Froschheiser said. Last year he sent out at least two letters telling the residents that the police will no longer open their car doors for them.

Other service related calls include responses to alarms, providing traffic control for ambulances, locating people, checking businesses and residences, delivering messages, funeral escorts, conducting public education speaking engagements, and issuing illness and death notices. In 1992, there were 9,257 service related calls, which is a decline from 9,518 during 1991.

The kind of service provided by police officers in Thief River Falls is not cheap. About one-quarter of the city's general fund budget is spent on providing police protection. In 1992, the city of Thief River Falls budgeted $768,405 for the police department. That figure represents salaries and wages, benefits and payroll taxes, services purchased, supplies purchased, other miscellaneous costs, and capital outlay for such things as squad cars. The city has budgeted $798,837 for the police department in 1993.

Some of the costs are recovered. Approximately two-thirds of the fine monies collected by Pennington County court for such things as criminal charges, traffic violations and [illegible] citations are returned to [illegible]. In 1992 that amounted to $3[illegible], which is an increase from $30,0[illegible]3.17 in 1991.

In addition, fine monies collected for parking tickets issued and not challenged in court, brought in $11,641, which is an increase from $11,566 in 1991.

The total amount collected from fine monies in 1992 amounted to $53,728.91.

Police protection is not inexpensive, but residents of Thief River Falls get more for their dollar than fines and arrests. Officers with the police department in Thief River Falls are actively involved in attempting to prevent crime and educate the public.

During the year, officers for the police department are involved in writing public safety stories, warning the public about fraud and teaching DARE, CounterAct and bicycle safety in the schools. In addition, they work closely with such groups as the Salvation Army, Early Childhood Family Education, Community Education, the School Board, Project 4-Teens, Chemical Awareness Task Force, Violence Intervention Project, Social Services and others.

It's clear that there is much more to being a police officer than writing traffic tickets and bringing criminals to justice, but bringing criminals to justice is an important factor in determining effectiveness.

Processing a criminal complaint includes passing on the information to the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension (BCA). In 1992, 1,241 crimes were reported to the BCA. (Each reported item could involve the charging out of several violations. For example, 93 incidents involving liquor law violations were reported to the BCA, but 161 crimes were charged out. Differences in reporting also exist between BCA reports and police reports. An incident reported as a drugs and narcotics incident in the community may be reported differently to the BCA.)

In order of frequency, there were [illegible] incidents of criminal damage to property reported to the BCA. That is an increase from 184 in 1991. Assaults reported to the BCA remained about the same — 93 in 1992 and 94 in 1991. Violation of liquor laws declined from 104 to 93. Incidents involving burglaries remained about the same for dwellings, 41 in 1992 and 46 in 1991, while incidents of burglary involving buildings increased from 17 to 33. Incidents involving disorderly conduct remained about the same as did incidents of harassing communications.

Thefts, a whole category of incidents listed in the reports to the BCA, include some significant increases. Thefts from motor vehicles increased from 50 to 91. Thefts from the mail increased from 8 to 14.

On the other hand, incidents of shoplifting decreased from 76 to 51. Thefts from buildings remained about the same, while thefts from yards declined from 55 to 31. Bicycle thefts remained about the same, 34 in 1992 and 33 in 1991.

Of the incidents reported to the BCA, 574 adult crimes were prosecuted in 1992. In 1991, 681 were prosecuted. The most commonly prosecuted crime involved liquor law violations. There were 161 liquor law violations prosecuted. The number of adult assaults prosecuted increased in 1992. There were five incidents of aggravated assault, and 65 incidents of simple assault.

Because of the fewer number of juveniles charged out, trends seem to stand out much more than adult crimes charged out. The most notable change in the statistics involving juveniles was a decline in the number of liquor law violations charged to juveniles. In 1991, there were 69 violations of liquor laws. In 1992, that number dropped to 48. The number of runaway violations charged out dropped from 14 to 8. It should be noted that one person can be charged with the same crime more than once and can therefore have a significant impact on crime statistics.

Despite the apparent improvements in liquor law violations and runaways, juvenile crimes for thefts and assaults increased. Incidents of simple assault that were charged to juveniles increased from six in 1991 to 10 in 1992. The number of burglaries charged to juveniles increased from one in 1991 to 12 in 1992. The number of thefts increased from 11 to 23.

Overall, the number of crimes charged to juveniles declined from 193 in 1991 to 160 in 1992.

Concert In TRF

The final concert of the Allied Concert Series was held at Lincoln High in Thief River Falls on Tuesday evening. In my estimation it was by far the best of the season. "The Tamburitzans," nicknamed "The Tammies," are all students of the Catholic Duquesne University at Pittsburgh, PA and have gained international fame. Their program featured folk songs and dances from several areas of Croatia, Serbia, Macedonia, Bulgaria, Hungary, the Ukraine, Russia, Georgia, Moldavia and Siberia. Lincoln's stage was a little small for the 24 dancers and about a dozen musicians who played a wide variety of instruments. The numbers ran the gamut from lullabies to whirling dervishes and was just fantastic. The costuming was beautiful and required many changes in dress, foot and headwear, all in very colorful outfits. An outstanding performance! When I think of the years of warfare and oppression these countries have known, including the present time, I marvel that the ethnic customs of song and dance have survived. Attending were Florence Tvedt and granddaughter Amy Tvedt, Inga Linder, Esther Walter and Effie Vigstol. Several others who held tickets were unable to attend.

Breakfast guests of Art and Avis Frolland were grandson Greg Foster and five hockey teammates from Roseau: Todd Hagen, Ryan Hokanson, Jason Lovejoy, Jan Bylugloin, Tony Hommer and Greg. They were enroute to the tournament in the Cities.

Fern Eskell hosted the Martha Circle meeting on Wednesday afternoon at her home. Avis Frolland led the Bible study for the eight women in attendance. Fern was in charge of the business meeting and served a lovely lunch.

[illegible]

[illegible] offered Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "It was real important again that we got an early lead. We [illegible] at the end, but this team has come through so much [illegible] this year, it almost seems that we have to put ourselves in that kind of position before we come through."

The win sends the 18-7 Nordics into the Section 8A tournament, where they will meet Warren in an 8:15 p.m. Thursday semifinal at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. Clearbrook-Gonvick-Trail will take on Ada-Borup in the 6:30 p.m. doubleheader opener that night.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River [illegible]

[illegible] "They were in the [illegible] they had [illegible] We were [illegible] had to deal with [illegible] If we would have got the lead right away it might have been a different [illegible] got the lead, and [illegible] put that much more pressure on our kids."

The Nordics took charge when they turned a narrow 14-12 lead into a 21-12 spread over the final two minutes of the first quarter – on a base line drive by Tim Olson, a three point basket by Jake Rantanen and a short jumper by Steve Nelson.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River managed to chip the difference to 25-22 following a long jumper by David Blazek with 4:27 left in the first half, but the Gators picked up just two points the rest of the way as the deficit went back to 33-24 on two Shane Borg free throws with two seconds left in the first half.

Down 39-33 with 3:10 remaining in the third quarter, the Gators made a 10-2 run to take their only lead of the night. A steal and fast break lay-up by Trent Wahl tied it a 41-41 with 9.1 seconds left in the third quarter, and another steal, this one by Jason Simmons, led to a follow-up fast break [illegible] basket for Billy Holum as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went ahead 43-41 just 18 seconds into the final period.

But the lead was short-lived. Scott Zak promptly connected on a long jumper and Rantanen hit a three pointer to give the Nordics a 46-43 edge.

David Nelson came back with a short jump [illegible] to keep the Gators within 46-45 with [illegible] remaining, but just when a [illegible] to the wire shoot-out appeared to be shaping up, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River ran out of ammunition.

The Gators went 6:28 before they would score again – a three point basket off a long rebound by Sparby that made it 51-48, but with just 10.9 seconds left.

Adding to the Gators' frustration was the fact that the Nordics were leaving the door open for them. Marshall County Central also hit an offensive dry spell, going 3:26 without scoring, before coming up big when Borg buried a three-pointer with 3:28 left to open up a 49-45 gap.

"We fought back the whole night, and finally got the lead, but then they hit those two three-pointers," noted Sparby. "After that I think we started forcing it, trying to hard."

Olson made two free throws for a 51-45 Marshall County Central cushion with 1:50 to play, but those were the only free throws the Nordics made in 12 seconds half attempts. They missed seven straight at the end, including the front end of five bonus situations.

"We could have made it a lot easier if we would have made our free throws," acknowledged Ueland. "But we did play great defense. I think they (Gators) were getting a little frustrated. They started forcing things at the end."

Olson and Zak led the Nordics with 14 and 11 points, respectively, while Rantanen added nine on his three treys. John Sparby scored 12 points and Kuznia had 11 for the Gators.

Marshall County Central shot an even 50 percent from the field (20/40), while Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot only 32 percent (18/56). The Nordics were just 6-for-21 at the free throw line for the night. The Gators were 10-for-13. Marshall County Central finished with a slight 30-29 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 17-12.

Huskies lose final game

■ Section 8A Sub-Section 3 basketball

Goodridge fell behind early and never recovered Saturday as the Huskies lost a 64-50 decision to East Grand Forks in the 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 3 boys high school basketball tournament third place game at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The Green Wave jumped out to a 17-8 first quarter lead, had a 33-23 halftime advantage and maintained a 46-35 third quarter spread.

"They just had more players than we did," pointed out Goodridge coach John Rahn. "They wore us down. We got behind early, and never got it back."

The Huskies were within 58-50 but then surrendered six straight points to lose sight of the Green Wave down the stretch.

Shooting was part of the problem, said Rahn. Although Goodridge shot a respectable 41 percent from the field (21/51), the Huskies missed 14 lay-ups.

East Grand Forks also shot 41 percent (22/54), and went 13-for-28 at the free throw line, where Goodridge was 6-for-11.

Eldon Quam led Goodridge with a game-high 20-point night. He was the Huskies' only double-figure scorer, but Travis Kotrba (12) and Mitch Smsky (10) both hit double-digits on the boards as Goodridge out-rebounded East Grand Forks 38-33. Curt Kotrba led the Green Wave with 16 points.

Goodridge finished the year 9-15.

Meetings...

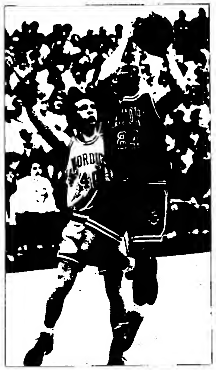
■ Pennington County Sportsmen's Club will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Law Enforcement Center.

■ Weekly 12-noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters luncheon meeting Thursday in the basement of Lon's Restaurant & Pub will feature Lincoln High School golf coaches Dick Tyler (boys) and Charlie Cornell (girls) as guest speakers.



Pulling up for a short jump shot, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River guard David Blazak lined up the basket after getting by Shane Borg of Marshall County Central Saturday in the championship game of the 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament. Marshall County Central won 51-48.

MCC faces Section 8A challenge

Role of underdog suited Marshall County Central just fine in Section 8A Sub-Section 4 tournament play, so the Nordics have no problem when observers look past them while picking a favorite for the 1993 Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament, scheduled to be played Thursday and Friday at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Joining the Nordics in the four-team field will be defending champion Clearbrook-Gonvick-Trail, high-scoring Ada-Borup and Warren, a perennial contender making its fourth tournament appearance in the past five years and tenth trip in 18 years.

Thursday's first round semifinals match the 23-2 Bears against the 19-5 Cougars at 6:30 p.m., while the 18-7 Nordics take on the 22-3 Ponies at 8:15.

Outside of the Newfolden area, Marshall County Central probably won't garner many votes in pre-tournament balloting predicting the Section 8A winner. But the Nordics knocked off favorite Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 51-48 in the Sub-Section 4 finals Saturday, and Nordics coach Ron Ueland figures his team is capable of pulling off some more surprises.

"We're getting used to being the underdog," said Ueland. "We're comfortable in that role."

But Ueland recognizes the challenge awaiting his team, starting with a team that beat the Nordics 53-50 back on Dec. 8. "Traditionally they (Ponies) have an awfully good defensive team," he noted. "It's hard to execute your offense against them. They don't seem to have the scoring punch and inside game they've had in the past, but they're tough to score against. You've got to be able to run your offense against their pressure defense, and defensively you can't afford many mistakes. You don't want to fall behind them and let them dictate the tempo of the game."

The Nordics played some pretty solid defense themselves in winning sub-sectional honors, setting up a potentially hard-played, intense, low-scoring defensive struggle against the Ponies – in contrast to what might be a first-game offensive shoot-out.

But that doesn't mean the Ponies and Nordics don't have offensive weapons.

Marshall County Central is led by Tim Olson, who has scored over 500 points this winter and 1,000 points for his career, along with a supporting cast that can feature any number of different individuals – from Shane Borg to Jake Rantanen to Scott Zak. Long-range shooter Chad Kujava leads the Ponies, who like the Nordics, can receive additional offensive help from several different sources on any given night.

While accepting the role of underdog, Ueland said the Nordics will not be going into Section 8A play content with simply making an appearance. "I don't think we've reached the epitome of what we can accomplish yet," he said. "I think we can go farther. We're happy with what we've done so far, but we're not done yet."

Section 8A champion will meet the Section 5A winner in first round Class A state tournament play Thursday, March 25, at 2:30 p.m. at the St. Paul Civic Center. It's a trip the Nordics would like to make for the first time.

Bergie's Business

with Jeff Storhaug

Following the professional hockey career of Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland:

March 15 – Wow! What a week in hockey. I consider it to be the worst week in Minnesota hockey ever.

First, after 26 years, the Minnesota North Stars are being pulled right from under us. One man's problems cost the whole state of Minnesota its winter time passion. It's a sad situation.

Then the worst of it, Tim Bergland was sent down to the minors after last Wednesday's practice with the Tampa Bay Lightning.

Tim was told to stop by the coaches' office after practice. He had a funny feeling, but with the team coming off wins against the No. 1 team in the NHL, the Montreal Canadians, and another top-notch team, the Calgary Flames, he didn't think about being sent down.

He was told the team had to make a decision by March 20. They weren't going to make the playoffs, and there were a number of high-priced players that were not playing. Tampa Bay felt that they had to start playing some of them, so after the year was over, other teams might have some interest in them.

Tampa Bay's farm team, the Atlanta Knights, was a first-place team, and they felt Tim could help them out in their playoff run. In order to send Tim down, they had to clear him on waivers, which means any team can try to pick him up for the right price. General manager Phil Esposito told Tim they put the highest price on him possible so no one would pick him up. It sounds like they don't want to lose him.

Tim has played two games since being sent down. He had a goal and two assists in a 5-2 win over Phoenix, and scored twice in a 5-3 win over Kalamazoo. Scoring doesn't seem to be a problem for Tim in the minors. He's played about 40 games for the Knights, scoring 17 goals and adding 23 assists.

After the season is over, Tim's New York agent is going to sit down with Tampa Bay and see just how much they are saying is true! With all the things Tampa Bays says, and, with two new teams coming into the NHL next year, people around him feel he should have a permanent home in the NHL next year.

I know he will do it.

REST INSURED

by Dee Schmidtgall

WHAT IS A CERTIFICATE OF INSURANCE?

A Certificate of Insurance is a piece of paper that shows policy limits, dates, company name, and policy numbers for all of a customer's policies on a single sheet of paper.

Realistically, a Certificate of Insurance is worth nothing, does nothing; and imposes no responsibility on the company that issues it.

Then what is the point of issuing a certificate? The point is information. If you are going to do a job for someone, and somehow cause a problem, (such as, injure an employee or a member of the public, or burn a building to the ground, etc.) the person you are doing the job for, wants assurance that you have insurance to take care of the claim.

A Certificate of Insurance is simply a snapshot of the current declaration page. No more, no less.

Interest income of $5,833 and finance charges of $229—less interest and other expense of $106.49—resulted in a total net of $5,956. Added to the net operating margin, this created a total net margin for the creamery operation of $8,789.

The ag service division had sales of $365,955 and cost of sales of $331,096 for a gross margin of $34,859. Merchandising costs of $29,729, general costs of $5,478 and administrative costs of $3,452, however, totaled $38,660 for a net operating loss of $3,800. Finance charges and other income, less bad debt expense of $3,701, showed a total net loss of $1,546. Total net margin in the ag service division was a loss of $5,346.

The cooperative's current assets of $385,264 were up slightly from $384,197 a year ago and included $115,679 in cash, $160,187 in receivables, $108,759 in inventories and $637 in prepaid expenses.

Northwest Tech supports removal from merger

As part of a statewide effort to remove the technical colleges from the 1991 law which merged the three higher education systems (technical colleges, community colleges, and state universities), the Northwest Technical College board adopted a resolution at its February meeting supporting the introduction of legislation which will remove the technical college system from the "mega-merger."

Dr. Ray Cross, president and CEO, said the Northwest Technical College board based its support for the resolution on three major concerns:

- Technical Colleges must be responsive to area businesses and industry. Our mission is "Education for Employment." A centralized governance system in St. Paul will greatly encumber our responsiveness to these entities and threaten our ability to effectively serve their needs.
- The cost for reconciling the three system salary schedules, moving technical college faculty to a state system, and for changing the governance structure will be an estimated $150 million. This money will not be used to buy new or improved services, but rather to pay more dollars for the existing services within the new governance structure.

Since new revenue dollars are not expected, analysts project that the technical college system will be required to reduce its budget by over $20 million. This can only be accomplished by closing campuses, colleges or programs. The impact on students and Minnesota businesses and industry will be traumatic.

- Finally, technical education requires differential funding. Most programs have special laboratories and equipment, which by their very nature, emulate those founding industries, offices, businesses, and health facilities of future employers. A merger of the three systems will seriously jeopardize this differential funding.

Given our serious concerns over the impact of the mega-merger on Northwest Technical College, the Northwest Technical College board felt compelled to take action," said Jerome Flottemesch, NTC board chair. "The mission and goals of post-secondary technical education are distinctive from programs in other higher education systems. The mega-merger seriously threatens our ability to fulfill our mission," said Jim Smalley, NTC board member.

During the coming weeks, members of the board, in collaboration with the NTC Chapter-Minnesota Federation of Teachers, will be meeting with area legislators to solicit their support. "MFT will continue to express our serious concern about the effects of this merger," says Karen Sollom, chair, MFT/NTC. "We urge anyone to contact legislators about this issue. The very unique role and needs of technical education in Minnesota are being threatened."

"If this merger takes place, we may find that we will have to rebuild our technical education system within 10 years. We cannot dismantle such an efficient educational system. Yes, it needs some improvements, but such a radical and costly change in governance is not appropriate or a progressive solution," stated Curt Borgen, vice-chair of the NTC board.

Anderson Power & Equipment shows growth and development

In 1988, 12,300 feet was added to Anderson Power and Equipment to make room for Hardware Hank. Anderson Power & Equipment and Hardware Hank employ 25 people in Thief River Falls. It is the featured business in this issue of The Times.

In terms of the history of Thief River Falls, Anderson Power & Equipment is relatively new. Though a relatively new business, it has shown significant growth and change in its short history.

In November of 1972 T& S Implement, located on North Davis avenue and currently the site of Thief River Linen, was purchased and became Anderson Power and Equipment. Cecil Anderson started with one mechanic and Cecil filled in as partsman/salesman/bookkeeper and general manager.

In 1977 Anderson Power and Equipment moved to its present location on Highway 59 in a 11,200 square foot building on a 14 acre parcel of land.

In 1978, Anderson opened a Hardware Hank store in a leased

Peterson wants disclosure for MTBE in gasoline

Citing potential health risks, Congressman Collin Peterson has called upon oil companies to fully inform consumers of fuel additives by labeling MTBE content at the pump.

"Consumers have the right to make informed choices regarding the type of gasoline they buy and the potential health hazards," said Congressman Peterson. "A recent analysis by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has discovered significant traces of MTBE or its metabolite in the blood of workers and commuters exposed to MTBE blends have reported headaches, nausea, vomiting and dizziness."

"Oil companies currently are required to notify consumers when gasoline is blended with ethanol," Peterson continued. "Both ethanol and MTBE are being used in oxygenated fuels programs required under the Clean Air Act. I think consumers should have the right to choose between these two additives."

MTBE, which is short for methyl tertiary butyl ether, is used as both an oxygenate and an octane enhancer by many oil companies. It is produced from natural gas.

The study by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) was initiated at the request of Alaska Governor Wally Hickel. Hickel requested the study when citizens of Fairbanks, which has implemented an oxygenated fuel program in mid-October using 15% MTBE blends, started complaining of headaches, nausea, vomiting and dizziness. Scientists from CDC did identify elevated blood levels of MTBE and its metabolite, tertiary butyl alcohol, in the blood of the 18 study participants. The scientists also detected MTBE in their own blood during the time they were in Alaska. They had shown no traces of MTBE prior to arriving in the state. Hickel suspended the oxygenated fuel program in mid-December 1992.

"Clearly the issue of acute health risks from exposure to MTBE blended fuels needs to be studied further," commented Peterson. "I hope additional studies can be conducted this winter and applaud Senator Harkin for holding a hearing on this issue. However, I believe it is also important that consumers be aware of the additives in the fuel they purchase. Two years ago, the National Conference of Weights and Measures issued guidelines for labeling MTBE at the pumps. Only 13 states have adopted the requirements because of intense opposition by the oil companies."

"If we can require labels for ethanol, we can certainly require labels for MTBE," Peterson concluded. "Ethanol is grain alcohol; you can drink it. And because of pump labels, consumers know it's in the gasoline they buy. I dare anyone to drink a glass of MTBE. Shouldn't consumers know it's in their fuel?"

Refractive Surgery Can Dramatically Enhance Your Eyesight, So You're Much Less Dependent on Glasses or Contacts.

Glasses and Contacts Can Be a Hassle. Nearsightedness, farsightedness, and astigmatism affect more than 100 million people in North America ... and the quality of their lives. So, if you're tired of wearing glasses or contacts for cosmetic reasons or because of lifestyle or job limitations, Refractive Surgery may be worth looking into.

Refractive Surgery Works to Correct the Cause of Vision Problems. Refractive Surgery has been designed to correct nearsightedness. The precise microsurgery works by changing the shape of the cornea, thus correcting the way the eye focuses light. The 20 minute outpatient procedure can correct vision to 20/40 or better in 90% of the cases, and it's virtually painless. In fact, most patients return to work in two to three days. Even more reassuring is the fact that nearly 1,000,000 surgeries have been performed nationwide.

Consultative Ophthalmology, Refractive & Laser Surgery

"I chose to have Refractive Surgery because I couldn't wear contacts ... and I like the way I look without glasses."

A World-Renowned Refractive Eye Surgeon in the North Country. Dr. Richard L. Lindstrom is widely regarded as a leader in corneal, cataract, refractive, and laser eye surgery. And now, select Eye Specialists in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota are able to offer Dr. Lindstrom's world-class Refractive Surgery services to their patients.

Is Refractive Surgery Right for You? To find out more about Refractive Surgery, you or a family member may want to attend a free information seminar. ## Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

How to worship God

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

How does God want to be worshiped (Rev. 14:7)?

God wants us to worship Him in a certain way. This way is by practicing kindness one to another and being honest in all our dealings. He wants us to continue living this Way, waiting for the return of Jesus Christ (Hosea 12:6). He wants us to do good instead of practicing evil so God will be with us (Amos 5:14-15).

God has told us what He considers good. Yes, this is to practice kindness and honesty, to walk as God walks, and stay humble and teachable (Micah 6:8, Eph. 5:1).

God continually warned His people in the past to dispense true justice—be honest in all dealings with men—and practice kindness and compassion toward others. He told them to take care of the widows and orphans in the land. He told them to make sure they did not oppress the stranger (one who is of a different nationality) in their land. God wants equal opportunity for each man, so He said not to devise evil toward another person (Zech. 7:9-10).

People of the past would not change. Instead, they made their hearts like flint. They would not practice righteousness daily toward their fellow man for God! God sent His prophets to warn the people to change and to practice righteousness. This was the everlasting gospel of the prophets, and it was the message that got them stoned (Heb. 4:2, 11:35-37, Rev. 6:9).

The way that a man should live is not in himself (Jer. 10:23). His heart is desperately wicked (Jer. 17:9). Instead, we are to trust in God and not lean on our own understanding (Prov. 3:5-6). We are to acknowledge Him in all our ways, saying, "If the Lord wills" (James 4:15).

Pray to Him! Depend on Him! Put your faith in Him! Live for Him! Talk like Him! Walk like Him! Sing songs to Him. This is how you show your love to Him! This is how you truly worship Him in Spirit and in truth (John 4:23-24). This is true worship of God.

Farming Challenges For The Year 2000

GUEST EDITORIAL
by Linda Hanson
Member Penn-Mar-Red Chapter
Minnesota Agri-Women

The year 2000 is a brief seven years away and farmers are anticipating, researching and implementing the production, education and environmental practices that significant milestone will bring.

Farmers now and in 2000 will need to be educated, politically active and prepared to view their operation as a business that integrates with, is influenced by and influences the world. Environmental concerns, consumer education and research focusing on profitability rather than productivity will be some of agriculture's leading priorities leading to 2000.

Educating the public about agriculture, its influence on their lives, how it operates and the quality of the product produced may be the single most important issue farming faces. Too rarely and not loudly enough do we proclaim that we represent 16 per cent of America's GNP, that one out of every six jobs depends on agriculture (that's 21 million, mostly off-farm) every $1 in farm exports generates $3 to the U.S. economy and we, too, are consumers! Agriculture is the nation's largest industry. Using that power and our own skills to enlighten consumers is mandatory for success in 2000.

The impact of environmental organizations will no doubt continue to grow. Public perception of agriculture's role in environmental practices will encourage the efforts of non-traditional entities to guide farm policy. Farmers will need to stay constantly updated on and prepared to respond to this public awareness. While it will be important to counteract radical and extremely costly regulations, producers must also respond cooperatively to these concerns.

Production agriculture, to combat low profit margins, will look toward research aimed at profitability rather than increased productivity. Already researchers are outlining and implementing projects that will find ways to utilize current production more effectively.

Development of new products from current agricultural commodities to meet the demands of health conscious consumers, genetic engineering to reduce the need for chemicals on crops, use of municipal wastes on agricultural lands and breeding alternative crops that fill new niches in the food and fiber cycle are being studied.

Agriculture's efficiency and productivity has been rooted in its willingness to take risks, openness to new ideas and skillful management. Success in 2000 will be reflected not only in these virtues but in willingness to cooperate and the skillful education of a public far removed from the realities of agriculture.

Entertainment Galore At Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center

Area residents looking for weekend entertainment will need to go no further than the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls the next two weekends. Skaters take the spotlight this Saturday and Sunday, March 20 and 21, followed by the Home, Sport and Family Show March 27 and 28.

Thief River Falls Recreational Skating Association is the sponsor of the annual ice skating show which involves countless hours of preparation and work by many volunteers as well as the skating professionals who provide skating instruction to the young people putting on the show.

Each year the "Fantasy on Ice" skating show marks the end of the recreational skating season. Most of the youngsters who participate in the various classes during the year have an opportunity to show what they have learned by signing up and being part of a show group. A number of enthusiasts who have taken individual lessons through the Thief River Falls Skating Club are also given a chance to showcase their talents and skating development with solo or duet numbers.

This year the show has 30 separate numbers under the overall "Mardi Gras" theme. A special guest appearance will be made by Lynnae Broten, a long-time participant in the local skating program, a professional ice show skater for a short time, currently an instructor of local skaters and the reigning Miss Thief River Falls. Local precision lines will also perform. Show times will be Saturday at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. Tickets at $3 for adults, $2 for children in grades 6-12 and $1 for children in kindergarten through fifth grade are available in advance from Hugo's Supermarket, Kezar Music or Ekeren Drug. They will be 50 cents higher at the door.

When the ice show ends, city crews will shut down the compressors and the civic center floor will be readied for the first Thief River Falls Times' Home, Sport and Family Show the next Saturday and Sunday, March 27 and 28. Show times will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for children age seven through 16.

The show will have approximately 80 exhibitors and include a wide variety of items with something of interest to all members of the family.

When you make your weekend plans for the next couple of weeks, include at least a couple of visits to the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

This letter is in response to a March 10 letter to the editor submitted by Phyllis Lane.

The U.S. Postal Service has found it necessary to establish a snow removal policy for two very good reasons, these being delivery efficiency and safety for the carriers. In addition to shoveling their walks from the street to the mailbox, patrons are required to shovel their public sidewalks to the property lines. (This is also a city ordinance in Thief River Falls.)

Hopefully the people who don't have public sidewalks now will have them in the near future. A significant number of walking miles are eliminated each winter by walking on the sidewalks as opposed to going clear out to the street and back to each delivery. This saves time and money for the postal service during the peak mail volume period which covers the winter months.

Safety is also a vital concern as the streets are generally more slippery. This is further complicated by the ruts caused by more frequent thawing and freezing. Sharing the street with motor vehicles is a hazard compounded during winter conditions by the slippery surface and the difficulty hearing these vehicles. With the wind blowing and our ears covered, the smooth-running cars of today are upon us before we know it in many instances.

The shoveling policy is made jointly by the letter carriers' union and the delivery supervisor, subject to approval by the postmaster. The carrier is required to follow the policy set down for him. Each delivery that isn't in compliance with the policy is left a notice outlining the areas that need attention. Phyllis Lane's mother received two such notices before her mail delivery was stopped.

Once delivery is stopped, the mail is put into the hold mail slot at each letter carrier's case. Separate shovel notices outlining the reason for curtailment are put in with it so that the individuals that handle the hold mail will know why the mail was held if asked. These are the notices that Ms. Lane found mixed in with her mother's mail. The carriers do not handle the hold mail after it leaves their case.

Many people leave for the winter and hold their mail so it's not unusual for one person to have a large amount of mail on hold. Others who have had their delivery stopped for non-compliance with the shovel policy just pick their mail up at the post office. Some patrons have their mail held all winter under these circumstances.

Ms. Lane's mother is now getting delivery, but not under the same circumstances as before. Her public sidewalks are shoveled to the property lines in accordance with city ordinances.

A heartfelt thanks from the letter carriers for the effort and understanding shown by making our job safer and more efficient during this past winter.

Sincerely,
The TRF Letter Carriers
NALC Branch 1418

Victory Gardens To Be Discussed

"A victory garden conference for Pennington county has been called for Saturday afternoon at the court room in the court house in Thief River Falls. In announcing the conference County Agent Ernest Palmer is inviting in all agencies and groups that can be of service in assisting in an improved garden program. ### Worst Storm of Winter Hits NW This Week

"Striking Monday on the anniversary of the disastrous storm of Mar. 15, 1941, the worst blizzard and snow storm of the winter hit the Thief River Falls area and the entire northwest. A fall of eleven inches of snow was reported on the power plant gauge, most of it falling late Monday and continuing through Wednesday. The snow was accompanied by high winds which piled it into huge drifts, completely blocking highways and streets. Bus and truck traffic was halted by the storm and the Great Northern train did not leave Crookston either day."

10,770 Copies of Ration Book Issued

"A total of 10,770 copies of War Ration Book 2 were issued during the recent registration conducted in the schools of Pennington county, it was announced this week by Supt. Morris Bye, county administrator of the registration, following receipt of final reports. A total of 30,240 coffee stamps were taken from books of children who are not eligible for coffee rations, and 220 coffee stamps were taken from books of adults who had excess supplies on hand."

Boy Scout Notes

"The Boy Scout troops are promoting inter-patrol competition. Troop 60 has started a baseball tourney in which each batter quotes a scout law as it is called. Each batter has three chances to make a perfect quotation and three men out retires that patrol and the next patrol goes to bat. The score now stands at a tie with one run each. The game will continue until one side has run up twenty scores. Troop 47 has a contest in handicraft and the losing patrol will give a party for the winners."

STATE OF MINNESOTA [illegible] DISTRICT COURT
COUNTY OF PENNINGTON [illegible] NINTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

TO: ALL PERSONS WITH A LEGAL INTEREST IN THE PARCELS OF REAL PROPERTY DESCRIBED IN THE FOLLOWING DELINQUENT TAX LIST

A list of real property in Pennington County on which delinquent property taxes and penalties are due has been filed with the Court Administrator of Pennington County. This list is published to inform all persons that the listed property is subject to forfeiture because of delinquent taxes.

The property owner, taxpayer, or other interested person must either pay the tax and penalty or file a written objection with the Court Administrator. The objection must be filed by April [illegible], 1993 stating the reason why the tax or penalty is not due on the property. If no objection is filed, a court judgment will be entered against the property for the unpaid tax, penalty, interest and costs.

For property [illegible] judgment, the period of redemption begins on May [illegible] 1993 and ends three or five years later depending on the type of property and where it is located. The period of redemption means the time within which taxes must be paid to avoid losing the property through forfeiture.

Tech colleges offer regional custom services

Formation of a regionalized custom educational services unit dedicated to the development and advancement of custom training of individuals, businesses and industry has been announced by Dr. Ray Cross, president and CEO of Northwest Technical College.

The new unit will merge the program development and marketing operations while retaining program delivery and customer service activities at the campuses in Bemidji, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Moorhead, Thief River Falls and Wadena.

Mary Eaton, former dean of the Bemidji campus custom training and services unit, will serve as vice president of the new regional unit.

Eaton said that the initial focus will be directed toward fulfilling employer/individual needs in four areas: (1) Upgrading and re-education of current employees; (2) educational enhancement for individual career alternatives; (3) re-education of dislocated employees, and (4) training partnerships with business and industries unable to maintain internal resources.

"The mission of the newly formed regional custom education services unit will be to provide client-sensitive, quality-focused, consulting and educational services to business and industry," Eaton said. "The regional formation will reduce administrative costs while expanding services within northwestern Minnesota.

"Training programs or services formerly available at one of the campuses will soon be available at all six," she said. "The regional unit will also permit greater use of the expertise available on all six campuses."

Eaton added that several staffing positions within the new unit must be filled within the next two months before the unit will be able to provide expanded services throughout northwestern Minnesota.

Agenda set for Project 2000 meeting set for March 30

The six national/state goals for Project 2000 involve learning readiness, high school graduation rate, mastery of academic and complex thinking skills, science and math achievement, literacy and responsible citizenship and drug and violence free schools. Goals for Thief River Falls will be developed from the state and national goals. Interested citizens are encouraged to attend the meeting.

Scout drive collects 1 1/2 tons of food

Nearly 3,100 pounds of food were collected Saturday for the Thief River Falls area food shelf by local Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts, according to Rick Woodruff, chairman of the drive.

Minnesota Food Share will match each pound of food collected during the month of March, Woodruff said, and that is why the scouts were enlisted to assist in the total community effort. He added that the cold, wind and snow of the past week made the delivery of food bags to area houses "a little challenging."

Arlene Swenson, director of the food shelf, expressed her sincere appreciation to the scouts, their leaders and all who donated food to make the drive a success. She also reaffirmed appreciation to all the local and area churches which support the food shelf on a year-around basis.

Retired senior volunteers find rewards in RSVP

Some of the busiest and most productive times in a person's life can occur after retirement. Area participants of Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) are looking for volunteers to share their special talents.

RSVP volunteers bring a community of talents to help solve local problems affecting their own neighborhoods — from arranging transportation for a homebound person living on a farm in rural Montana to providing respite to foster parents of HIV-infected babies in California.

RSVP is for anyone 60-years-old or older, retired, and who feel they would like to balance leisure with service that means something special.

RSVP volunteers serve through non-profit private and public community organizations. There are no education, experience nor income requirements. After volunteers choose an activity that suits their interests, they receive a brief orientation from the RSVP staff and additional instruction, supervision and support at their volunteer sites.

RSVP volunteers are covered by accident and liability insurance while on assignment. They also receive help with incidental expenses incurred while volunteering, such as transportation.

The reward most often cited, however, is the feeling of satisfaction that comes from sharing one's time and talents with others.

Virginia Hanson of Thief River Falls and Marion Gusa of Middle River are just two of the many people from the region who serve on the advisory council for RSVP. Virginia said the group meets six times a year, generally every other month on the third Thursday at the University of Minnesota at Crookston. Anyone interested in participating in RSVP is welcome to attend. Harl Gamber of Crookston is the director of the program, and Julie Aenenson of Climax is the chairman.

RSVP volunteers have great flexibility. Sometimes they elect to continue in their professional fields — with the freedom to set their own schedules and give as many or as few hours as they wish. They may provide management and consultant services to non-profit agencies, legal and consumer advice to low-income families, supplemental nursing services to the frail elderly.

RSVP members serve in a number of ways including: caring for developmentally disabled adults,

Already leaders, Naplins study leadership

Mark and Michelle Naplin, county King Agassiz couple, participate in Red River Valley Emerging Leadership program

The Mark and Michelle Naplin family of rural Red Lake Falls includes 10-year-old daughter Kristin and eight-year-old son Bradley.

Michelle Naplin finds the computer program for farm record keeping can be valuable as a time-saver as well as compiling information on the farm operation.

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

As the Pennington County King Agassiz couple, Mark and Michelle Naplin of rural Red Lake Falls have been participating in the Red River Valley Emerging Leadership program along with 15 other couples from the Red River Valley Winter Shows area. The Naplins agree that it is both an enjoyable and educational experience.

Officially named Pennington County King Agassiz couple at the county fair in Thief River Falls last July, Mark and Michelle represented the county at the Winter Shows in Crookston in February.

Although it is recognized that county King Agassiz participants have already exhibited leadership capabilities, the Emerging Leadership Program was started in 1985 with a grant from the Otto Bremer Foundation. It was based on the idea that effective leadership can be learned and that leaders grow into positions of leadership, motivated by a sense of responsibility for themselves and their communities.

Coordinating the program this year are Howard Person and Deb Zak, Pennington county extension educators; Janelle Klinke, district extension office representative; Harlow Grove, member of the Winter Shows board and past King Agassiz; Nancy Frosaker-Johnson, Clay county extension educator; and Lynne Mullins, faculty member at the University of Minnesota in Crookston.

The program is supported through the University of Minnesota extension service, University of Minnesota—Crookston and the Red River Valley Development Association as well as tuition paid by current participants and funds raised by past participants.

First session was held in January at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. It involved getting acquainted with the participants, learning about working with the news media and developing communication skills.

February session was at the Winter Shows and University of Minnesota—Crookston. Couples attended a marketing seminar, an ethics in education class presented via interactive television and a workshop on Myers-Briggs type Indicators. The couples were honored at the Winter Shows awards banquet February 13.

March session was the recently completed program held in St. Paul where the couples learned about citizen politics and media relations at the Humphrey Institute, met with area legislators at the State Capitol, attended the University of Minnesota farm family recognition banquet and participated in county extension day on campus.

A graduation program will be held in April.

While the Naplins enjoyed the sessions for their content, they also appreciated the opportunity to meet and get to know the other couples in the program. And they had a chance to renew some acquaintances:

Terry and Theresa McCollum are the Mahnomen county King Agassiz couple and Theresa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kotaska of Thief River Falls; Tom and Diane Kolstoe are the Red Lake county King Agassiz couple and Diane is one of Mark's high school classmates; and Richard and DeEtte Anderson are the Kittson county King Agassiz couple and Richard's sister was a former student of Michelle in the LPN program at the Thief River Falls Technical College.

The Naplin family has been farming in the Polk Centre and Black River township areas of Pennington county for 111 years, ever since Svan Naplin arrived in 1882. Svan's son Carl carried on the farm operation, then passed it to his son Edgar. Mark and Charles, Edgar's sons, were the fourth generation to farm in the area. Mark bought out his brother Charles' interest in the operation two years ago.

Mark and Michelle now farm about 3,000 acres of land they either own or rent. The annual operation includes about 1,800 acres of wheat, 700 acres of barley, 400 to 500 acres of oilseed sunflowers and about 30 acres of alfalfa hay. They have on-farm storage for about 100,000 bushels of grain.

For the past 10 years or so they

In the farm shop, converted from a dairy barn, Mark Naplin and his son Bradley do some repair work on their Steiger four-wheel drive tractor. The shop has a concrete floor, insulated walls and ceiling, metal exterior and is heated with an outdoor wood-burning stove which also supplies hot water for heating the farm home. Mark says he is partial to the Steiger tractors which were originated about a mile from his present farmstead.

The Thief River Falls Eagles auxiliary #2368 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles celebrated its 43rd anniversary with a ceremonial program for the charter members and past presidents. The regular meeting was also held and a potluck supper was served along with a decorated anniversary cake. Shown here are past presidents (front row, left to right- Dorothy Poolman, Ella Larson, June Holmstrom, Edna McEnally, Helen Brandt and Pat Beauchane; and (back row, left to right) Caroline Lee, Romona Grovan, Sandy Sunsdahl, Dorothy Chapman and Pat Anenson.

March is Woman's History month. There are many women in history who deserve to be recognized as playing significant roles in the lives of women. Those who marched for the right for women to vote are among those in our history who should be lauded. Those who have helped women's health issues to be considered worthy of research are also to be lauded. Those women who have stood their ground for their ideals, whatever they might have been, deserve to be lauded.

Today's women are much different from the women of even a generation ago. Today's woman is more apt to be holding a job as well as raising a family. The woman of today is not typically the stay at home wife and mother. The woman of today is sometimes stressed by all of the responsibility she feels from her employment and her family.

Today's woman, though, needs only to look at the women in her history to gain a feel for the various types of needs and callings that women have met throughout the years. If today's woman would compare herself to her mother, she would find that times have changed, but that much remains the same. My mother had the same type of feelings and longings for herself and her children as I do today. We may meet the demands of life differently, but the feelings remain similar.

The woman of yesterday did her own sewing and baking and gardening. Today's woman has the convenience of modern machines. She may still knit—but with a knitting machine. She may still bake bread—but with a bread machine. And if she has any time to spare, she may garden—but not usually to raise the family's food.

The woman of yesterday was often dependent on the man in the family to bring home the money for the family's needs. Today's woman shares in this responsibility. This sharing of financial responsibility has created a woman who does not feel quite so dependent on another for her daily household needs. This feeling of independence creates a woman who is able to share her opinions more readily and with a sense of equality.

Yet, for as much as society has changed and with its change, the role of women has changed, society has also remained unchanged. There is still discrimination in our society. There is still the double standard of equal work but not equal pay. There are still issues dear to many women which have been ignored by society.

Yet, we women need only to look at the historical treatment of women in many societies to see that the treatment of women today in our modern society is a vast improvement. Changes still need to be made. We can notice the need for change when we participate in simple sales transactions and the man is spoken to while the woman is ignored. There is a long way to go before we are truly seen as individuals. I remember a time in the past 4 years when I was denied the privilege of leading a ladies Bible study because my husband was a pastor. I was not seen as an individual, but only as if my worth and identity depended solely on another's.

Time moves slowly. As time continues, our society changes. The roles all of us play also change. Yet there are some constants. All of us, men, women, children, have feelings. As we struggle for our places in this constantly changing society, we can only hope that the roles we play will see that those around us, and also ourselves, are treated so rightly that feelings are not hurt. The women of history strived to heal hurt feelings with their marches and their baked goods and their kind words. We women can also lend comfort to hurt feelings as we too stand up for our ideals and as we comfort one another in ways common to our modern society.

Look at the women in your family history. Learn from them. Strive to better your world even as many of them strived in their own ways to better their world.

. . . Which Flu Bug Hit You?

Everyone who has had the flu bug, raise your hand, if you can.

Several types of flu bugs have struck the area with a vengeance this year, mowing down entire families and leaving them weak and trembling for weeks afterward.

One of the bad things about these flu bugs floating around is that the symptoms are so varied. Persons can't be sure whether they have one of the flu bugs or not.

A person gets sick. The first few days, the person is so sick that he or she doesn't think about anything other than resting. After a few days of rest, however, the worrying sets in. "Do I have one of the flu bugs that are going around? Do I have something worse? Why am I not getting better? Why am I hurting (insert place you are hurting here__________)? Why am I starting to (insert problem, such as coughing, barfing, aching, here __________)."

Then the person gets even sicker worrying about whether or not he or she is really having one of the various flu bugs (one of those that normally will get better with rest, aspirin and lots of liquids), or having some other more serious illness (something really bad that they should see a doctor about right away).

It seems like everyone has a different type of flu. Some people have combinations of various types of flu. Nearly everyone I know has had some type of flu or another. Here are some types of flu bugs I know about.

—There is a cold-type flu. This flu has all of the symptoms of a very bad head cold, sneezing, running nose, coughing, scratchy throat, aching sinuses, itching eyes. People with this flu bug usually try to keep on with their daily work, but carry around a bag filled with assorted medications and other items, such as their own personal tissues, cough drops, aspirin and packages of hot drink mixes. Some of them carry honey and lemons which they squirt into their mouth at the least provocation.

—There is a respiratory type flu. This flu has the hacking cough that keeps a person awake all night and coughing all day. These people are the ones who have humidifiers running under their desks, if they can make it to work at all.

—There is the sore throat flu bug. If you are having this flu, your throat is so sore that it makes your tongue and teeth hurt, too. People who have this flu make funny faces when they swallow.

—There is the tummy flu. This is the flu bug that makes you spend most of your time in the little room down the hall. People with this flu have been known to carry Puffs Extra Soft with Lotion tissue and buckets with them as they run down the hall to the little room and then run back up the hall to collapse on their beds.

—There is the Achy-Breaky flue. If you have this flu, your entire body aches all over. Your body aches in places you didn't even know you had. You feel as if all of your bones were broken (thus the name, "Achy-Breaky"). People who have this flu eat aspirin like candy.

—Then there are combinations of the above flu bugs. Can't you just visualize those little bugs mutating and multiplying and growing ever more vicious inside of your pathetic, suffering, rundown body?

—Last of all, and worst of all, I have heard of more than one poor soul, me included, getting better and then, suddenly, getting whatever they had right back again.

My family at home, contrary as ever, had three different types and combinations of flu. One had the respiratory-type of flu, one had the cold and sore throat, and I had the tummy flu, naturally. Along with the tummy flu, I had the Achy-Breaky flu. I was flat on my back with these bugs for a week. Then I went back to work for four days and was hit by the same flu bugs again, with exactly the same symptoms.

Take heart if you have one or more of the flu bugs, though. I think you will get better—eventually. I think I have gotten better. I sure hope I am getting better and don't get it all back a third time, because I have finally dared to stop carrying around my bucket and Puffs everywhere I go.

Reader writes of artist Della Zeh

(Editor's Note: After a notice of the March 1993 art exhibit of Della Zeh's paintings appeared in The Times, a letter to the Thief River Falls Zehlians club was sent by Viola Loftness O'Day of Moorhead. The Zehlians club, a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and the local chapter of the American Association of University Women sponsored the Zeh art exhibit at the Thief River Falls public library for Women's History Month. The following is excerpted from Mrs. O'Day's letter.)

Della Zeh was a good friend of mine for a short period of time. It was accidental that I met her. My youngest sister, Bernice Loftness, was being married in August of 1936 in Trinity Lutheran Church to George Elstad, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Ole Elstad. After the service, the reception was held at our home four miles north of Thief River Falls.

We had many people helping with the preliminaries. We had a large yard and we had tables under the trees. We were decorating with garden flowers; we had a lot of flower beds—beautiful flowers that time of year, but there was some particular one we wanted. Someone told me Della Zeh had that in her garden, so after lunch I drove to her place in Thief River. It seems to me it was south of Lincoln high school toward the park that was by the river.

Her flower gardens were beautiful. We went from one thing to another. "You must have tea with me," (she invited). Afterwards it was getting late and I had to go. She said, "You'll come back and see me," and I promised I would come after the wedding and tell her all about it.

That was the beginning of frequent visits—she was a delighful person. I learned she had been an art teacher in Pomona College, California. I remember her house very well. It seems there wasn't any step outside her front door; we walked directly from the sidewalk to her living room. The room was beautiful in dark hues, with a fireplace at the end and comfortable chairs by the fire - a copper teakettle hanging from a rod at the end of the fireplace. Everything seemed purposeful which was part of the charm of the room, plus many of her sculptures and paintings. She would fondle each piece as she told the story and incidents connected to the creation of each piece. I was enchanted.

Not only were her interests in sculpture and painting but also in reading and writing poetry. She had long—well, tall—windows in her living room that extended to the ceiling. There were no shades, curtains nor drapes. She would say, "No, no, such would shut out the beautiful outdoors—flowers, birds, the puffy clouds."

Fall came far too soon. I was teaching upper grades in the [illegible] ville school at Warren. Now my weekends were limited to occasional ones. Fridays after school I'd drive to Thief River and stop for a visit with Della before going home.

I remember one early evening I came to her house. It was raining quite hard. She met me at the door. "I thought that you would come tonight. The tea is ready. I have crumpets."

Then she'd look out the window at the rain as the lights came on one by one in the town, flickering through the drops. "Isn't it beautiful? What shall we read tonight?" With books in our laps, she'd suddenly say, "Could anything be nicer than this?"

I continued visiting her home the rest of 1936 and 1937. I kept two notebooks. She'd give me poems and other verse she had written. Sometimes she'd dare to say, "What have you written lately?" I was pretty reluctant to show her, but she was generous. I remember she gave me one of her copper pieces. I don't remember what it was nor where it is.

The fall of 1937 I went to Moorhead and was supervisor of student teaching for MSU for the next three years, then the next years I was in California. I sort of lost track of Della Zeh. I was always going back. I didn't even know when she passed away...

Dear Readers,
Some people feel that visitations are an unnecessary hardship for the family. Death is devastating, however, once it has happened, it is a fact. There are no short-cuts to make things easier. The visitation provides an outpouring of love from family and friends, and gives emotional support so needed at this time. There is comfort in knowing grief is shared. Do not take the values of visitation lightly.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

County history society seeking new members

Pennington County Historical Society is undertaking a membership campaign to strengthen the base of the organization and provide additional operational funds, according to Bill Dee, recently-elected president of the organization.

"Although the society has been operational and is heavily involved in operation of the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village, there has been little emphasis on membership for some time," Dee said. "As a result, the number of dues-paying members has declined and the board feels a revitalization is necessary."

Dee said he is sure that there is a high degree of interest in Pennington county history among the residents of the county and that many people would be willing to support the historical society if invited to do so. It is the only organization devoted solely to preserving the artifacts and history of Pennington county, he emphasized.

"The pioneer village and the county museum are evidence of interest and support by residents of the county over the years," he added. "The new machinery building completed last year through a donation from former resident Ralph Engelstad of Las Vegas, Nevada, is a valuable addition to the village and evidence that interest in county history continues, even among those who have moved from the area."

Dee said that an open invitation is being made to interested people to become members of the county historical society and support its operations. Membership for calendar 1993 has been set at $10 for individuals, $18 for families and $20 for businesses. An advertisement with a return form for membership is published in this issue of The Times.

Program features business success

Success stories about retaining local business will be the focus of an interactive satellite program presented at the Red Lake County Courthouse in Red Lake Falls from 6:45 to 9:30 p.m. on April 22.

George Morse, a University of Minnesota extension economist, will host the program, one of a series produced by the Illinois Institute for Rural Affairs.

Morse directs the Business Retention and Expansion Strategies (BR & E) program, which seeks to help local communities keep existing businesses thriving and expanding.

The audience will have a chance to ask questions during the program and a panel of people from several other states will talk about their own successful experiences using the BR & E program.

Seven counties in Minnesota (Fillmore, Sibley, Chisago, Redwood, Pope, Marshall and Cass) have participated in pilot BR & E programs.

The program consists of trained local volunteers visiting local businesses. During these visits local leaders ask firms about obstacles to expansion and ways that the community might help them grow.

Participants in the satellite presentation will receive a workbook to help them address business retention concerns in their community.

The registration fee for the satellite program is $25 for individuals and $15 each for groups of four or more who register together. To register, request a form from the Pennington county extension office. Registration deadline is April 9.

Society sponsors poster/essay contest

The Marshall County Temperance Society is sponsoring its annual poster and essay contest.

This year's theme is "Choose Life not Drugs." The word drugs includes tobacco and alcohol, as well as other types of drugs. Entrants may pick one or more types of drugs as an essay or poster topic.

The society has notified Marshall county churches and public schools of the contest.

There are two age categories for posters: grades 4-8 and 9-12. Prizes awarded in each category are $25 for first place; $15, second; and $10, third.

In essays there are three categories: grades 4-6, 7-9 and 10-12. Instruction sheets give the minimum word lengths for each category. First place winners in each category receive $30; second, $20; and third, $10.

Participants can submit the poster or essay at a Marshall county church or school for collection by a society board member.

The contest will end April 15 and awards in the contest will be given at the annual meeting of the society on Sunday, May 2, 2:30 p.m. at the Newfolden Community Center.

Medical center hosts doll clinic

The clinic is open to children ages 4 to 5 who are eligible to start kindergarten in fall 1993 and their parents.

The clinic will be located at the Thief River Falls Early Childhood Center in the ECFE and Nursery School Areas.

There will also be X-rays on display, a handwashing demonstration, an ambulance and police car, other activities and handouts for children and parents.

The purpose of the event is to make clinic or hospital visits more familiar for children and to meet people who work there.

The clinic is free. To preregister or for more information call ECFE at 681-8670 by Monday, March 29. This event is sponsored by Northwest Medical Center and the TRF Learning Readiness Program SD 564.

THE "FORGOTTEN" COVERAGE

Boiler and Machinery coverage is often times the "forgotten" coverage when it comes to business insurance.

Your basic property policy excludes damage to your property that is the result of a steam boiler explosion.

The State requires periodic inspections of certain types of boiler equipment—inspections for which the owner is charged.

Northern State Agency represents Western National Insurance Company, a company that specializes in Boiler & Machinery coverage. The companies inspectors are licensed by the State to make the legally required inspections. The inspection cost is built into the premium, thus saving the State inspection fee.

A boiler and machinery policy can provide protection for your boiler equipment, refrigeration equipment, electrical apparatus, and your other property that is damaged as a result of the boiler explosion.

For more information regarding Boiler & Machinery coverage, and your other insurance needs, contact NORTHERN STATE AGENCY. Our office is located in the Northern State Bank building. Hours are 8:30 - 4:30 Mon. - Fri.; 8:30-6:00 Thurs.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Children's Concert

Children and music seem to be natural friends. They not only enjoy listening and singing, but they also learn through songs and singing. They can learn some basic school readiness skills, language and appreciation for music.

The problem is that many parents and adults do not know the songs that are appropriate for children or do not remember them from their own childhood. There are several ways to solve this problem. One is to visit the public library. They not only have wonderful books, but also tapes and records that you can check out and enjoy.

Children's performers are going to be in Thief River Falls on Thursday evening at the Franklin middle school gym. This will be a good time to learn the songs that children enjoy, but also a wonderful opportunity to enjoy an evening with your child.

(Contributed by Discovery Place child care center.)

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need colored paper, scissors and paste or glue.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse throught the new selection of children's books, including the following, that are sure to cheer and delight:

Jewell, Nancy. Two Silly Trolls. Follow the adventures of Nip and Tuck as they make foolish mistakes but always manage to fix them, together.

Johnston, Tony. Grandpa's Song. When Grandpa lets loose with his favorite songs, the whole house shakes. But then comes a day when Grandpa forgets the words: now it's up to the grandchildren to carry the tune.

VIDEO VARIETY

Silly Stories and Scary Tales. Captain Kangaroo's tales of mischief and mayhem will excite kids everywhere, while driving home a message or two about goodness.

PARENTING TIPS

Teaching By Example

Parents are a child's first teachers and role models. Usually children are more affected by what their parents do than by what they say. They learn to behave by seeing how their mothers and fathers behave and following their example. For this reason, you may need to be aware of the "lessons" you may unintentionally be teaching your children.

Social skills and attitudes are often best taught by example. A child will learn good manners more easily when "please" and "thank you" are part of a daily life and not just used on special occasions. The learning is gradual and occurs more naturally at home.

Consistency is also very important. If you teach your child one thing but then behave in an opposite way yourself, your child will become confused and frustrated as to what and whom to believe. Suppose a five-year-old is caught hitting another five-year-old. His parent tells him that he must not hit people and then gives him a spanking as punishment. The parent's action is inconsistent with the message and the child doesn't know whether to believe the words or the actions.

'Monkey see, monkey do' certainly describes how young children learn. Because they lack prior knowledge and skills, they eagerly look for someone to imitate. That someone is usually one or both of their parents. So parents should be aware of what message the child is getting. Is it the one you want him to have?

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about what you want your child to do then make sure your actions are consistent with your wishes.

The demonstration was given to several classes at the Goodridge school Wednesday during an Ag Week observance. Strong showed how a dangling weight swings forward on impact to lock the seat belt in place and prevent the wearer from being thrown forward by the force of a collision.

Peterson introduces bill to reduce congressional pay

Legislation to reduce Congressional pay by five per cent has been introduced by Congressman Collin Peterson of Minnesota's Seventh District. He said the proposal would reduce this year's pay by $6,680 per member.

"President Clinton's plan to....reduce the deficit requires sacrifice from all of us," Peterson said. "I believe Congress should take the lead. That is why I am proposing a five per cent cut in Congressional salaries."

He said that the resolution Congress passed to freeze Congressional pay in 1994 is good but not good enough. "We need to make these reductions now so people know we are dedicated to reducing spending," he said.

Rep. Peterson has also introduced legislation to reform procedures of the House of Representatives. His bill would reduce personal and committee staffs by 50 per cent over five years.

He would also eliminate referral of legislation to more than one committee, limit service on any committee to eight years and chairmanships to four years, eliminate special order and one-minute speeches and extension of remarks. The bill would also end Congressional exemption from laws such as OSHA, the Equal Pay Act, Civil Rights Act and Age Discrimination in Employment Act.

"My bill will cut our staffing costs, eliminate pointless speeches which waste time and cost taxpayers money and make Congress subject to the same laws as any small business," Rep. Peterson said. "It's time to get the House in order."

Initiative Fund plans meeting in TRF April 20

Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund (NWMIF) will host a regional community meeting Tuesday, April 20, from 7 to 9 p.m. at room D-61 of Northland Community College in Thief River Falls.

Purpose of the meeting is to give people an opportunity to learn about the NWMIF programs and activities and for the fund's representatives to hear about cooperative efforts to address community issues and how the fund can assist in further developing those efforts.

As a public foundation, the Initiative Fund works with communities and organizations in responding to critical social and economic issues and provides financial support in the form of grants, business loans and training opportunities. The NWMIF continually seeks current information about the region from residents and community leaders, according to Ruth Edevold, executive director.

Since 1986 the fund has awarded over $5 million in project support and business loans in its 12-county region. These funds have helped to create jobs, establish new industries, support cooperative ventures and partnerships in the delivery of human services, funded needed technical assistance to communities and organizations and sponsored quality training programs in leadership, non-profit management and other areas.

The Thief River Falls meeting is one of eight community meetings to be held during March and April throughout the 12 counties. All those interested are encouraged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Singalong

Monthly old-fashioned Gospel singalong will be held Friday, March 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston. Guests for the meeting will be the Glorified Rice Gospel Singers from Rice Lutheran Church of Bagley. All who play musical instruments are invited to participate as accompanists for the singalong portion of the program.

Hundreds turned out for the annual Farmer Merchant mixer which was held at the Elks club this year. This annual event is held in appreciation of the role agriculture plays in the economy of Thief River Falls and is conducted in coordination with American Agriculture Week. All farmers in the area were invited to participate free of charge. The event is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and paid for by ticket sales to local business and professional firms.

Steve Soiney collection is running out of space

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Steve Soiney of Thief River Falls is faced with a problem that often happens to collectors—his collection is outgrowing the space he has provided for it.

Soiney has collected keychains and key rings for a number of years—well before he was diagnosed as having multiple sclerosis in 1982. For about four years he has lived at Skylite Apartments at 415 South Arnold in Thief River Falls and is eagerly awaiting weather that will permit him to get out and about with his motorized cart.

Now 37 years old, Soiney said he has collected about half of his more than 200 keychains himself. As the collection grew, he got a boost from Art Heinze, occupational therapist at Northwest Medical Center, who made a display board from plywood and brass nails.

Now the collection has outgrown the board with many nails having more than one chain hanging from them. Steve has arranged to have a new board built—one that is 48 inches wide and seven feet four inches high. It should provide a proper display for his collection—at least for awhile.

Friends who know of his hobby have kept him in mind on their travels. They have brought or sent him keychains from several foreign countries, many different states and other points of interest such as Bourbon Street in New Orleans and Elvis Presley's home, Graceland.

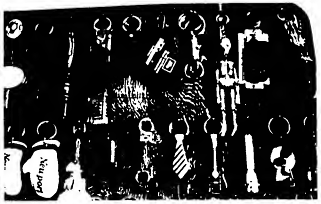
The chains or rings have an infinite variety of attachments. A quick look at the board shows pens and pencils, a skeleton, roller blades, flashlight, knives, binoculars, blue jeans, a mileage indicator, sandals, hatchet (which emits a scream when tapped against something solid), Tupperware container, Rubic cube, slot machine, film cassette, fish, soft drink cans, a duffel bag, boom box, tape measures, pliers, boxing gloves and handcuffs, to name a few.

With the assistance of a home health aide who calls each day, the collection has been arranged into a number of categories or interest areas including foreign countries, states, religious items and others. Steve knows where most of the favorites are on the display board and can quickly point them out to visitors. The new display board will allow space for different arrangements.

Most recent addition to the collection was provided by Silvana Mujica, an Amity program scholar from Argentina. She heard about Steve's collection and brought him a key chain from her home country. It is made from part of a hoof and a braided lanyard similar to the lariat used by vaqueros on Argentina cattle ranches.

"I never had any idea I would have so many keychains," Soiney said. "I just started keeping them because they were fun and interesting and I enjoyed it. They are still a lot of fun and a good point of conversation. I expect the collection to continue to grow."

Most recent addition to Steve Soiney's key chain collection was given to him by Silvana Mujica of Argentina, a teacher-student in the Amity scholar program at Lincoln high school. It is made from a section of hoof and the key keeper is a braided lanyard similar to what would be used by vaqueros (cowboys) on Argentine cattle ranches.



One corner of the display board holding Steve Soiney's keychain collection shows some of the variety of rings and chains available. Soiney has more than 200 different key rings and chains, about half of which he obtained himself and half given to him by friends.

Steve Soiney has been collecting key chains for about a dozen years and his collection is outgrowing his display board. Diagnosed with multiple sclerosis in 1982, he spends much of his time in his apartment at Skylite Apartments, 415 South Arnold in Thief River Falls. He is having a new display board made which will be 48 inches wide and 88 inches high.

Pesticide applicator training for farmers to be offered

Private pesticide applicator training for farmers who apply restricted use pesticides will be offered at two locations Monday, March 29. Both sessions will have identical content and farmers may attend the one most convenient for them.

First session is scheduled at 9:30 a.m. at the city auditorium basement in Thief River Falls and the second at 1:30 p.m. at the community center in Goodridge.

Pesticide applicator training is required by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture for farmers who apply any type of restricted use pesticides. This includes several of the more popular herbicides as well as almost all insecticides and fumigants.

While the certification training is mandatory, attendance at either of the meetings is not. Should an applicator wish to study the materials and do the testing at home, materials to do this are available at the county extension office and may be picked up at any time.

Cost of the certification program is $25 and certification is valid for three years.

$100 scholarship to attend Northland Community College in Thief River Falls was presented by Zare Severu Lodge No. 90 of the Western Fraternal Life Association recently to Willie Vettleson, son of Herb and Janice Vettleson of Goodridge. Making the presentation was Betty Loiland, treasurer of the lodge.

WIC & EPS Hold April Clinics

Women, infants and children supplemental nutritional educational program (WIC) is being held during the month of April.

Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. Prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is considered important to apply for WIC early in pregnancy; no proof of pregnancy is needed.

All potential clients must write to the EPS-WIC service and complete an application.

The schedule for WIC and EPS clinics for April includes April 5, 12, 15 and 16, all at the Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will now be given by county nurses. Please contact Inter-County Nursing service in Thief River Falls at 681-5950 for dates and times.

For further information concerning the WIC and EPS programs, call or write: WIC/EPS, Quin County, Park Place Mall, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750 or telephone (218) 253-2125 or 1-800-223-1591 (toll free).

The WIC program must treat everyone the same. You can not be treated unfairly because of your race, color, national origin, age, sex or handicap. If you think you have been treated unfairly, you should write to: Administrator, Food and Nutrition Services, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 3101 Park Center Drive, Alexandria, VA 22302.

National Poison Prevention Week

March 21-27, 1993

This year alone an estimated 135,000 children under the age of five will become victims of accidental ingestion of harmful medications and household products.

But fortunately, there are many things you can do to help keep your "young explorer" from making a tragic discovery.

Isn't it worth taking the time to check for and correct these potentially risky situations around your home?

1. Keep household products and medicines out of sight and out of reach from curious hands. A locked cabinet or closet is your safest option.
2. Remember, children act fast. Never leave a cleaning product or medication in sight, even to answer the doorbell or phone.
3. Close all packaging tightly before storing. Insist on childproof packaging whenever possible.
4. Store cleaning products and medicines in a separate place, away from food. Keep all products in their original containers.
5. Children learn by imitation. Avoid taking medications in front of them or drinking from the bottle.
6. NEVER refer to medicine as "candy". It's easy to see how this deceptive play could lead to disaster.
7. Don't overlook your garage, attic and other storage areas for potentially hazardous situations.
8. Being prepared can save a life. Keep the telephone number of your doctor, hospital or local poison control center in a handy place. Learn what to do in case of accidental or suspected poisoning.

Capitol Commentary

by LeRoy Stumpf
State Senator — District 1

The way Minnesotans vote has changed over the years to include such things as voting machines and computer tallies. Now another change is ahead that could make it easier for many folks, especially in northwestern Minnesota, to cast their ballots.

A bill that is moving through the Legislature would allow more people to vote by mail. Postal balloting has been around for several years, but there is interest in expanding it.

Mail balloting was first used in northwestern Minnesota because of the sparse population. Townships with only a few residents started using the process. The latest count showed about 8,500 voters in 40 townships have voted by mail.

The new proposal would allow any "statutory or home rule charter city" with fewer than 400 registered voters to apply for mail ballots. This would include about 400 to 500 Minnesota cities, many of which have 600 to 700 residents.

But not all small towns would be included. The bill excludes cities in any metropolitan county.

The bill also excludes some elections from mail balloting. It would apply in city, county or state elections, not in local ones for townships or spring school board elections.

The focus is on larger elections because of when they occur. In fall elections, inclement weather is more likely to occur and reduce turnout. For some elderly voters in rural areas, rough weather can make the simple act of voting a hazardous ordeal.

Because mail balloting is convenient, you may wonder why it is not expanding even more. There are several reasons, but the main ones are security and fraud concerns.

Voting has always been considered a private act. Curtains on booths were put there for a reason. Some critics say mail balloting, if expanded too far, would jeopardize this privacy.

Critics also say that in heavily populated areas, sheer numbers would make it easier to abuse the system. They fear election fraud.

The bill has not yet passed, and nothing is certain until it is through the Legislature and signed by the Governor. However, this measure has a good chance of becoming law and making it easier for more people to exercise their right to vote.

Skaar to head Pembina Trail RC&D group

Leonard Skaar of Thief River Falls, representing Pennington county, was elected chairman of the Pembina Trail Resource, Conservation and Development (RC&D) association at its annual meeting held recently in Red Lake Falls.

Curtis Borchert, Twin Valley, project coordinator of the Agassiz Recreational Trail, gave the keynote address on trail development in Norman, Clay and Polk counties. He said a local effort has been started to establish a trail from Ulen to Fertile utilizing an abandoned railroad bed.

Some interest has also been shown to expand the trail north to Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls, then continue on to the Canadian border and Lake of the Woods.

Minnesota Department of Transportation is currently taking grant applications for projects which are historic, scenic or environmental in nature with emphasis on facilities for bicycles or pedestrians.

Pembina Trail RC&D is a nonprofit organization working on rural development activities serving Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk and Norman counties.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Berte

The name 'Zeh' turns up in Thief River Falls as a street name and as the Federated Womens Club name, 'Zehlians.' The French mansard roofed house on the corner of Zeh and Main Street stands as a memorial to the Phillip Zeh family who built it. GFWC Zehlians honored Phillip Zeh's sister-in-law Della by naming their club after her.

In 1899 Emil E. Zeh and Della B. Forder were married at the home of the bride's parents. Emil owned a grocery store in Thief River Falls. The couple built a small house between Riverside and Duluth Avenue South on the top of the hill overlooking what is now Hartz Park. Flowers encircled the house, and Della painted blossoms she had grown. They had a girl and a boy, Zella and Ernest—Bertha Hastad, 90, was one of their babysitters. The Zehs suffered a blow when Zella died of appendicitis when she was a senior at Lincoln high school.

Della delved into the creation of poetry, paintings and sculpture. In the years after the turn of the century, the lumber industry was flourishing and the town had more saloons than churches, making Della Zeh's commitment to the arts remarkable.

She grew flowers because she loved them and painted to preserve their beauty. Her house and yard were cluttered—the yard was overgrown with berries, fruits and flowers—but she did what she wanted to do. She arranged flowers in vases and had them all over the house.

A note in the Times related, "Mrs. Emil Zeh won a prize in PTA contest and another in LOMP contest. She has lived a long useful life and is greatly beloved."

Della Zeh wrote many poems and other verse such as this stanza (1937).

O pray can you tell me,
The way that I should go?
The paths are all so tangled
That it is hard to know
One says "hither" and one says
"yon"
So how can I know the one
That I should travel on?
Some say the one I am on Leads straight down to the pit,
But it is so smooth and flowery,
This can't be it.

Painting was her first love and she continued her art to the end of her life. After a series of strokes in 1940, she had to learn to paint with her left hand. She would place a flower on her wheelchair's tray and transfer its living beauty to a pad of construction paper.

GFWC Zehlians was organized in 1941. Because their purpose was to encourage and promote art in Thief River Falls, the charter members wished to honor a living artist. Della Zeh was the only publicly recognized artist in town.

Mrs. Zeh was confined to her home in a wheel chair and when she was told the new club had named itself "Zehlians" in her honor, she was highly pleased.

She told the Zehlians that she had been so depressed, being in ill health, alone and in a wheel chair, that she had been praying to die. She said, "Just think, if I had I never would have known about this honor." Some of the members did special things for her in the name of the club. In turn, Della showed them some painting techniques and gave them one of her paintings.

Zehlians started out making Christmas cards and things but soon branched out into painting pictures. In the first 30 years of the organization, Zehlians numbered about a dozen women and at each meeting they painted. Sometimes they were so enthusiastic and had so much fun they painted until two in the morning. Sam Rasmussen says, "We ornamented everything not nailed down—china cups, dust pans, bread boards, "sill" buckets—you name it. We even painted a whole wall of a bedroom for Bee Ekstrand, making a giant mural. As long as Bee kept making coffee, we were happy."

Fifty-two years later GFWC Zehlians continue to promote art in Thief River Falls by bringing local artists to demonstrate their art at club meetings, by providing volunteers and support for Art Adventure in The Elementary Schools, by collecting art work of students for entry in the GFWC District Exhibit, and by working on beautification of the town with the Riverwalk.

Top performances for the Thief River Falls boys included a first place for senior Shane Skerm in the shot put and a second by junior Jon Hendrickson in the 800.

"We had some good performances for the first time out," said Tim Olson, coach of the Thief River Falls boys. "We're awfully young, but it's a hard working group of kids – an excellent group of kids to work with."

Efforts by the Thief River Falls girls included a first by Sanna Torgerson, Angie Klinker, Leah Helgenset, and Lisa Swanson in the 4x800 relay, a second by Swanson in the 1600, and a third by Helgenset in the 3200. Torgerson is a senior; Klinker, Helgenset and Swanson are freshmen.

MCC boys lose to Ada-Borup

■ Section 8A tournament third place game

Ada-Borup out-scored Marshall County Central 31-18 in the fourth quarter Saturday as the Cougars came from behind to beat the Nordics 63-56 in the Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament third place game at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Marshall County Central turned a 13-13 first quarter draw into a 28-22 halftime lead. The Nordics had a chance to start the fourth quarter with a 10-point spread, but instead had to settle for a 38-32 edge, and the Cougars took charge down the stretch.

"We played a pretty decent game," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, "but that swing at the end of the third quarter was a real turning point."

Brad Sininger scored a game-high 24 points for the Cougars and helped lead them to a 29-21 rebound edge, which included a 12-5 advantage on the offensive end. It was the first time all year the Nordics were beaten on the offensive boards, pointed out Ueland.

Tim Olson scored 18 points and Ivan Hirst had 10 to lead the Marshall County Central offense. Hirst, however, left the game with a third quarter ankle injury.

The Nordics shot 48 percent from the field (23/48) and went 8-for-12 at the free throw line. The Cougars shot 45 percent from the floor (22/49) and had a busier 17-for-27 free throw night. The winners topped the turnover charts 14-10.

Marshall County Central finished the year at 18-9.

Pioneers have 25 on baseball team

Northland Community College baseball team will follow up a month of indoor practice sessions with five days of outdoor scrimmages/work-outs in the Omaha area when the Pioneers head to Nebraska March 30.

The 25 players who have been taking part in the drills include 10 sophomores – outfielder Roger Bienusa, Staples; first baseman Ryan Bothum, Karlstad; outfielder Jason Carlson, Karlstad; first baseman Mike Elke, Cavalier, ND; first baseman-third baseman Kelly Gray, Warroad; catcher Blue Olson, Northome; third baseman-pitcher Jarrod Spoor, East Grand Forks; catcher Troy Storeby, Strandquist; outfielder-pitcher Mike Swanson, Thief River Falls; and second baseman Tyson Treat, Thief River Falls.

Swanson is the top returnee from last year's 14-12 squad. He earned 1992 Minnesota Community College Conference all-state honors when he carried a .338 batting average (23/68), hit five home runs and drove in 24 runs.

Bienusa (9/27) and Spoor (7/21) both hit .333 as partime starters; Bothum played regularly, finishing with a .203 average (9/43), while Treat played some, winding up with a .176 figure at the plate (3/17).

Carlson, Elke, Gray, and Olson had fewer at-bats last spring. Storeby did not play in 1992.

Freshmen joining the sophomores include Chris Aune, an outfielder from Grygla who transferred from Mayville State, where he played football for the Comets; shortstop-pitcher Mitch Bernstein, Grygla; outfielder Chad Bjorgaard, Newfolden; shortstop Ross Blakeway, Hawley; third baseman Leniton Bryant, Chicago; second baseman Derrick Carter, Chicago; second baseman Nolan Desjarlait, Red Lake; outfielder Jay Cooper, Jacksonville, FL; outfielder-pitcher Chris DuChamp, Oklee; second baseman Brian King, Warroad; outfielder John Kiseh, Hill-Murray; shortstop-pitcher Todd Martin, Hawley; outfielder-pitcher John Pearson, Karlstad; shortstop-pitcher Parrish Tatum, Chicago; and outfielder Ryan Bakken, Thief River Falls.

"It's a nice group of kids to work with," said Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "We were close to a 20-win season last year, and that's our goal this year. I think we'll be better than we were last year. The big thing right now is to keep their spirits up until we can get outside."

Nick Drees and Jamie McEnelly return as Northland assistant coaches.

The Pioneers are scheduled to open the 1993 season April 7 against the University of North Dakota junior varsity in Grand Forks. Northland home opener is planned April 21 vs. Itasca.

Susie Bengston is named Northland basketball MVP

Susie Bengston, a 5-5 sophomore guard from Hallock, was named most valuable player on the 1992-93 Northland Community College women's basketball team in a Wednesday vote by the Pioneers.

Renae Blazejewski, a 5-7 freshman from Strandquist, was selected most improved, while Kay Haselton, a 5-1 freshman from Thompson, ND, was named the hardest worker.

Northland finished 8-13 under first-year head coach Rick Nikunen. Named to the position just before the start of school, Nikunen missed out on recruiting opportunities and wound up short in the personnel department. He did round up 12 players for the start of practice, but because of injuries and departures, the Pioneers went through most the the winter with just a seven-member squad.

"It was a situation where we knew we were going to be low on numbers," acknowledged Nikunen. "We just did the best we could with what we had."

The Pioneers had their ups and downs, but for the most part they were competitive, finishing a 4-7 Minnesota Community College Conference schedule with a season-ending 66-65 win over state tournament-bound rival University of Minnesota-Crookston.

"We played really well down the stretch," mentioned Nikunen. "I thought we were a pretty respectable basketball team at the end of the year."

Balance was a Northland trademark, reflected in season statistics that showed Holly Gram, Jill Brantl and Blazejewski grouped atop the scoring charts with 11.2, 11.1 and 10.2 averages, respectively. Gram is a 5-8 freshman from Middle River; Brantl is a 5-9 sophomore from Plummer, who earned Second Team All-Northwest Division and Section Team MCCC All-State honors. Bengston was on the honorable mention list in the Northwest Division.

Jodi Chaplinski of Roseau and Kim Peterson of Middle River rounded out the seven-member squad.

"Defensively I thought we were much better than we were offensively," explained Nikunen. "Offense does require a few more skilled players. Defense is hard work.

Triple A Award finalists Listed

Thirty-two of Minnesota's top students will be honored for their distinguished achievements in academics, the arts and athletics at the 1993 Triple A Award ceremonies March 27 during halftime of the boys state basketball tournament championship games.

Academics, Arts and Athletics Award, better know as the Trip A Award, is co-sponsored by the Minnesota State High School League and AAA Clubs of Minnesota. The award goes to high school seniors with a 3.0 or higher grade-point average who participate in MSHSL-sponsored athletic programs and fine arts activities, such as theater, speech, music or debate.

The 32 students vying for the Trip A Award were selected by a multi-level process involving the MSHSL member schools and its region committees. League and AAA officials will announce the four awards winners (a girl and a boy from both Class A and Class AA) at a special recognition luncheon Saturday. All the award finalists will participate in the basketball halftime ceremonies.

Each of the finalists will receive a gold medallion and certificate. A $500 scholarship and plaque will go to the four award winners, and a $500 prize will go to the high school of each award winner for the benefit of that school's athletic and fine arts programs.

LHS weight meets set

[illegible] annual [illegible] High School bench press championships will be held Friday, May 14 beginning at 7 p.m. in the LHS [illegible] [illegible].

Open to all [illegible] the event will award [illegible] to the top three lifters in four weight classes, including lightweight (12[illegible]-145 pounds), middleweight (15[illegible]-170 pounds), light heavyweight (175-2[illegible] pounds) and heavyweight (2[illegible] pounds or more).

Spectators are welcome.

Lincoln weight room supervisor Jeff Mumm also announced plans for the first Rivals of the North Bench Press Championships featuring high school lifters from Thief River Falls, Crookston and East Grand Forks.

The event is scheduled to be held Wednesday, May 19, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln auxiliary gym. Each school will be represented by three lifters in each of the four weight classes, including lightweight (145 pounds or less), middleweight (146-175 pounds), light heavyweight (176-210 pounds) and heavyweight (211 pounds or over).

Top three lifters in each weight group will receive trophies and a traveling team trophy will be awarded to the school lifting the most weight - the combined total of the 12 competing lifters.

"I feel very strongly that all of our athletic programs are on the rise, and that our weight training programs are the key to our success," noted Mumm, who hopes the Rivals of the North event can be used to promote the weight training programs, providing additional incentive to get the student/athletes into the weight room.

"The coaching staffs that will be participating in the meet get along exceptionally well," mentioned Mumm. "Each of us are concerned with our own programs, but I know for a fact that we all support each other's programs too."

Landowners Aid Wildlife

"Woodlands and Nongame Wildlife: A Guide to Management and Preservation" is a new 11-page full-color brochure now available from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Primarily intended for use by private owners of forested land, the brochure describes ways in which woodlands can be managed to enhance habitat for nongame wildlife.

In recent years the DNR Section of Wildlife has produced other information booklets that focus on management of woodlands for ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse and white-tailed deer. The latest brochure features suggestions for enhancing habitat for species such as bald eagles, pileated woodpeckers, eastern chipmunks, and painted turtles.

In Minnesota, there are at least 25 species of mammals, 148 species of birds and 12 species of reptiles and amphibians commonly associated with forest habitat. About 42 percent of Minnesota's more than 16 million acres of forest lands are privately owned. There is much the private landowner can do to benefit nongame wildlife through planning and wise stewardship, according to the DNR.

Private landowners with 10 acres or more of woodlands can receive free planning assistance by contacting the local DNR forester, wildlife manager or nongame wildlife specialists. Private woodland will be inventoried for timber/habitat composition and a management plan will be prepared at no charge.

The new brochure, along with many other helpful and informative materials, is available from the DNR free of charge by contacting local DNR offices, or by calling toll-free, 1-800-766-6000.

DNR News

Area Benefits from Tax Donations

In the remote northwestern corner of Minnesota, vast expanses of brush prairie and grassy wetlands give the visitor a glimpse into the past, when an endless sea of grass extended across western Minnesota. This tranquil scene is interrupted by the incessant buzzing of insects and occasional splashing steps as wildlife biologists with the Minnesota County Biological Survey walk along slowly clicking pebbles together and listening intently with their heads half-cocked.

Have they been driven insane by the hordes of hungry mosquitoes? Some people may think so, but this scene was repeated many times as fieldworkers searched for the rare and elusive yellow rail, whose call resembles the sound of rocks striking each other.

Minnesota County Biological Survey, a cooperative effort of the Department of Natural Resources Nongame Wildlife and Natural Heritage programs, funded in part from donations to the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff on state tax forms, conducts inventories of Minnesota's rare and endangered animals, plants and habitats on a county-by-county basis. The information is then used to guide the protection of the state's rare features.

In 1991 and 1992 surveys were staged in northwestern Minnesota's aspen parkland region, a priority area for protection by the DNR and The Nature Conservancy. Workers identified and inventoried an important grassy wetland in east-central Kittson County, discovering several species of birds listed as rare in Minnesota. Yellow rails and sharp-tailed sparrows were numerous. Other birds breeding in the area included American bittern, marbled godwit and Wilson's phalarope. Importance of this area as habitat for rare birds was previously unknown.

The area is a checkerboard of DNR and private ownership. Based on the information gathered in the survey, private parcels have been acquired and will be incorporated into Beaches Wildlife Management Area, ensuring the protection of nesting habitat.

This is one example how the efforts result in the protection of rare animals and their habitats. Surveys have been conducted in 20 of the state's 87 counties. Nongame Wildlife Checkoff donations on tax forms make the surveys possible.

Tree Seedling Orders

Deadline for ordering tree seedlings from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources State Forest Nurseries has been extended statewide to March 26.

Tree seedlings from State Forest Nurseries are sold for the purposes of reforestation, erosion control, windbreaks and shelterbelts, and permanent wildlife habitat.

A variety of conifer (needle-bearing) and deciduous (leaf-bearing) trees and shrubs are available. These trees are sold in lots of 100, with the minimum order being 500.

In addition, a four-season wildlife packet, which contains 500 shrub and trees seedlings ideal for wildlife food and cover, is available from the nurseries.

For a current price list and seedling order form, call the DNR Information Center at 1-800-766-6000.

Price lists and order forms are also available at local DNR Forestry offices, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices, Soil Conservation Service offices, or county Extension Service offices.

Record usage of foodshelves continues in MN

Approximately one in every 16 persons in Minnesota used a foodshelf last year, according to Minnesota FoodShare, which recently began its month-long campaign to benefit Minnesota foodshelves.

"While showing hopeful signs of leveling off in some areas of the state, the need is still enormous," says Peg Chemberlin, director of Minnesota FoodShare. "The FoodShare campaign will make a significant impact on this need."

The organization's goal for 1993 is to collect 3.6 million pounds of food or 20 per cent of the state's annual foodshelf distribution. Last year foodshelves distributed 18.4 million pounds of food with 4.7 million poonds provided by FoodShare.

The Minnesota Food Education and Resource Center estimates that the unduplicated number of people helped by foodshelves in this state last year was 278,000, including 130,000 children. Duplicated number of foodshelf services was placed at 1,390,000 people.

Materials for groups wishing to conduct food drives are available from the FoodShare office by calling (612) 870-3660. Money donations which will be distributed to foodshelves throughout the state for food purchase may be sent to Minnesota FoodShare, 122 West Franklin Avenue, Minneapolis, MN 55404.

Independent Machine Service sends labels around the world

Independent Machine Service, Inc. is a manufacturing business located in Thief River Falls since 1984. They manufacture price marking supplies for distribution across the county.

Independent Machine Service (IMS) opened for business in Colorado in 1976. A few things have changed since then.

IMS began with two employees, Darrell Magner, the present owner and his former business partner John Rogers.

The building they worked out of was approximately 760 square feet. The building they are presently located in is 15,000 square feet.

In the beginning they had two pieces of equipment — one press and one rewind machine. Darrell's job was to print the labels on the press then slit them to size on the rewinder then package and ship the orders. Darrell's business partner was busy on the phone generating business and handling office matters.

IMS relocated to Thief River Falls in 1984 with three employees. At present IMS employs 42 people, has eight presses and four rewind machines.

Independent Machine Service's product line has also grown. In the beginning IMS manufactured three sizes of labels and tags. Now their product line exceeds 80 items.

Darrell started out with very few

BIBLE STUDY
Study to show yourself approved

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Part of the Will of God is to study the Bible (2 Tim. 2:15). Many who study the Bible, study for information rather than correction. Disciples of Jesus Christ are admonished not to be foolish, but understand what the Will of God is (Eph. 5:17). It appears that people who claim to be His disciples today are least informed about this aspect of spiritual and godly living (Col. 1:9).

God's word says that all Scripture is profitable for teaching, reproof, correction and training in how to practice righteousness, so that the man of God may know how to do good to please God (1 John 2:29; Matt. 5:16; 2 Tim. 3:16-17). How many people have studied the life of Christ for many years, but have never started to live like Him?

We are to imitate Jesus Christ and the Father by daily practicing the sayings of Jesus Christ (1 Cor. 11:1; Eph. 5:1; 3 John 11). Jesus' words will judge all humanity at the end of the age (John 12:47-48). Just being a Bible scholar does not justify a person, but being a doer of the word does (2 Tim. 3:7; Rom. 2:13; James 1:22; Luke 6:46). Jesus Christ made Himself perfectly clear about practicing righteousness. We are to perform the Father's Will in our daily lives, as it is done in heaven (1 John 2:17; John 7:17; Matt. 6:10). Jesus says to do as He says, keep His word, walk in His commandments and act upon His sayings (Luke 8:21; 11:28; 6:47-48; 2 John 6; Matt. 7:24).

The central teaching of the Bible is to engage in a life of good deeds, endure and not become weary in well-doing, and overcome our evil natures by doing good deeds (Titus 3:8; 2 Thess. 3:13; Heb. 10:36; Gal. 6:9; Rom. 2:7; 12:21; 6:18-19). If this is the kind of peculiar people Christ is making for Himself—and He is—we should then be studying the Bible to train ourselves in righteousness (Titus 2:14). As we keep the sayings of Jesus Christ and study to show ourselves approved to God, we will always be ready with the right answer, and ready to lead many to righteousness (Matt. 5:19; 1 Peter 3:15; Dan. 12:3).

Great Grandson

Lewis and Lorraine Swenson were delighted to hear the news of the birth of their first great-grandchild born on Tuesday, Feb. 23, to Lori and David Marquis of the Highlanding community. The new baby boy was named Brody David, and weighed 10 pounds 8 ounces. Grandparents are Janice and Gene Hendrickson of Thief River Falls and Dick and Miriam Marquis of Oklee. Great-grandparents are Lewis and Lorraine of the Ringbo community.

Eldon and Margaret Thompson recently returned to Holt after spending the winter in McAllen, TX. Welcome back!

Construction is progressing on the new Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt. The shingles are all on, the wiring is almost completed, the room are all divided inside and the windows and doors are all installed. Everyone is excited about the new construction!

Musicians Jam!

George Hill was a recent visitor at the Lewis Swenson home. Lewis and George enjoyed an afternoon of sharing their musical talents.

Elroy Benitt entered Northwest Medical Center on Thursday, March 11 and had surgery on March 15. We wish him the best and hope he returns home soon.

Florida Vacation

Cliff and Marj Stainhauer returned home on March 13 after a two week plus vacation to central Florida. They were accompanied by Marj's mother, Georgia Landin, and cousin Dolores Hegstad, both of Warroad. The Warroad travelers visited relatives in Lakeland, FL and Marj and Cliff journeyed on to Lake Wales where they visited with Don Larson and Delores Rudy. They also toured Busch Gardens and the Cypress Gardens where they enjoyed a water show. They encountered beautiful weather and returned home ahead of the huge storm that recently hit the east coast.

Birthday Parties

Lewis and Lorraine Swenson recently attended a birthday party at the Janice and Gene Hendrickson home in Thief River Falls to celebrate the birthdays of Janice Hendrickson, Lisa Pittman and David Marquis. Inge and Donald Hendrickson of Thief River Falls also visited there. On February 28 Lewis and Lorraine, Janice and Gene Hendrickson, Lisa Pittman, Joe and Mary Miska and the Ernest Miska family of Alexandria gathered at the Dwayne and Gloria Miske home of rural Crookston to help Judy Miska celebrate her tenth birthday, which was March 1. A birthday dinner was enjoyed by all.

A March birthday party was held Friday, March 12 at the Best Western in Thief River Falls for members of the Erickson family who celebrated in March. Honored guests included Kassi Holtan, who was ten on March 4; Patrick Erickson, 26 on March 11; Allison Sturman, two on March 20; Mary Jo Sturman, 24 on March 22; and Justin Erickson, five on March 31. Mary Jo and Howard Sturman also celebrated their third wedding anniversary on March 21. Attending the birthday celebration were Olga Erickson, Mabel Holtan, Virgil, Cathy and Andy Erickson; Russ, Sheila, Katrina, Kassi and Kelsey Holtan; Paul, Corla, Justine and Loria Erickson; Patrick and Tami Erickson; and Howard, Mary Jo and Allison Sturman. The children enjoyed a swimming party before and after the birthday dinner.

Recent visitors at the Harlan and Doreen Melo home, rural Newfolden, were Lewis and Lorraine Swanson.

A Range Visit!

On March 5 Virgil, Cathy and Andy Erickson and his friend Dusty Holmstrom visited at the home of Cathy's brothers, Harry and Beverly Oxford and Kenneth and Tanya Oxford in Aurora. Andy and Dusty enjoyed sliding and the uncles took the group to Giant's Ridge ski area where they observed high jumping. The travelers returned home on Sunday.

Community Saddened!

The Ringbo community and surrounding area of Holt was in shock at the death of two prominent relatives, friends and neighbors. Marge Christenson passed away Sunday, March 14 after suffering a stroke and her husband, Rude Christenson, passed away on Tuesday, March 16 from a heart attack. Marge's funeral was on Tuesday, March 18 and Rude's was Saturday, March 20. Both were held at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt. The Ringbo Homemakers provided special music and friend and neighbor Cathy Erickson played a special song on her accordion in memory of the Christensons. Rude and Marge will be greatly missed in the community. They shared over 55 years of marriage. They always welcomed visitors and always made their guests welcome. They enjoyed a good card game and many hours were spent gardening. They always planted more than they could use themselves and delighted in giving away the excess produce to whomever didn't harvest what they could use from their own gardens. The Christensons have two sons, Elray and Allan, however, they were like parents and grandparents to many in the area. Their friends were of all ages and if a light was on in the house, no matter what time of day, a traveler was always welcome to stop in for coffee. Marge was a terrific seamstress, making many, many outfits for her great-granddaughters. She would look at "in-fashion" clothes in the retail stores and go home and make the exact replica of clothing from her own pattern and design. The number of quilts she made cannot be counted. She always had a project going and she always found time to bake and have several choices to serve her guests. Rude was an avid outdoorsman. He liked hunting and ice fishing. He was an avid gardener and worked outside in his garden well past the age of 65. He was 89 at the time of his death and Marge was 77. Rude taught the neighbor children how to garden. He enjoyed music and spent a lot of time watching old time music videos. The Christensons enjoyed their families and grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Family was important to them and they always shared an update with their visitors. Sympathy is extended to family members, friends and neighbors.

Thirteen piano students advance to state event

98. This is the eighth time Heidi has won at the MMTA State Contest.

The three judges for the Junior Young Artists division awarded Heidi third place in the entire division. Heidi's score qualifies her to perform not only in the honor's concert, but also in the winner's recital at Northwestern College in St. Paul on Sunday, June 6.

Kendra Dimich, ninth grade daughter of Judy and Dr. Tom Dimich of Thief River Falls, performed "Sonata in F Minor, Op. 2, No. 1, 1st Movement" by L. Beethoven, and "Juba Dance" by R. Nathaniel Dett. Kendra's winning score was 96. This is the sixth time Kendara has won at the MMTA state contest.

The Alternate winner in the Junior Young Artist division is Charity Wicks, seventh grade daughter of Lorna and Mike Wicks of Oklee, who performed "Sonata in D Major, Op. 26 No. 3, 1st Movement" by Clementi, "Romance in D Major" by Sibelius, and "Danses Gitanes, Op. 55 No. 1, Zamba" by J. Turina. Charity received a winning score of 95. This is the fourth time Charity has won at the state contest.

When a piano student wins at state competition the student is automatically moved into the next age division regardless of current age. This explains why a number of younger piano students are competing in older age categories.

In the event that a state winner is unable to perform in the student honors concert, the alternate winner is called upon to perform.

IRS 1, Taxpayer 0

A ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court in January has created a dilemma for perhaps millions of small business owners and operators in the nation who claimed a home office deduction on their income taxes in 1991 or plan to do so for 1992. At issue is the definition of the "principal place of business" which is one of three tests set forth in the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

That Act considered a home office deductible if it met that requirement, or if it was used on a regular basis to see clients or customers or if it was located in a separate structure not attached to the dwelling unit.

Regardless of which of the three tests applies, the home office must be used exclusively for the business activity. If the office is used as a TV room or recreation room in the evening, it won't qualify for a home office deduction.

The Supreme Court ruled in the case of Dr. Nadar Soliman, an anesthesiologist, that his home office was not an allowable deduction since it was not his principal place of business. Dr. Soliman provides anesthesiology services at three hospitals in the Washington, DC, area, but has no office space at any of them to maintain patient records and bill clients.

The Tax Court had sided with Dr. Soliman, ruling the home office deduction was justified since he had no other office, billing patients was an essential element of his business and he spent 10 to 15 hours a week in his home office. One room of his home was set aside for that specific purpose.

The IRS appealed the case to the Supreme Court, which ruled that the doctor's principal business was rendering anesthesiology service, not billing clients, and he was not performing an essential or major component of his trade or business at home. It didn't say that billing and record keeping weren't important business functions, only that they weren't the primary functions for which Dr. Soliman was being paid by his clients.

Some 1.6 million home office deductions were claimed in 1991 and 2.9 million in 1990. The court decision raises a number of questions for individuals who do some of their work at home but who provide services at other locations, such as contractors, home decorators, caterers, house painters, consultants and personal trainers. It would seem that virtually any taxpayer who does a substantial amount of work outside the home while also maintaining an office at home would have difficulty qualifying for the home office deduction.

It would seem that Congress needs to do some revising of the provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 as it relates to home office deductions. Certainly there should be a deduction allowed if the home office is the only office for the business or if it is essential to conducting the business—including record keeping and billing. That is no more than common sense.

Since the Supreme Court ruled only on the Soliman case and did not establish a definitive formula for determining the validity of a home office deduction, virtually every situation would have to be determined on its own merits. In another recent Supreme Court ruling, for instance, the court upheld a home office deduction taken by a musician who practiced for 30 hours a week in his home office and then performed for two hours each week in public..

So what's the message in all of this? Just to be aware of the court's decision and potential challenge from the IRS. But if you think you qualify under the law and your tax adviser agrees, take the deduction and your chances. Just be ready to prove your qualifications under the law. After all, IRS 1, Taxpayers 0 may be just a first inning score.

Gay Rights Bill Is Unnecessary Unless...

It is disturbing to read that a "gay rights" bill last week won preliminary approval in the state Senate and final passage in the House of Representatives. Such action leaves the distinct impression that elected officials can be pressured into just about anything if the pressure is vocal enough and persistent enough.

"Let me tell you that I'm a 55-year-old gay man. I'm not just going through a phase....We are asking only that we have the same rights as everyone else," was the quote attributed to Sen. Allan Spear, a Minneapolis legislator who was chief author of the bill in the Senate.

The Minnesota Human Rights Act currently provides protection against discrimination based on race, color, creed, national origin, disability, age and several other factors. The gay rights bill would add "sexual or affectional orientation" to the list.

The perceived "need" to add homosexuality as a human right has come about only since there has been an open seeking of public acceptance of this deviant sexual lifestyle. There would be no purpose for the bill if practicing homosexuals kept their preference private and did not make a public issue of it. Their rights in employment, housing, public accommodations, public service, public contracts and education are already covered under the Human Rights Act. Passage of the gay rights bill would give official acceptance, and that will open a whole new push for "gay rights" of other kinds.

Proponents of passage of the bill base their arguments on the contention that homosexuality is not a chosen behavior. Some would say the same is true of kleptomania or alcoholism. Should chronic thieves and alcoholics be added to the specific human rights list as well?

We are concerned about legislation legitimizing homosexuality. The British Journal of Sexual Medicine published a study in 1987 finding that homosexuals were about 18 times more likely that heterosexuals to engage in sex with minors. Another study, published in Psychological Reports in 1986, revealed that homosexuals, who represent perhaps two per cent of the population, perpetrate more than one-third of all reported child molestations.

Dr. Thomas Lokensgard of Park Rapids, an opponent of the bill, points out that "While not all homosexuals are prone to pedophilia (sexual molestation of children), and many find it abhorrent, pedophilia is a prevalent part of homosexual behavior."

Dr. Lokensgard notes that the 1972 Gay Rights platform has not been changed in 20 years and calls for, among other things, "repeal of all state laws prohibiting private sexual acts involving consenting persons" (not consenting adults) as well as "repeal of all laws governing the age of sexual consent."

That should be a vital concern of legislators, and perhaps it is to some, considering the amendments accepted by both the House and Senate. One would exempt churches and religious groups from the bill entirely, another exempts Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other youth organizations so they could choose not to hire homosexuals to directly supervise children. Why should such exemptions be necessary unless there is a recognition of potential problems?

We agree with Dr. Lokensgard when he states, "We need to understand the full implications of the Gay Rights Bill and the threat it poses to our children.....Let us protect our children and our society from this aberrant, unhealthy, destructive behavior and not give it legal protection."

50 Businessmen Aid In Snow Removal

"A lot of local businessmen were nursing sore muscles yesterday after turning out to the number of nearly fifty Tuesday morning, together with a dozen trucks to participate in a volunteer snow removal bee in the downtown district, arranged by Alderman Bob Petersen, chairman of the council street committee. Many tons of snow piled up in last week's blizzard were removed by the hard-working men to give access to storm sewers so the water from the melting snow will drain off rapidly. Only in a few places were the roads plugged so badly that plows were unable to get through."

Bring in Tin Cans by Monday

"An urgent appeal was directed to local housewives today by B. J. Kiewel, district chairman of the tin can salvage drive, asking them to make every effort to deliver to their grocers the tin cans they have accumulated during the winter months. Mr. Kiewel stressed the need of bringing them in by Monday so they can be taken to Crookston to fill a freight car now being loaded there. The cans, he added, should be clean and flattened."

Topics of the Times

—U.S. citizens in 1942 consumed 235 billion cigarets. Just think: that's more than one for each dollar of the national debt.

—The army is creating officers at such a fast pace that it seems almost a mark of distinction for a soldier to be a buck private.

—Money, they say, can talk, but it doesn't give itself away.

—With nearly 5,000 copies of this paper being read every week, don't advertise in the Times if you want your business to be kept secret.

—Better bundle up those young scholars. School buses are frozen, a headline tells us.

—That fellow with a satisfied expression on his face is the one who came through with a liberal donation to the Red Cross.

—Remember way back when the well-dressed lady turned up her nose at rayon stockings.

—The calendar provides the big laugh of the week. It tells us that March 21 is the first day of spring.

—A fashion magazine says some men's suits will be sober. What, no hip pockets? asks the Devils Lake Journal.

—Striking a discordant note in President Roosevelt's Win-the-War symphony is his reported coy attitude when his henchmen suggest a fourth term.

—One consolation is that in the aviation age that will follow this war, the plane pilots will have had plenty of good training.

—Quoted poem:

Each single pound
A woman lacks
Is most becoming
In her slacks.

—The boy who coined the maxim, "Late Easter, late spring" certainly know what he was talking about.

Weather Report

"The train failed to arrive here last Friday owing to the blizzard, the train from the south being nearly twelve hours late getting into Crookston."

"Several parties have been pulling up ice the past two weeks and a large amount has been secured. It is needless to state that the quality is excellent, it being quite three feet thick. It would be a queer winter when our ice crop is a failure."

"It would appear that our winter was almost over as a flock of wild geese were seen on Monday and a flock of crows arrived yesterday. The crows are here yet, but the geese were headed south which would indicate that a goose is not the fool that his name implies."

NOTICE OF HEARING PLANNING COMMISSION CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 11 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that Jacob M. & Anne C. Barnick, 1755 Highway 59 S.E., Thief River Falls, MN 56701, have requested that the Zoning for the following described property be amended from AG Agricultural District to R-4 Multi Family Residential District:

A parcel of land which is part of Government Lot 9 of Section 35, T. 154 N., R. 43 W., bounded as follows:

Commencing at an iron pipe monument at the Southwest corner of Lot 1, Block 4, Nelson's First Addition to Thief River Falls, also being on the north line of Greenwood Street, thence North 86 degrees 31 minutes 55 seconds West, assumed bearing, along the said north line of Greenwood Street extended 744.76 feet to an iron pipe monument being the point of beginning of the tract to be described, thence North 24 degrees 54 minutes 49 seconds East a distance of 220.00 feet, thence North 41 degrees 46 minutes 11 seconds West a distance of 435.75 feet, thence South 46 degrees 13 minutes 49 seconds West a distance of 452.43 feet, thence South 41 degrees 39 minutes 15 seconds East a distance of 349.16 feet, thence South 66 degrees 31 minutes 58 seconds East a distance of 300.14 feet, thence North 03 degrees 28 minutes 05 seconds East a distance of 58.00 feet to the point of beginning containing 4.90 acres more or less.

The above described property is included in a plat entitled "Barnick's Second Addition" which has been given preliminary approval by the City. The above described property will be identified in the final plat as Lots 1 - 3 in Block One, Lots 3 and 4 in Block Two, and the abutting rights of way for Greenwood Street and Barnick Road.

Approval of the Zoning Amendment Request would allow the Owners to sell the property that will be identified as Lot 1 in Block One of the newly platted Barnick's Second Addition to a developer who proposes to construct a 32-unit, congregate, elderly housing facility. It is anticipated that, in the future, the balance of the Barnick's property which is presently being platted would also be developed for multi-family residential uses.

There is a one acre track of land that will be included in the plat of Barnick's Second Addition which is owned by Kordel Inc. This track of land will be identified in the new plat as Lots 1 and 2 in Block Two. This property is presently zoned C-2 General Business District and no zoning amendment is proposed for this property.

Notice is further given, that the Planning Commission will conduct a Hearing on the proposed Zoning Amendment at 7:30 P.M. on Tuesday, April 6, 1993, in the City Council Chambers, City Auditorium. All persons wishing to comment on the proposed Zoning Amendment will have the option to be heard at this time. Many visitors commented on the number of exhibitors at the show.

City to conduct building survey

Building condition surveys were sent to property owners who own property in the Thief River Falls downtown business district last week.

Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve explained in the letter accompanying the survey that the city is in the process of preparing a Small Cities Development Block Grant application to the state of Minnesota. One of the components of the grant application will be for commercial rehabilitation, such as storefront renovation, building code improvements, energy conservation and handicapped accessibility. One of the requirements of the grant application is a building condition survey for all structures in the project area. The survey must be completed whether or not the owner might be interested in participating in the program.

More details on how the grant-loan program will work will be explained in April or early May at public meetings.

"We feel that this effort represents a real opportunity to downtown property owners and businesses to make needed improvements to the benefit of the city's tax base and the well-being of the Central Business District. We hope that you will cooperate in the conduct of the survey and give consideration to participating in the rehabilitation project," said Mayor Reeve in the letter.

Community Development Director Don Stewart said that before details of the proposed project can be defined, data from the surveys must be collected.

There are two elements to the proposal — a sidewalk, street and utilities project for Second street from Main to Horace, and on LaBree and Horace from First to Fouth street, and a rehabilitation project for the downtown business district.

About 90 per cent of the cost of the street, sidewalk and utilities project will be covered by utilities reserves and Minnesota State Aid street funds. Another 10 per cent will be assessed to property owners on LaBree and Horace avenues. This project, he said, has been talked about for several years, but for a number of reasons, delayed until 1994.

The reason the two elements, the infrastructure project and the rehabilitation project, are tied together is to help leverage more grant funds.

There are basically three components to the rehabilitation project — commercial rehabilitation in the downtown district, rental-residential rehabilitation in the downtown district, and single family residential rehabilitation. The city is currently in the process of collecting information on the need for commercial rehabilitation. Stewart added that commercial rehabilitation does not include such things as new carpet, lights and paint. It does include such items as storefront renovation, building code

Position on Engelstad park tennis courts heard

Property owners around Ole Engelstad park have rallied against a proposal to add two tennis courts and a basketball court to the park.

Tuesday night at a city council meeting, property owners and representatives of the city presented their side of the issue — property owners against an intensification of use that would increase noise and traffic, and the city park board, which would hate to turn down a grant that would benefit so many.

Tuesday night the issue was aired a second time. This time, city park employees answered questions left unanswered after the first meeting on the issue.

The state has left us with two options, said Mike Mongoven of the park and recreation department. The city can complete the project or it can reapply in the next fiscal year. Mongoven said he personally, would hate to turn the money down because when money has been turned down in the past, they suffered for it.

Mongoven also presented a letter from the Minnesota department of trade and economic development, which awarded the grant. In the letter it states, "The city must decide to complete the project as submitted or decide to re-evaluate the needs of the community and submit a new application for fiscal year 1994." The letter also states that a resubmission does not guarantee that the project would be funded.

In addressing concerns about the softball field raised at the last city council meeting, Mongoven explained that the field is not big enough for official games. The park board, he said, considered moving it a long time ago. In any event, the plans for two additional tennis courts would have little impact on play at the softball field.

Dale Wennberg, third ward alderman and member of the park board, said he became aware of opposition only after the grant was awarded. He explained that the school district is expected to remove the tennis courts at First and Arnold and that will increase the need for the tennis courts, which is already evident. Last year, 180 children were in the park board's tennis program. Wennberg also said that in this situation, the city must weigh opposition with benefits to the entire community.

Property owners were once again given an opportunity to state that they were against the project because of the noise and traffic that already exists at the park. One property owner said that it might seem trivial that they have contacted the police department in the past because of the noise, but there is such a thing as peace and quiet.

Property owners around the park also stated that they are not against the park. They are not opposed to tennis or basketball but believe the proposal should be reevaluated in view of the many questions and concerns raised by property owners.

Don Barron, the ward alderman for the park area, took the side of the property owners beginning with an explanation of a history of the park. In 1970 when a comprehensive plan was adopted by the city council, neighborhood park was defined as a centrally located park for children. In 1985, a new comprehensive plan was adopted. That plan broadened the definition by allowing the park for activities of children and adults. Barron contends that adding the tennis courts is not good planning and is destroying the original intent of neighborhood park.

Barron had also asked Police Chief Ken Froschheiser to look into the complaints. At the meeting

Scout Expo to be held Sun., Apr. 25

Annual Voyageur Trail Boy Scout Exposition is scheduled for Sunday, April 25, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

"The exposition is an opportunity for Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts to publicly demonstrate their learned scouting skills," explains Art Heinze of Thief River Falls, exposition chairman.

"It is also an opportunity for the public to see scouting in action, all under one roof. Three scout groups from Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada will also participate in the show."

Heinze said that to date scout groups from Thief River Falls, Greenbush, Warren, Crookston, Twin Valley, Plummer, McIntosh and Erskine have returned their participation applications and that he hopes for 100 per cent participation of every scout group in the district.

An information packet with a participation application has been sent to every Cubmaster and Scoutmaster in the district. Application deadline is April 9 and the completed applications may be sent to Heinze at 307 Spruce Avenue South in Thief River Falls or the information called in to him at 681-1624 after 6 p.m.

The exposition is again free to the general public and financed by a Cub Scout and Boy Scout candy bar sale. The scout selling the candy bars can also earn money for their units and camping expenses.

Green Thumb workers learning about careers

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

A group of Green Thumb employees recently participated in a career management class.

Green Thumb, a program for people at least 55 years old with low income, provides minimum wage jobs with non-profit entities 20 hours a week. The National Farmers Union sponsors the federally-funded program.

Green Thumb is designed to provide a temporary way station for workers before they move onto other careers. It provides job training to ease the path to these potential jobs.

"Our goal for these people is to get them better jobs at more pay and more hours. This is why they're on that program, getting that training and getting on the workforce," said James Fay, Green Thumb area supervisor.

The career management class taught students a number of job search skills, including resume writing.

Resumes were not always standard. "If I wanted a job I would talk to the boss man. If I got it, I got it. If I didn't get it, I didn't get it," said Donald Bentley, Green Thumb employee at the technical college's tool crib.

The career management class ran 10 weeks for two hours each Mon-

Enterprise zone tax credit plan being phased out

In approving an application for enterprise zone tax credit Tuesday night, the council approved the final application for the entire program. During the 10-year history of the program in Thief River Falls, it has created and retained 1,155 full-time equivalent jobs and made capital investments in the millions of dollars.

In 1983, the city of Thief River Falls was designated as one of the Competitive Enterprise Zone Cities and the State of Minnesota allocated $1.75 million of tax credits for economic development purposes to Thief River Falls.

Beginning in 1984 through 1992, Community Development Director Don Stewart said a total of 19 primary sector businesses participated in the program and received total tax credits in the amount of $1,720,561. These businesses, as of the end of 1991, he said, had created and retained 1,155 full-time equivalent jobs and made capital investments in the millions of dollars. The balance of $29,439 either went unallocated or the participants did not meet their projections and the credits went undistributed.

Tuesday night, the final application for credits from Country Lake Foods (Bridgeman's) for $8,626 was approved.

Impetus for enterprise zone legislation in Minnesota arose out of the state legislature and at the behest of Duluth, which was an economically depressed city at the

Project Future group seeking more opinion

Central Marshall County Project Future committee members are busy talking to area residents and organizations this month to determine what citizens would want their community to be like.

Questions being asked by committee members are "What are the strengths and weaknesses of our community?" and "What five things could we accomplish as a community to most significantly improve our future quality of life?"

According to Susan Skadsem, vice chair of the committee, Central Marshall County Project Future is a group of concerned citizens dedicated to actively planning for the future economic and social well being of the community in order to improve the quality of living for all.

Determining what the desires of its residents are will help Project Future committee members select the most needed improvements and locate people who are willing to help make these improvements a reality.

Persons with suggestions for the committee are invited to make their ideas known at one of the community meetings or contact a Project Future committee member.

Dear Readers,
The day of a visitation, we encourage the immediate family to come to the funeral home early so they can be alone before friends arrive. This is how a widower described this private time, "I stood in the chapel with my children and grandchildren. Our minister was present and asked us to join hands while he offered a prayer." It was a very intimate moment - I could feel the unity and love flow between us through tightly clasped hands. I will always cherish that memory."
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Area Learning Center awarded learning grant

Northwest Area Learning Center has been awarded a Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technical Education grant to help single pregnant teens, single teen parents and displaced homemakers who want to earn a high school diploma.

Sue Dupree has been hired as a learner manager for this targeted group of students. Sue will be available to provide special tutoring, at home learning and testing, and, in some cases, transportation for students who are completing their high school diploma requirements. The goal of this program is to teach these young parents how to better manage their lives so they can graduate. These students must be enrolled in at least one vocational course to be eligible.

The granted program can be reached by contacting the Northwest Area Learning Center (ALC) located in the Center School building at 230 South LaBree. All students enrolled at the Area Learning Center have assigned to them a learner manager who oversees their learning program. Students work at independent study programs at their learning level and at their own pace. Wayne Johaneson, ALC coordinator states, "We are fortunate to have been selected to receive this Federal grant and provide this extra help for single teen parents, pregnant teens, and displaced homemakers. With the extra help and support Sue can provide them, we hope to give these students a better start toward economic independence."

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Paper Easter Eggs

To get us in the mood for Easter, you may want to make paper Easter eggs. This is an activity that is fun, creative and helps children practice the cutting skills that are so important.

You will need colored paper, scissors and glue. To start the project, cut a large oval from white paper. Then encourage the child to cut various designs from colored paper and glue them on the white egg.

This is an activity for which there is no wrong way to do it. Children should enjoy decorating many eggs in various colors and shapes of decoration. Use the eggs to decorate the windows in your home or your child's room.

PARENTING TIPS

Preparing Children for New Events

Children are often afraid of the unknown and display inappropriate behavior in new situations because they do not know what is appropriate. We should explain

1. what activities will take place,
2. what the child will be expected or permitted to do, and
3. what he/she may feel like.

This is particularly useful with a child whose initial response to new situations is withdrawal.

When the child is less than two, explanations need to be short and concrete. Since it is difficult to convey an idea or experience that is new to a young child, a "dry run" is often helpful. When the child is over two, you may begin to explain things through stories and role playing.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Try to use words and terms your child can understand. Be aware of your child's meaning of words vs. your meaning.

Speaking Of . . .

. . . More Important Information Needed

Last week I got my Important Information on Volume Based Pricing Garbage Collection System. Did you?

Now I have some questions and comments. Do you?

I don't mind paying for the amount of garbage my house generates. I figure it is worth it. After all, what would we do with all that garbage otherwise? At my house, it wouldn't take long at all for us to be overrun with trash if we didn't have someone to pick it up. And besides, it seems fair for those who have more trash to pay more and those who have very little to pay less, doesn't it?

However, the way I figure it, if I keep on doing what I am doing now, my garbage rates are going to go up about $13 a month. That sounds pretty high to me, so what I am going to do is start a vigorous campaign to get the kids to separate what they throw away so that we can recycle our trash.

I have been thinking about this recycling business for a long time, and I certainly believe we have to start taking care of our environment by reducing and recycling our garbage. I just never got around to doing it before. Now I have a $156 per year (or more) reason to get at it.

I'm planning to go out and buy one of those three-in-one containers so things can get separated right off the bat. In fact, I might buy two or three of them, so that we have them handy all over the house.

Now, the problem is how to go about this recycling and reducing.

I looked all through my Important Information sheet and I can't find anything at all that tells me how to start my recycling campaign. The sheet tells me all about the price of garbage bags and little tags for my large items, but it has no information about how I can go about recycling so that I can use fewer garbage bags.

The Important Information sheet tells me that I will have to pay $1.50 for each bag I need after I use up my allotted rolls. One dollar and fifty cents EACH? At that price, I'm certainly not going to miscalculate the amount of bags I need.

However, in order to calculate the amount of bags I will need for the coming year, I need to know exactly what I can recycle and what I cannot and just exactly how this recycled stuff is to be packaged or boxed.

Would someone please send out Important Information on the Rules of Recycling—right now—before I make a mistake in my garbage bag calculations and have to spend my life savings buying more bags, bag by bag, next year?

Now, once I get the information on what I can recycle and how to package my recyclable goodies, I need something else. Where will I put the recycled stuff?

Surely the Important Information sheet is pulling my leg! We are to take our recyclable trash to Future Fuel. Where is that, anyway? And we have exactly seven hours to take it there, some-time within a four hour time span on Thursday evening and a three hour time span on Saturday morning. This must be a joke!

What about those people who do not have cars? What about senior citizens? Are they to take a taxi to Future Fuel? Are they to beg their neighbors for a lift to the recycling bins? Are they to walk to the recycling bins, dragging their trash behind them?

If we are going to be paying anywhere from $1.00 to $25 more per month for trash disposal, could not some of that revenue be used to set up recycling bins around town, accessible to all? And anyway, what is all that revenue going to be used for?

What about curb pickup of recyclable items? What about alley pickup?

If, as the Important Information sheet says, the purpose of this new state legislation is to "...encourage people to reduce and/or recycle their garbage," then someone darn well better provide all of us City of Thief River Falls Garbage Collection Customers with information and instructions on how to do that recycling and reducing, and also provide us with somewhere to put the stuff once we have done the reducing and recycling.

Enterprise zone being phased out

Originally, the legislation was created to benefit border cities, like Duluth which were seeking assistance to equalize the tax burden across state lines. High taxes in Minnesota made it difficult for cities along the borders of North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin to keep businesses interested in continuing their business in Minnesota. The legislature then altered the bill in 1983 to accommodate cities in Minnesota meeting requirements of border zones, and included competitive criteria such as economic hardship. Thus, two types of communities were identified in the enterprise zone program — border cities and competitive cities.

It was no secret that Thief River Falls suffered heavily during the winter of 1981-82 when Arctic Cat snowmobile manufacturer closed its doors ending nearly 1,800 jobs in a community of about 9,100. Currently, the population is 8,010. Stewart said the population loss could have been worse.

Because of the economic hardship being experienced in Thief River Falls it was among the first five competitive city zones identified.

In all, about 16 enterprise zones were created in Minnesota. The program was funded in 1983 when the legislature allocated $22 million. Participants were required to match state grants. Thief River Falls' share was about 14 per cent or $245,000. The city's contribution was met by providing water, sewer and power installations. (There was no set percentage of contribution for enterprise zones. That figure was reached through negotiation.)

Other communities participating in the enterprise zone program included: Minneapolis, St. Paul, Mankato, Montevideo, Ortonville, Little Falls, Breckenridge, Duluth, Moorhead, Dilworth, Grand Rapids/Bovey/Deer River/Bass Brook township, Hibbing/Aurora/Hoyt Lakes/Babbitt/Silver Bay, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Virginia/Mountain Iron, and Thief River Falls.

This program, which became so successful for Thief River Falls, was jointly administered by the Minnesota department of energy and economic development and the Minnesota department of revenue.

Each city board that acted as the official representative was given a say in where and how the tax credits were to be used. Cities had seven years to allocate all of the tax credits and an additional five years to distribute those credits. By October 1990, Thief River Falls had to have allocated all of its credits.

Generally speaking, Stewart said, it was a successful program statewide. At one time, he said, it was estimated that for every dollar allocated through tax credits, the state received $1.50 back in the form of taxes paid by employees. For Thief River Falls, he said, the figure was more like $1.98 return in investment for the state, and that didn't include taxes paid by companies. Show me another social program that is that successful, Stewart said.

Having the program available is one thing, Stewart said. Finding someone with the entrepreneurial spirit to take the risk is another. So, the success of the program has a lot to do with the people who took the risk, Stewart said.

Stewart doubts that program will be implemented by the state again. There have been proposals to renew the project, but in view of the politics involved it isn't very likely to occur.

Donald Bentley, Green Thumb employee, works at the Thief River Falls Northwest Technical College. He checks out tools and keeps them organized. About 720 people participate in the Green Thumb program in eleven Northwest Minnesota counties

Myra Nesland is a Green Thumb employee at the Minnesota Senior Federation Northwest Region. Her duties include sales, secretarial work and referrals to other senior agencies. Green Thumb is a jobs program for people 55 years old and older.

day at the Northwest Technical College.

The job market has changed since members of this group started their first career. "When I got out of the service (1957) there was no problem getting a job. I worked 25 years in one place and I could go right across the street and get a job, but you don't find that anymore nowadays," said Charles Blokzyl, Green Thumb employee at the Red Lake Watershed District office.

Ralph Cox, the career management instructor, said the older students calmed the class. "I think a lot of the younger students looked at them and said 'That could be my grandma or grandfather. They're taking it fairly seriously, maybe I should too,'" Cox said.

Cox didn't believe it was an odd time for a career change and cited the fact that the average person will change jobs seven times in his or her lifetime.

The Green Thumb employees have held a multitude of jobs: clerical work, sales, nursing, mechanics, management, rural school teaching. Many employees were, or still are, farmers.

Three employees — Alvin Rude, Charles Blokzyl and Donald Bentley — are military veterans. "It was the first time I've gotten resumes which included 'World War II experience,'" Cox said.

Medical reasons forced some Green Thumb employees to retire. Ann Stanina developed carpal-tunnel syndrome and quit her job as a nurse's aid when her doctor told her to cease heavy lifting.

"He didn't want me to work for a year to three years and I said I could see myself unemployed for a year, but not for three years," said Stanina, who currently is a custodian at the Northwest Educational Cooperative Service Unit.

Retirement just didn't suit some Green Thumb members. "I had been off work for nine months and I got to the point where all I wanted to do was just sit and read and sleep," said Gena Fjeld, who cleans city offices. Fjeld said when it felt like she was wearing overshoes when she wasn't, she knew it was time to go back to work. Now, Fjeld said, she'll work as long as she has her health and can drive a car.

"You can retire from a job, but a person does not live very long if he is not going to do something when he retires. He's got to find (an activity) — if it's fishing or whatever he wants to do after retirement is very important," said Myra Nesland, a Green Thumb employee at the Minnesota Senior Federation Northwest Region.

"There are a lot of people who said, 'If I didn't have this job, I'd sit home and think about myself and all my problems,'" Nesland said.

Older students have advantages and disadvantages to finding jobs. Some advantages to hiring older people, listed by Green Thumb, are low absenteeism, low injury rate, maturity, experience and a low turnover rate.

An obstacle is finding part-time work, said Alvin Rude, an employee at the DAC, who found most employers seeking full-time workers.

Some Green Thumb employees agree that part-time work is ideal. Rude spends some of his spare time helping people with their income tax forms. "I enjoy working with the figures. My wife thinks I'm crazy, but I'm just anxious to get at it."

Fjeld enjoys working in schools. "(I don't like) it when we divide ourselves into certain groups," Fjeld said, "like the older ones, the younger ones, the middle-aged. I like everybody to mix, because you can get a lot of information from different groups and it keeps the older ones younger."

improvements, energy conservation and handicapped accessibility.

Sometime during the next month, Kerry Pehling, the community development intern, will stop at businesses in the survey area to visit with them to complete the survey. The cooperation of property owners and, in some instances, merchants, would be appreciated.

Stewart said boundaries for residential rehabilitation have not been defined and added that the survey area, which will probably include the downtown fringe area, will be pulled in because there just won't be enough money. Survey forms should be mailed out to single family property owners in the next two to three weeks.

In late April or early May, public meetings will be conducted to provide residents and property owners with more details on how the grant/loan program for commercial and residential rental rehabilitation will work. An Ad-Hoc committee comprised of representatives from the city council, planning commission, Housing and Redevelopment Authority, and central business district property owners, is working with representatives of the Community Development department and the Northwest Regional Development Commission, who will be writing the grant application.

BWSR gives approval to "wetland banking"

Proposed rule is under 60-day Legislative review

Proposed rule is under 60-day review by the Minnesota Legislature

Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) has given provisionary approval to a new system of "wetland banking" which would allow individual, organizations and state and local governments to buy and sell wetland credits.

The banking system will keep a record of "account holders" who have earned credits through restoring previously lost wetlands or creating new ones. Anyone wishing to drain or fill a wetland will be able to receive a list of those accounts, contact an account holder and arrange to buy the account holder's wetland credits—provided the transaction is approved by the appropriate local government and is part of a wetland replacement plan.

The rule was developed by two groups that included wide representation from farmers, developers, business interests, environmentalists, sporting interest and local, state and federal government. Throughout November and December the BWSR held 26 public hearings and public information meetings around the state to inform the public about the rule and receive feedback.

The rule is currently under a 60-day review process by the Minnesota Legislature. It is expected to come before the BWSR for final approval at its Wednesday, May 26 meeting.

A spokesperson for the BWSR said the banking system in another option developed to help landowners comply with the Minnesota Wetland Conservation Act, a 1991 law intended to result in "no net loss" of wetlands in Minnesota. Under the act, anyone wishing to drain or fill a wetland must work with the appropriate local unit of government to judge if the wetland is included in the act's jurisdiction. If it is, they must determine if draining or filling can be avoided. If not, the landowner must make an effort to minimize the effects on the wetland and must develop a wetland replacement plan for the local government's approval. Wetland banking will be an alternative in cases in which project-specific replacement is not practical.

The banking program is included in an administrative rule recently adopted by the BWSR, which is the state agency responsible for administration of the act. The BWSR will oversee the bank on a statewide basis, with a variety of local governments—such as cities, townships, watershed management organizations (WMOs) or counties—managing local or regional wetland banks.

The rule sets up basic minimum ratios for all wetland replacement. On non-agricultural land, at least two wetland acres must be restored or created for every one acre drained or filled. On agricultural land, the ratio is one to one. More replacement acres can be required depending on the functions and values of the wetland and the location of the replacement acres.

In counties with less than 80 per cent of their pre-settlement wetlands intact (basically northwest, southern and portions of central Minnesota), landowners must replace wetlands within the same county or watershed.

For the purposes of the rule, counties having less than 80 per cent of the pre-settlement wetland acreage intact are most counties in the state, including Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau, Kittson, Marshall and Clearwater in this area.

In counties with more than 80 per cent of their pre-settlement wetlands intact (basically north central and northeast Minnesota), landowners can replace within the same county or watershed or in a county with less than 50 per cent of its pre-settlement wetlands intact.

For the purposes of the rule, counties having 80 per cent or more of their pre-settlement wetland acreage intact are Aitkin, Kanabec, Beltrami, Koochiching, Carlton, Lake, Cass, Lake of the Woods, Cook, Mille Lacs, Crow Wing, Pine, Houston, St. Louis, Hubbard, Wabasha, Isanti, Winona and Itasca.

Since the Wetland Conservation Act went into effect Jan. 1, 1992, approximately 1,400 wetlands have been saved simply by modifying the proposed projects to avoid wetlands, according to an estimate by Greg Larson, administrator of the program for the BWSR. All or part of about 350 wetlands have been drained or filled only after a replacement wetland has been certified, and about 1,700 wetlands have been determined to be exempt from the act, Larson said.

"Overall, we're very pleased with the job local governments have been doing in implementing the act," Larson said. "Most often, it has resulted in projects being restructured to avoid disturbing a wetland, frequently at very little extra trouble or expense to the person proposing the project."

For more information about the program, contact a local soil and water conservation district office, a county planning and zoning office or the regional office of the Board of Water and Soil Resources.

TRF building inspector submits annual report

1992 construction costs down by over $1 million in TRF

Total number of building permits issued in 1992 increased slightly over the previous year, according to Bob Bregier, building inspector.

Bregier issued his annual report on building permits to the city council Tuesday evening. While the number of building permits were up over the previous year, Bregier said, total construction costs were down about $1 million. Bregier said the decline was due to fewer larger projects. Bregier anticipates a big year next year because of an increase in the number of larger projects, like the school project.

There were a total of 206 building permits issued in 1992. The total construction cost of these permits was $6,133,172.

The 206 building permits were broken down into several categories:

- There was one permit at $391,000 for a new multi-family dwelling.
- There were three permits issued at $170,000 for new single family dwellings.
- There were 147 permits issued at $814,899 for residential remodeling and additions.
- There were four permits issued at $2,535,000 for new non-residential buildings.
- There were 51 permits issued at $2,222,273 for non-residential remodeling and additions.

The average cost of new dwellings in the past 10 years have varied about $10,000. In 1982, for example, the average cost of a new dwelling erected was $45,000. In 1992, the average cost of a new dwelling erected was $56,667. Of course that figure depends on the type of house and the number of homes constructed in the community. Last year, there were only three permits issued for new single family dwellings.

Total construction costs tend to vary greatly. A multi-million dollar project such as the water treatment plant can throw off the average significantly. In 1982, the total construction cost was $1,356,087. As stated earlier, the total construction cost in 1992 was $6,133,172, which is less than the $7,236,333 recorded in 1991.

In addition to issuing construction permits, the building inspector also issues various other permits. A total of 135 permits were issued that were in addition to the construction permits. Those permits were broken down into the following categories:

- 46 mobile home permits;
- 39 plumbing permits;
- two moving permits;
- six demolition permits;
- three permits to remove abandoned tanks;
- 13 sign permits;
- 26 temporary sign permits.

Total revenue to the building inspector's office totaled $37,012. That total includes money from city permits and contract work for the city of Warren. Fifty cents of every thousand dollars in construction cost is paid through the building inspectors accrual budget to the state of Minnesota. The total accrual budget was $41,000.

Can enzyme regimen end obesity?

WASHINGTON – A nutritional research organization says that a special enzyme regimen can promote extremely fast, yet safe weight loss.

National Dietary Research, an organization whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, says that the regimen called the Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System utilizes biological information often overlooked in diet programs. With the Metabolase Plus System, you consume at least 6 meals a day from a wide variety of foods followed by the enzymes to overcome the body's natural resistance to weight loss.

To demonstrate the effectiveness, NDR sponsored a promotion where free samples were given to 50 people. The results found that women following the regimen lost over a pound a day and men lost over two pounds a day. The director of research and development at NDR cautions that these results may not necessarily be indicative of what the average consumer could expect because the rate of weight loss for individuals varies.

A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive distribution rights to the enzyme regimen. The Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System is available through physicians, pharmacies, and health food stores without a prescription. However, because of the overwhelming demand, quantities are sometimes limited.

Council airs controversy on park grant

Tuesday, Deputy Chief Duane Holland read a letter for Chief Froehlicher which explained that police had received many noise complaints in the spring and just before the start of school. The response of the police, according to the letter, is as it is with any noise complaint — issue a warning the first time and then a citation after that, he said.

Barron pointed out that with the proposed closing of Northrop and Knox elementary schools, a number of options will become available to the city. He concluded his presentation by stating that it would be better to wait and see what happens.

The outcome of the lengthy discussion Tuesday night was to refer the issue to the park board and planning commission for discussion with property owners.

Don Stewart, community development director, said the discussion was a good example of why it is a good idea to hold public hearings before making grant applications. In this situation, the city was not required to hold a public hearing. And, Stewart said he can understand city staff reluctance to hold public hearings when, as in many instances, few people turn out for the public hearings.

Mayor Bob Reeve stated that in all fairness, turnout at the last couple of public hearings had been very good.

■ The council approved a request to establish a fund for a proposed Beltline snowmobile trail system.

Approval of a fund for a proposed trail system around the city for snowmobile was granted by the council on condition that a termination date (sunset clause) be included.

Ron Nelson presented the proposal explaining that the intent is to establish a groomed and marked trail system around the city, and marked trails into the city. He estimated the cost of the project at between $50,000 and $55,000, which include a trail groomer, maps and signs. Nelson said a tax exempt fund with the city was needed to receive funds for the project.

In response to a question, City Attorney Paul Ihle explained that the city would have no liability if it only accepts contributions and takes no active part in the project.

As part of the approval, a sunset clause had to be added to the request. The fund will be closed December 31, 1994.

■ The council approved a two-year proposal with the Teamsters.

The Teamsters agreed to accept a two-year proposal for 1993/1994. The total two-year package cost is estimated at $106,739 or a 7.1 per cent package increase (1993 estimated cost is $56,232 or 3.73 per cent, and 1994 estimated cost is $50,507 or 3.2 per cent.

Mayor Reeve praised the union for working with the city during the contract negotiations.

In other business, the council: called for plans and specifications for the 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvement project; approved a change in the wastewater department ordinance and approved a fee change; approved an enterprise zone tax credit application for Country Lake Foods Distribution; approved a request to authorize interest-only payments from Behavioral Dynamics Inc.; approved bids received for utility department construction materials; approved a progression raise for Diane Torblaa; approved recommendation to adopt electric service standards as presented; approved the purchase through the state of a van for the water department; established a schedule of council participation in the annual board of review process; approved dance requests; approved recommendation to acknowledge and encourage "the need to continue to affirmatively further fair housing under the terms of the grant of federal funds for the water treatment plant".

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf and Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls and Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy were among those to attend the event. About 75 legislators and 120 SWCD supervisors and staff attended.

Sen. Joe Bertram of Paynesville told the group that he supported soil and water conservation districts and would fight any proposals to abolish them or combine them with other units of government.

Some of the legislative priorities that SWCD representatives discussed at the breakfast involved increased or stable funding for a number of different programs, including the state erosion cost-share program and water planning program. The group also requested funding to administer wetland regulations.

The breakfast meeting was sponsored by the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Toni Chiodo (left) was named top defensive player, while Amy Adams (right) was selected most valuable and top offensive player during the Thief River Falls girls high school basketball banquet Monday. Adams we also recognized as an All North Sub Section 8AA selection and as the Prowlers' career rebound leader, while Chiodo was introduced as the new career assist leader.

Adams named as top award winner

Senior Amy Adams was selected the most valuable player on the 1992-93 Thief River Falls girls high school basketball team Monday during the Prowlers' annual post-season awards banquet.

Adams was also named the team's top offensive player, was recognized as the Prowlers' career rebound leader with 744 – supplanting previous record-holder Michelle Putz with 703 from 1983-86 – and was singled out as Thief River Falls' lone All-North Sub-Section 8AA selection this winter.

Two juniors picking up awards were Toni Chiodo, voted the Prowlers' top defensive player for the third straight year, and Lisa Ulrich, who was tabbed as the team's most improved player. Chiodo was also introduced as the new school career assist leader with 305 – five more than Jodi Kruta had when she graduated a year ago.

Adams and sophomore Kara Boughton were presented as co-winners of the Prowlers' late-season free throw shooting contest – both hitting 88 of 100 attempts.

Ulrich and Chiodo were named captains of the 1993-94 Prowlers, a position Chiodo shared with Adams this winter.

Head coach Sally Wiltse presented athletic letters to Adams; juniors Nicole Armstrong, Jami Dehnert, Lori DeLap, Lori Golightly, Stef Swanson, Chiodo, and Ulrich; sophomores Carrie Lawrence, Lisa Rendulich and Kelly Skeim; along with student managers Jennifer Vigen, Holly Miller, Dani DuChamp, and Kiki Goddard.

Participation certificates went to sophomores Sara Huschle, Erika Jensen, Jana Johnson, Holly Stusynski, Jennie Wilde, and Boughton; freshmen Lydia Balmer, Kendra Dimich, Jaime Femrite, Jacqueline Flynn, Angela Haugen, Sarah Hoefer, Tracy Koivisto, Sarah Koland, Natalie Loeffler, Heather Misson, Tausha Nytand, Lisa Odegaard, Mylynda Olson, Anne Padilla, Becky Phillips, Traci Rendulich, Cami Sorenson, Rachel Stusynski, Lisa Swanson, Bobbi Jo Teiken, Maren Thorson, and Laura Williams; plus student managers Jennifer Gaffaney and Angie Gunstad.

Svir leads Prowlers' 1992-93 hockey scoring charts

Unable to put together a string of wins until late in the year, Thief River Falls fell short of preseason goals and expectations during the 1992-93 high school hockey season.

With a number of players returning from a team that went 10-10-3 the previous winter, the Prowlers figured to give defending Section 8 champion Moorhead a serious title run.

But it didn't happen. Thief River Falls finished 12-11-1 after spending all of December and most of January bouncing between the win and the loss column. The Prowlers did not put consecutive wins together until the final two weeks of the regular season when they knocked off Crookston 4-1, Alexandria 6-5, Bemidji 3-1, and Fergus Falls 5-2.

That season-ending surge gave Thief River Falls some momentum heading into the playoffs, and the No. 5-seeded Prowlers kept it going with an 8-4 Section 8 quarterfinal win over No. 4 Fergus Falls.

But a semifinal encounter with the No. 1-seeded Spuds, while producing some early-game excitement, wound up as a season-ending 8-3 loss.

The Prowlers had some lofty aspirations this winter, acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo, and the final record might have been a little less than anticipated. But it was a long way from a disappointing season, he said.

"Any time you start a year with a veteran squad, your expectations are certainly higher than if you have a bunch of young kids," offered Chiodo. "And we had those expectations. But to meet those goals, everything has to fall into place. That didn't always happen, but we did play well down the stretch, won five-in-a-row, reached the Section 8 semifinals, and wound up losing to the best team in the section. I feel good about the way we played at the end of the year. We finished strong. I was happy with it."

Nine seniors who played regularly will be lost to graduation, including goalie Trevor Haugen, defensemen Marc Haugen and Shane Skeim, along with forwards Nathan Knutson, Carter Rogalla, Ryan Kraemer, Rick Olson, Jason Svir, and Jeremy Olson.

Svir led the Prowlers in scoring for the second straight year. His 24 goals, 21 goals and 45 points elevated him into a tenth place tie on the all-time Thief River Falls career scoring list with Tim Bergland a 1983 Lincoln High School graduate who is currently a member of the National Hockey League Tampa Bay Lightning. Bergland (46-43) and Svir (52-37) both finished with 89 points. No. 1 on the list is Jack Erickson, Class of '52, with 168 points.

Svir's 45 points, which was a 10-point increase over his junior campaign, is the highest single-season figure for the Prowlers since Bergland's 53-point senior year. Dale Wennberg owns the Thief River Falls single-season scoring record with 70 points in 1959-60.

Seniors held down the top five positions in the Prowlers' 1992-93 scoring charts.

Five underclassmen skated regularly this winter, including defensemen Brent Kleinvachter and Kaine Martell, plus forwards Jeff Twomey, Corey Olson and Marc Seaverson, while Eric Dowers rotated in goal earlier in the year before Haugen took over for the stretch run. Martell is a freshman; the others are juniors.

Those returning players, along with members of a 14-8-1 Thief River Falls junior varsity and prospects from a Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association District 16 champion Bantam A team, will be vying for 1993-94 roster positions.

"We'll certainly miss this year's seniors," said Chiodo. "It's a group of kids who have played major roles throughout their athletic careers. But life goes on. We'll have new faces and new seniors next year. It'll be an opportunity for those kids to step in and play."

Two goalies and 18 skaters were chosen from the two rosters to form Team Minnesota. The metro-area Maroon outfit swept the outstate Gold squad 6-4, 6-5. ## Record bear harvest reported during '92 fall hunting season

Minnesota hunters took a record 3,130 bears in 1992, about 1,000 more than in 1991, according to the Department of Natural Resources. It was the seventh record harvest in the last 10 years.

"The 1992 harvest was slightly higher than expected due to higher hunter success rates in quota areas in the northeastern part of the state," said Dave Schad, the DNR Forest Wildlife Program leader. "Hunters experienced record success rates in this area, probably a result of poor natural foods. Bears were probably traveling more to find food and were more likely to respond to baits," he explained.

Black bears were first protected in Minnesota in 1971, and the current quota system was established in 1982.

"In the last 10 years, bear license sales have doubled and harvests have tripled," said Schad. "The quota system has allowed us to manage the harvest and increase bear populations and hunting opportunities very successfully," he noted. A 1991 population survey estimated the statewide population of black bears at about 14,000.

Minnesota's bear season runs from Sept. 1 to mid-October. Applications for the 1993 quota area licenses will be available in late March. The application deadline will be Friday, April 30.

Boat/Water Safety Award

State park study show economic benefits to area

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources recently released the results of a study undertaken by its Planning Department which examined the economic benefits of state parks.

The study concluded that Minnesota state parks more than pay for themselves. Spending by park visitors more than offset the state funding appropriated to run the parks according to research done as part of a study to assess the economic value of Minnesota's state parks.

According to state parks director Bill Morrissey, the study determined that in 1991, dollars spent by out-of-state tourists who visit Minnesota state parks and surrounding communities generated $17.6 million in income to Minnesotans. That amount, plus $5.9 million generated by state parks through user fees, permits and profits from merchandise sales, brought the total to $21.5 million. Morrissey noted that when researchers compared that figure to the $19.4 million annual budget for state parks in 1991, they concluded that the parks do pay for themselves, and then some.

Locally, the study indicates that in Marshall County, Old Mill State Park generates $107,800 in income annually from out-of-state visitors who make up over 20 percent of the park's 37,500 annual visitors. That is the amount of money out-of-state visitors spend in the area while visiting Old Mill State Park. In addition, the area benefits from visitors from other regions of the state who vacation or visit the park throughout the year. Study results show that day visitors spend about $19 per day in local communities and that overnight visitors at state parks spend about $23 per day.

Dr. Tim Kelly of the DNR Office of Planning, who coordinated the study, said the marketing committee was particularly interested in the amount of income generated by out-of-state visitors since that accounted for new money being brought into the state. Nearly 20 percent of all visitors to state parks are from other states. At Old Mill and other northwestern Minnesota state parks, a significant percentage of visitors are international – Canadians.

Kelly said, "It is only the influx of money from other states which can be considered a reimbursement to Minnesotans for funding the annual state park budget. In effect, it's a payback to the citizens of the state who support their state parks through taxes."

Morrissey added that communities near state parks have long recognized the economic value parks bring to their area, "but until now we did not have a validated dollar figure on the amount of new and redistributed dollars generated by park visitors."

"State parks provide many benefits to people in Minnesota and society at large," offered Morrissey. "Parks provide a refuge to relax, discover nature, exercise, and renew the spirit. They offer places where the public can participate in environmental education programs and learn about our early history and culture. The stresses and strains of our society have resulted in a greater need for natural and recreation outlets, and a real desire to experience a simpler lifestyle. Futurists tell us this trend to escape to nature will not only continue, but grow. State parks play a vital role in enhancing the quality of life and providing needed recreational opportunities."

Outdoor News

Campground Hosts Sought

Campground volunteer hosts are being sought by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources to work at selected state parks this summer.

Hosts work five days a week for one month between Memorial Day and Labor Day. They provide information on their park to other campers, answer campers' questions, and perform minor campground maintenance such as picking up litter.

Hosts must purchase state park vehicle permits, but hosts are provided with free campsites. Some campgrounds have electricity, flush toilets, picnic tables, fire grates and drinking water.

Ideal hosts are mature, experienced campers who love the outdoors, have a genuine interest in protecting natural resources, and are willing to assist other campers.

For a free campground host information kit, write: Campground Host Program, DNR Parks and Recreation, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4039, or call Misty McIntyre at 612-296-9230.

Survey shows area bald eagle numbers are on the rise

Nongame wildlife specialists with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) documented 12 new bald eagle nests in northwest Minnesota in 1992, bringing the total number of active territories in the northwest region to 103. This does not include nesting sites in the Chippewa National Forest where federal authorities are responsible for tracking what, in recent years, has also been a steadily expanding population of nesting pairs.

Bald eagles are thriving, due in part to efforts by the Minnesota Nongame Wildlife Program to protect nesting habitat on both public and private lands. "The center of the range for bald eagles in northern Minnesota is the forest and lake country of Beltrami, Itasca and northern Cass counties," said Katie Haws, Regional Nongame Specialist at Bemidji. "However, as the population has expanded, eagle breeding pairs have set up nesting territories in such diverse spots as Hayes Lake State Park in Roseau County, and Glendalough State Park in southern Otter Tail County."

Minnesota's Nongame Wildlife Program is part of the DNR Section of Wildlife. A handful of nongame specialists, spread throughout the state, conduct special projects and work with other DNR resource managers to study, preserve and improve habitat conditions for more than 400 nongame species, including many that are officially classified as threatened or endangered.

Nongame programs are funded almost entirely by voluntary contributions from Minnesota taxpayers through the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff state income and property tax forms. Last year, wildlife minded contributors donated a total of $949,000. The average individual donation was just over $7.

Bald Eagles are the national symbol of the United States. They are classified as "threatened" on both state and federal endangered species lists. However, Minnesota's statewide bald eagle population had increased to more than 450 nesting pairs—compared to only 50 pairs in the late 1960s.

This dramatic increase has come about for several reasons. The powerful pesticide DDT, used extensively in the 1950s and early '60s, was directly linked to the decline of many bird species, especially bald eagles and other raptors or birds of prey. The general use of this chemical was banned in the U.S. about 20 years ago, with a resulting strong and steady increase in reproductive success and survival rates among raptors.

With heightened environmental awareness, both private citizens and public officials have placed a high value on natural resources. With programs like Turn In Poachers (TIP) Inc., the federal Endangered Species Act of 1973 and the Minnesota Wildlife Restitution Act of 1989, both game animals and nongame species are better protected now than ever before. The indiscriminate shooting of wildlife, especially threatened species like hawks, owls and eagles, has become a very serious, very expensive crime—the federal fine alone could be as much as $20,000.

In addition to improved environmental conditions and increased environmental awareness, Minnesota's bald eagle population had expanded because state nongame wildlife specialists and federal foresters have managed to locate and protect virtually every active eagle nesting site in Minnesota.

Eagles are surveyed on their summer range and on winter roost sites along the Mississippi River. Minnesota nongame specialists write individual management plans for most eagle nesting areas, including those on state and county-owned lands and privately owned land.

"Private land owners have been especially cooperative," said Haws, "voluntarily restricting activities near an active nest, and protecting the surrounding habitat."

Many other agencies such as the UofM Raptor Center in St. Paul, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the U.S. Forest Service, county land departments and Indian tribal governments are also involved in protecting bald eagles.

"I think the revival of the bald eagle in Minnesota has been more successful than anyone would have predicted," said Haws. "There's very good cooperation among government land managers, and between public and private land owners, whenever and wherever a new eagle nest shows up."

Most common nesting site for bald eagles is a tall white pine. A mating pair will build a large nest out of sticks and branches in the top of a live tree. In April the female will lay from one to three eggs. The eggs hatch in May, after about 35 days incubation, and the attentive parents spend the next three months feeding and caring for the young in the nest. After three to four months the fledging eaglets begin learning to fly, and soon after, learn to gather food for themselves.

Although they are as large as adults when they leave the nest, young bald eagles have completely dark plumage from head to tail. They don't develop their so called "bald" white heads and white tail feathers until they reach maturity at four to five years of age.

Eagles usually mate for life and return to the same area every year to nest. A pair will often build two or three nests in the same area and rotate among them, using a different one each season. "Bald eagles have lived up to 40 years in captivity," said Haws. "From banding studies on the Chippewa National Forest, we know that eagles can live up to 35 years in the wild."

Next time you see an eagle, remember the team effort that is involved in bringing eagles back.

Three to receive prison terms for area burglaries

Sentencing for three men charged with committing several burglaries in a four county area will be held in April, but on Monday details of a plea agreement were worked out in a Ninth District courtroom in Pennington county.

Two of the men involved in more than a dozen burglaries and thefts from 1991 to 1993 in Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake and Kittson counties are expected to be sentenced to 44 months in St. Cloud State Prison. A third man connected with the burglaries will serve less time.

It took the majority of the court's time Monday morning for the judge and three county attorneys at the hearing to sort through all of the case files and determine which charges the defendants would plead guilty to under the plea agreement. As an upshot of the court discussion Monday, 19-year-old Robert Eldon Swenson pled guilty to six counts of burglary in the third degree, two counts each of third degree burglary in Pennington, Marshall and Kittson counties. All other charges, which could have been as many as a dozen various theft and burglary charges, would be dismissed.

Even though charges were dismissed, Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy ordered that as part of the agreement, Swenson and the others involved in the case would be jointly and severally responsible for restitution. How much restitution would be involved was not immediately known. Since each of the three defendants involved is expected to be sentenced to serve time in a state penitentiary, restitution will be taken from wages earned while in prison.

In addition, the judge explained to the defendants that if they had not been totally forward with law enforcement and other crimes were uncovered they would be charged with those crimes.

Swenson appeared calm responding to each of the six charges. On the stand he said he had been drinking at the time, but still knew the difference between right and wrong.

It appeared from his testimony that none of the items taken had been sold or pawned, but had been taken and stored at a farm site.

Michael Lynn Verbout, 19, also pled guilty in a plea agreement Monday. He also can expect to be sentenced to 44 months at St. Cloud. In the agreement reached with him, he pled guilty to eight charges including six counts of burglary in the third degree, felony theft and aggravated driving while intoxicated. The charges against him stem from incidents reported in Pennington, Marshall, Kittson and Red Lake counties.

On the stand, Verbout also said that he had been drinking at the time of the incidents, but was aware of the difference between right and wrong.

Nineteen-year-old Ryan Leon Olson, the third defendant charged in connection with the same series of incidents, is expected to be given the lightest sentence of the three men.

Olson pled guilty to three counts of burglary in the third degree. Two of the charges were from incidents in Pennington county and one in Marshall county. As part of the plea agreement, he can expect to be sentenced to 32 months at St. Cloud.

All three defendants were represented by the assistant public defender, Don Aandal. Prosecutors present at the hearing were Al Rogalla, representing Pennington and Red Lake counties, Bradley Payton for Marshall county, and Bruce Nielson for Kittson county.

SWCD report shows activity for past year

Riverbank stabilization project at Centennial park in Thief River Falls and the sealing of 24 abandoned wells using cost share funds were among highlights listed in the 1992 annual report of the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District.

Annual member and cooperator banquet of the district for 1993 was held Thursday evening, March 25, at Redeemer Lutheran church.

The riverbank program at Centennial Park was done jointly by the district, City of Thief River Falls and the Red Lake Watershed District. The SWCD used $9,870 in cost share funds for the project.

In addition, the SWCD used over $4,000 in cost sharing with the City of Thief River Falls in a riverbank stabilization project at the Thief River Golf Club. Individual farmers also received assistance for field windbreak and storm water control systems.

Twenty-four abandoned wells were sealed in 1992 through the district program with three remaining to be completed this spring. Since the funding for the program was not renewed, it is considered doubtful that any additional well sealing will be conducted through the office in the future, according to Maggie Leach, water plan technician.

Leach worked with the Red Lake Watershed District on the Clearwater NPS study which included water sampling in the field and sample analysis in the lab. A plan for diagnostic study of the Red Lake and Thief river watersheds was submitted to the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources (LCMR) where it was given a hearing but not funded.

Donna Vettleson replaced Allan Gustafson as district conservationist in October when Gustafson was named the coordinator for the Pembina Trail RC&D in Red Lake Falls. She said her goal is to visit all landowners in the district who have a conservation plan as required by the 1985 farm bill to make sure that things are in line for implementation this fall.

An added practice for cost share is livestock wells where digging ponds could pose water quality problems in shallow water table areas.

Tree planting continued to be a popular practice in the county with 17,000 trees sold last year and 14 acres of farmstead windbreaks and 10,000 feet of field shelterbelts planted in 1992.

Richard and Donna Parnow received the outstanding cooperator award and Clarence and Janice Peterson the farm beautification award.

Eight people monitored rainfall in April through September and reported their recorded amounts to the district office. Monitors, township and amount of total rainfall for the six months included the following:

Vern Cleven, Smiley, 16.56 inches; Allan Gustafson, North, 16.86; Harry Hanson, Hickory, 18.62; Greg Hilgeman, Deer Park, 18.47; Edgar Miller, Reiner, 17.59; Raymond S. Olson, Numedal, 15.66; Clarence Swanson, Polk Centre, 15.77; and Eugene Wiskow, Goodridge, 16.41.

Largest rainfall amount for any one month was 8.14 inches recorded by Harry Hanson in Hickory township in August.

Mural contest winners with their entry in the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District contest were Jessica Olson and Gretchen Hanson of Franklin middle school. They received a $25 cash prize and were recognized at the SWCD banquet Thursday.

Trees were also planted on the riverbank below the powerplant dam in Thief River Falls in cooperation with School District 564, the Smiley 4-H club and the Sentence to Serve program.

Through the co-sponsorship of American Legion Post 117, Laurel and Stefan Ronchetti attended Long Lake Conservation Center. The two students attended a meeting of the district board in December to report on their attendance. The district also received a special award from the Long Lake center for 25 continuous years of sponsoring students to attend the camp.

Board supervisors Leonard Skaar, Harry Hanson and Danny Johnson and staff members Donna Vettleson and Maggie Leach attended the annual convention of the state association in December.

At the end of December the district recorded 1992 assets of $126,587, liabilities of $88,976 and fund equity of $37,610.

Daniel R. Johnson served as chairman of the board of supervisors with Clair Larson as vice chairman, Raymond S. Olson as secretary, Harry Hanson as treasurer and Leonard Skaar as public relations director.

Staff members included Gary Lane, district manager; Maggie Leach, water plan technician; Barb Molskness, district coordinator; Janet Heieren, district secretary; and Dan Sprosty, office assistant.

USDA Soil Conservation Service personnel assisting the district were Allan Gustafson and Donna Vettle-

Cocktail waitress at 83 calls her job an 'outing'

(Editor's Note: The following article by Bonnie Wentzel of Bemidji appeared in "The North Country Senior Advocate" published in Bemidji. The subject is her grandmother, Caroline Brunelle, who is the mother of Bonnie's mother, Pat Reed of Thief River Falls. Mrs. Brunelle does her waitress work at the Eagles club in Thief River Falls. Bonnie Reed Wentzel is a former reporter-photographer for The Times.)

by Bonnie Wentzel

This grandma didn't ask for anything at Christmas. She never does.

"Anything will be fine," she smiles, like she always does.

You won't find this 83-year-old grandma sitting idly at home for long. Two nights a week she makes her way, usually on foot, to a job she's had for the past 35 years. She's become a pro at cocktail waitressing, many of her customers have become her friends.

"It's an outing," "Grandma" Caroline Brunelle says of her job. "I know practically everybody there. And, if I'm not busy, I can talk to people."

Her waitressing days go back—way back—to 1946, when she worked at a restaurant/bar establishment known as the Mint.

The job meant putting in 16 hour days, seven days a week. Having a co-worker, who was also her best friend, made the job her favorite through the years, she says.

In the early 1960s, until 1974 she worked as a pastry cook at an elementary school. That job meant getting to work at 7 a.m. sharp to begin preparing large quantities of food for hungry youngsters at lunch time.

When she wasn't working away from home, she kept herself busy with other activities and with friends.

She started baking "on her own" she says, and in her early days of baking she sold many of her products. Today, when visitors come to call, her early '50s refrigerator is packed with an assortment of freshly baked cookies. When banana prices are down, it's not uncommon to find 10 or more loaves of "secret recipe" banana bread resting on her kitchen counters.

Three days a week she slips into her jogging suit and makes her way to the nearby senior citizens/community center for aerobics.

"I'm the oldest one there," she smiles.

"Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays I play bingo," she says. "Wednesday nights are my reading nights. I go to the store, get the local paper, the Minneapolis Star and The Enquirer, and I read."

Every Sunday morning, regardless of the fact she's worked until the wee hours of the morning the night before, she attends church.

"Friday's my day to stay home," she says.

The top of her television set holds a collection of the most recent photographs of grandkids and great-grandkids. She is mom to two daughters, grandma to seven grown children and great-grandma to 18 youngsters.

Across from the television set, near her favorite plush rocking chair, rests a crossword puzzle book and pen.

"That's the first thing I do when I get up in the morning," she says of the puzzles. "I've done them for years. They say that's good for you—it keeps your mind open."

Her cozy, comfortably decorated second story apartment in the small northwestern Minnesota town of Thief River Falls has been her home for the past 42 years.

Looking at her auburn hair, glittering over-sized jewelry and her carefully matched two-piece holiday outfit, one would never guess her age. She can recite events and dates as if they happened yesterday.

Seeing her smile and talk, one would also never guess life wasn't always as enjoyable as it seems to be now.

There is a bit of sadness when she delves deep into her past.

"I've had a hard life," she explains.

Caroline was one of five children. The family farmed, which meant long hours and hard work. She lost her mother when she was eight years old, and a sister died at a young age of blood poisoning.

Two years after her mother's death, her father remarried. That's when life became "miserable," she

WHOLE WHEAT BIBLE STUDY

How to be a friend of God

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Being a friend of God is not as difficult as it may seem. It involves a simple matter of respect. You don't obey one whom you don't respect.

If you didn't respect your earthly father, you not obey him. If, however, he punished you for disobeying him, you would, in turn, respect and obey him.

In the same manner, to obey God is to serve God. To serve God is to love God, and to love God is to serve our neighbor first, before self (1 Cor. 10:24). Even Jesus Christ, our example, did not live to serve Himself, but others (Rom. 15:3). He came to show us how to be servants of God by being servants of others (Matt. 20:26-28; Phil. 2:5-7). He taught us to serve God by serving the sick, the blind, the lame, the widow in distress; by visiting or caring for orphans; by giving to those who ask things of us; and by doing many such acts of righteousness for God and His glory (James 1:27). These are ways we produce fruits of righteousness for God.

God's Will is righteousness, and when we perform righteousness, we are doing the Will of God on this earth as it is being done in heaven. If the Father in heaven is continually doing righteousness, which He is, and Jesus Christ constantly performed good deeds to be pleasing to the Father when He was here on earth, how much more should we strive to do good deeds for God (John 4:34; 5:30, 34; 6:63; 8:29; 12:47, 50)? We do this by practicing righteousness daily to please Him in every way in order to imitate and obey Him (Eph. 5:1).

Once we are aware that God rewards righteousness and punishes wickedness on a daily basis like a loving father, we know that we reap what we sow (Gal. 6:7). So if all we sow is righteousness, then we'll reap God's blessings each day!

She married in 1928. In 1944, after a difficult marriage, she and her husband separated. Her father died at age 80 and she took care of him in her home during the last eight years of his life.

Caroline's been healthy most of her life. If something does get her down, she's right back to work as soon as she is able.

Shortly after her retirement from her job as pastry cook, she was hit by a car while walking home from the grocery store. The mishap meant a ruptured pelvis that put her in the hospital for 35 days. She returned to waitressing about two months after she got out of the hospital. The summer of 1952 she had ulcer surgery and she had gall bladder surgery the summer of 1965 but returned to work that fall. She's also had implants in both of her eyes.

Caroline hasn't driven a car since the '30s.

"Walking is good for you," she explains.

Winter or summer, you'll see her walking where she needs to go, and she'll often refuse a ride when asked.

"I'm almost there," she'll smile. "But thank you."

She is anxiously awaiting her 85th birthday party. For her 80th, family and friends gathered at her work site to help her celebrate. She didn't refuse a dance. Her family has promised her another when she turns 85.

About her working and keeping busy, she stands firm by a philosophy that has managed to keep her youthful through the years.

Minnesota Second In Nation In Well-Being Of Children

According to a publication called "Kids Count Data Book" published by the Center for the Study of Social Policy in Washington, DC, Minnesota ranks in the top 10 in seven categories relating to the well-being of children. Overall, the state ranks second behind New Hampshire, followed in order by Vermont, North Dakota and Iowa.

Statistics can often be made to prove just about anything that you want them to, but this report from a non-profit research and policy analysis organization is generally encouraging. We say generally encouraging, because the number of incidents involving children as victims of violence in Minnesota is appalling, and it is disappointing to believe that this problem is even worse in other states.

In general, however, the "Kids Count Data Book" report should be well received in the state.

Minnesota ranks first in the nation in the percentage of students graduating from high school with 89.4 per cent compared with a national average of 68.7 per cent. There may be a number of reasons for that percentage, but it is certainly good that nearly nine out of 10 students in Minnesota will earn their high school diplomas.

The state ranks second in death rates per 100,000 children aged 1-14 at 21, compared with 30.5 deaths per 100,000 nationally. And while the national teen violent death rate increased by 13 per cent nationwide, it declined in Minnesota.

Almost unbelievably, the national juvenile arrest rate increased by 48 per cent and 44 states showed significant increases. Several states had increases of 67 and 68 per cent and in New York there were 980 arrests per 100,000 juveniles—the highest rate of any state and a 47 per cent increase. In Minnesota, however, the juvenile crime arrest rate declined by 18 per cent.

Percentages can be misleading because changes in smaller numbers can result in large percentage swings. But it is a concern that in Minnesota the percentage of single teenage mothers grew by 29 per cent compared to a 16 per cent rise on the national level. Despite the increase, however, Minnesota ranks eighth lowest of all the states in births to single teens.

Minnesota ranks 29th nationwide in the percentage of children in poverty following an 18 per cent growth between 1985 and 1989.

The study in general confirms what most people in the state already believed—than this is a good state to have children and raise a family.

Here's A Plug For Trees And Tree Planting

Minnesota Forestry Association (MFA) is one of several organizations which are promoting trees and tree planting and we believe it is on the right track. Last year the association distributed more than 130,000 tree seedlings through its seedling program.

"As these young trees grow," states a spokesman for the association, "they will provide wildlife habitat, protection against soil erosion, provide energy conserving shade and windbreaks and help to clean the air by processing carbon dioxide into oxygen."

The spokesman said that members of the MFA "know that few things are as satisfying as nurturing a seedling and watching it grow to a young tree and on to maturity." That may be a bit of overstatement, compared to a drink of cold water on a hot day or watching one's children grow and mature, but we understand what is being said. There is satisfaction to be derived over a long period of time when a planted tree continues to thrive.

If you want to "buy in" on the chance to have the satisfaction of watching some trees grow, the MFA is offering seedlings for sale. This year's varieties include Norway/Red Pine, Colorado/Blue Spruce, White Spruce, Red Maple, River Birch and White Pine. They are shipped in sealed poly bags with species name, care and planting instructions printed on each bag. Seedlings will keep for up to one month after delivery if the unopened bag is kept in a cool, shaded area.

Prices are $1.05 per seedling for 10 to 24 trees, 85 cents per seeding for 25 to 74 trees, 75 cents per seedling for 75 to 149 trees, 60 cents per seedling for 150 to 199 trees and 45 cents per seedling for orders over 200 trees. All orders are subject to 6 1/2 per cent sales tax unless a tax exempt number can be furnished. Prices include shipping costs.

For additional information about the seedling sales program—or to order seedlings—call the special toll-free number 1-800-821-8733 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Minnesota Forestry Association is the state's oldest conservation organization, funded in 1876 to promote wise stewardship of forest lands. Its members include tree farmers, woodland owners, gardeners, educators, foresters, loggers and many others who are simply concerned with promoting the care and wise use of Minnesota's renewable resources.

The association also issues a reminder that April 22 is Earth Day, April 30 is Arbor Day and that the Month of May is observed as Arbor Month. Trees are a great renewable resource and those who plant them now will be doing a service to future generations as well as themselves.

Persons interested in trees are also invited to join the National Arbor Day Foundation which offers 10 shade tree seedlings with a $10 membership. The trees are red oak, weeping willow, sugar maple, green ash, thornless honeylocust, pin oak, river birch, tuliptree, silver maple and red maple. They are six inches to a foot in height and will be shipped postpaid along with planting instructions at the right time for planting in April or May. Trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

The $10 membership may be sent with name and address by April 30 to Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68401.

High School Paper Pulls Fast One

"Lincoln high school students rubbed their eyes this week when they saw in the Lincoln Log, student publication, a black headline informing them that this month they would enjoy a three-weeks Eastern vacation, a shortage of janitors being the professed reason. On further perusal, however, they found they were reading a special April Fool's edition of the Log, which changed its name for the occasion to the Lincoln Fog."

"Ben J. Kiwel, chairman of the tin can salvage campaign, reported today that in response to the appeal published in the Times last week, more than a ton of properly prepared cans were brought into local grocery stores during the week-end, and they were transported to Crookston to be loaded on a freight car for shipment. Calling attention to the government's urgent need for tin, Mr. Kiewel urged residents to continue saving all cans and to bring them in to the stores at regular intervals."

River Valley Resident Sees First Meadowlark

With the Victory Aides

"Two hundred seventy pounds of nylon and silk stockings were shipped from Pennington county March 25, making the total shipped since January 1st, 353 pounds. Those worn-out stockings are important because they make gunpowder bags and parachutes. Your old silk stockings make powder bags, chiefly used by the Navy. They hold powder to discharge shells from big caliber guns. Only silk can be used, for only silk burns without leaving an ash."

Four Dogs from Red Lake Game Refuge Go Into Army

"The last four dog employees of the Minnesota conservation department have gone to war. Spooks, Mutt, Boro and Prince, 65-pound cross-bred malemutes, samoyeds and shepherd dogs, until recently employed as sledge dogs for the division of games and fish in the Red Lake game refuge, were packed in crates and sent, via train from Waskish to the war dog reception and training center at Camp Rimini in Helena, Montana. The dogs are a gift from the game and fish division to the United States army. They will join the K-9 division of the army."

—A colleague says he would rather be a widow's second husband than her first. Naturally.

—The youngster who undertakes to be the last to cross the river ice should bear in mind that the feat also may be the last of him.

—The OPA is in bad odor since it failed to ration some of the smellier cheeses.

—It looks now, observes the Mahnomen Pioneer, as thought Italy is playing the game with duces wild.

—Short-handed as they are, local grocers and meat dealers are getting nothing but a headache out of the rationing program.

—Only a bust, they tell us, will be an appropriate monument to Hitler.

—Since the buying of war bonds is an investment rather than a donation, it doesn't seem impossible that Pennington county will attain its $230,000 quota in the April campaign.

—Many a yearning look was cast at the local creamery last week when butter sales were halted by the OPA.

—The low-income folks will agree that soaring prices are as effective a rationing device as any.

—One project over which there should be no division of opinion is the community garden program headed by W. R. Ferber.

—The Ruml plan seems to be having as hard sledding as the Rommel plan.

—Better tread the straight and narrow path today. Remember, it's April Fools Day.

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Polk County, Minnesota April 5, 1893

The St. Hilaire Dramatic Society

"By invitation, our reporter had the pleasure of witnessing Prof. Gambell's amateur dramatic club practice 'Ten Nights in a Bar Room,' Tuesday evening. He was agreeably surprised and pleased with the performance and ability shown by all. As it will be interesting to many to know who have taken part, we shall give the names: The first scene is opened by Mr. E. Stranahan as Mr. Romain, J. M. Hanson as Sample Switchel, Carl Johnson as Simon Slade the innkeeper, Prof. Gambell as Joe Morgen, Willie Stranahan as Frank Slade, Ed Giste as Willie Hammond, W. A. Arthur as Harvey Green the villain, Miss Alice Holmes as Mrs. Slade, Miss Edith Peters as Mrs. Morgan, Miss May Halvorson as Miss Mehitable Cartright, and Miss Millie Stranahan as Mary Morgan. The manger informed us that it is the intention of the club to make their debut before the public at St. Hilaire the 20th of this month. One noticable feature was the natural ability displayed by the lady performers. Little Millie Stranahan, only eight years old, is a wonder in herself and would do credit to a much more pretentious troup."

Law Enforcement News?

"One of the prominent citizens of Thief River Falls, finding that place decidedly too hot for him, 'folded his tent and silently stole away,' arriving here at eleven o'clock at night. We have not learned the particulars but understand that a rope, tar and feathers and a barrel of gun powder were among the things that caused him to take his hasty departure."

ORDINANCE NO. 212 2ND SERIES

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA, AMENDING CITY CODE CHAPTER 10 ENTITLED "PUBLIC PROTECTION, CRIMES AND OFFENSES" BY AMENDING A SECTION RELATING TO SHADE TREE DISEASE CONTROL AND PREVENTION, AND, BY ADOPTING BY REFERENCE, CITY CODE CHAPTER 1 AND SECTION 10.99, WHICH, AMONG OTHER THINGS, CONTAIN PENALTY PROVISIONS

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THIEF RIVER FALLS ORDAINS:

Section 1. City Code Sec. 10.40 entitled "Shade Tree Disease Control and Prevention" is hereby amended to read:

Subd. 1. Policy and Purpose. The City has determined that the health of oak and elm trees is threatened by fatal diseases known as oak wilt and Dutch elm disease. It has further determined that the loss of oak and elm trees located on public and private property would substantially depreciate the value of property and impair the safety, good order, general welfare, and convenience of the public. It is declared to be the intention of the Council to control and prevent the spread of these diseases, and provide for the removal of dead or diseased trees, as nuisances.

Subd. 2. Definitions. The following items, as used in this Section, shall have the meanings stated:

A. The term "shade tree disease" means Dutch elm disease or oak wilt disease.

B. The term "City Forester" means the person appointed by the Council, or such other employee of the City as the Council may designate, and who shall thereafter qualify, together with any designated assistants.

C. The term "infected" means (1) any living or standing tree infected to any degree with a shade tree disease; or (2) any logs, branches, stumps or other parts of any dead or dying tree so infected unless such parts have been fully burned or treated under the direction of the City Forester.

D. The term "Tree Inspector" means the person designated as City Forester.

Subd. 3. Scope and Adoption by Reference. Minnesota Statutes, Sections 18.01 through 18.023 inclusive, are hereby adopted by reference, together with the Rules and Regulations of the Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture relating to shade tree diseases, provided that this Section shall supercede such Statutes, Rules and Regulations only to the extent of inconsistencies.

Subd. 4. Unlawful Act. It is a petty misdemeanor for any person to keep, maintain, or permit upon premises owned by the person or upon public property where the person has the duty of tree maintenance any nuisances as herein defined.

Subd. 5. Inspection and Diagnoses. It is the power and duty of the City Forester to enter upon public and private property at any reasonable time for the purpose of inspection for and diagnosing shade tree disease. In cases of suspected shade tree disease, and in performance of the City Forester's duties, the City Forester may remove such specimens, samples, and biopsies as may be necessary or desirable for diagnosis.

Subd. 6. Abatement of Nuisance. Abatement of a nuisance defined herein shall be by spraying, removing, burning, or otherwise effectively treating the infected tree or wood to prevent spread of shade tree diseases. Such abatement procedures shall be carried out in accordance with the current technical and expert methods and plans as may be designed by the Commissioner of Agriculture of the State of Minnesota. The City shall establish specifications for tree removal and disposal methods consistent therewith.

Subd. 7. Procedure for Removal of Infected Trees and Wood.

A. Whenever the City Forester finds with reasonable certainty that the infection, or danger of infection, exists in any tree or wood on any public or private property, the City Forester shall proceed as follows:

1. If the City Forester finds that the danger of infection of other trees is not imminent because of dormacy of shade tree disease, the City Forester shall make a written report of the finding to the Council which shall proceed by (1) abating the nuisance as a public improvement under Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 429, or (2) abating the nuisance as provided in Subparagraph B of this Subdivision.

2. If the City Forester finds that danger of infection of other trees is imminent, the City Forester shall notify the owner of the property, or the abutting property, as the case may be, by first class mail that the nuisance shall be abated within fifteen days from the date of mailing of such notice. If the nuisance is not abated within that time, the City Forester shall notify the owner by certified mail that the nuisance shall be abated within five days from the date of mailing of such notice. The City Forester shall immediately report such action to the Council, and after the expiration of the time limited by the notice, the City Forester may abate the nuisance.

3. If the City Forester finds with reasonable certainty that immediate action is required to prevent the spread of shade tree disease, the City Forester may proceed to abate the nuisance forthwith. The City Forester shall report such action immediately to the Council and to the abutting property owner, or to the owner of the property where the nuisance is located.

B. Upon receipt of the City Forester's report required by Subparagraph A, Item 1, the Council shall by resolution order the nuisance abated. Before action is taken on such resolution, the City shall publish notice of its intention to meet to consider taking action to abate the nuisance. This notice shall be mailed to affected property owners and published once no less than one week prior to such meeting. The notice shall state the time and place of the meeting, the streets affected, actions proposed, the estimated cost of the abatement, and the proposed basis of assessment, if any, of costs. At such hearing or adjournment thereof, the Council shall hear property owners with reference to the scope and desirability of the proposed project. The Council shall thereafter adopt a resolution confirming the original resolution with such modifications as it considers desirable and provide for the doing of the work by day labor or by contract.

C. The City Forester shall keep a record of the costs of abatements done under this Subdivision and shall report monthly to the City Clerk-Treasurer all work done for which assessments are to be made stating and certifying the description of the land, lots, or parcels involved and the amount chargeable to each.

D. On or before September 1 of each year the City Clerk-Treasurer shall list the total unpaid charges for each abatement against each separate lot or parcel to which they are attributable under this Section. The Council may then spread the charges or any portion thereof against the property involved as a special assessment under Minnesota Statutes, Section 429.101 and other pertinent statutes for certification to the County Auditor and collection the following year along with current taxes.

E. No damage shall be awarded the owner for destruction of any tree, wood, or part thereof pursuant to this Section.

Subd. 8. Spraying Trees.

A. Whenever the City Forester determines that any tree or wood is infected or threatened with infection, the City Forester may spray or treat all nearby high value trees with an effective concentrate or fungicide or both. Activities authorized by this Subdivision shall be conducted in accordance with technical and expert opinions and plans of the Commissioner of Agriculture and under the supervision of the Commissioner and the Commissioner's agents whenever possible.

B. The notice and assessment provisions of Subdivision 7 apply to spraying and treatment operations conducted under this Subdivision.

Subd. 9. Transporting Wood Prohibited. It is a petty misdemeanor for any person to transport any elm wood, or, in the months of April, May, or June, to transport any oak wood, without having obtained a permit from the City Forester. The City Forester shall grant such permits only when the purposes of this Section will be served thereby.

Subd. 10. Interference Prohibited. It is a petty misdemeanor for any person to prevent, delay, or interfere with the City Forester while the City Forester is engaged in the performance of duties imposed by this Section.

Subd. 11. Additional Duties of City Forester. It is the additional duty of the City Forester to coordinate, under the direction and control of the Council and the Park and Recreation Director, all activities of the City relating to the control and prevention of shade tree disease. The City Forester shall recommend to the Council the details of a program for the control of the diseases, and perform the duties incident to such a program adopted by the Council.

Subd. 12. Diseased Trees in Streets. The rights, duties, and responsibilities of property owners set forth in this Section shall be equally applicable to, and binding upon, abutting property owners with tree maintenance responsibilities under the Section of the City Code entitled "Regulation of Grass, Weeds and Trees in Streets."

Subd. 13. Charges. The duty of any property owner [illegible] of removing [illegible] of trees [illegible] private [illegible] assessment shall be subject to a fee [illegible] established by the City for the treatment or removal of trees affected with shade tree disease.

Section 2. City Code Chapter 1 entitled "General Provisions and Definitions Applicable to the Entire City Code Including Penalty for Violations" and Section 7.99 entitled "Violation A Misdemeanor" are hereby adopted in their entirety, by reference, as though repeated verbatim herein.

Section 3. This ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after its passage, approval, and publication.

Board of review allows opportunity to appeal taxes

Market value [illegible] Each year the assessor reviews the market value of the property to determine whether changes in the real estate market require a change in the property's market value. The assessor's decision is based on what the property owner could reasonably expect to sell the property for, and comparisons with other similar property in the neighborhood.

All property is classified by the assessor according to use. Each class of property is taxed at a different percentage of its value. The percentage or class rate is determined by the legislature. If a resident's property is classified incorrectly, the property owner may be paying more or less tax than he or she should be paying.

The first step in determining whether or not the property's market value is correct is to do some research. Verify information about the property, such as dimensions, age and condition of the structure. Review records to determine the market value of similar property in the neighborhood. Review sales data to find out what similar property in the area is selling for. In addition, if you believe your property has been incorrectly classified, ask the assessor to explain the criteria used for classifying property.

Property owners have the right to appeal market value estimates or property classifications. The property owner may appeal directly to the regular division of the Minnesota Tax Court, or begin by meeting with the town board of review.

The board of review has three main functions. First, it must review the assessor's list, making sure that all taxable property in the city has been properly placed on it. Secondly, it must review the assessor's valuations, striving to standardize the ratio between market value and adjusted market value for each individual piece of property. To accomplish this, the board may raise or lower valuations on individual properties, but it cannot increase valuations without notifying the property owner and giving that person an opportunity to be heard.

Third, the board must hear and settle the complaints of individual property owners regarding the valuations on their property.

An appeal can be made in person or by letter, or through an agent for the property owner. During the board of review, council board members, township officers or county board members and the assessor will be present to answer questions.

If the property owner is not satisfied with the decision of the board of review, an appeal can be made to the county board of equalization. The board, which is usually composed of county board members, usually meets in the last two weeks in June. Be sure to schedule an appeal by contacting the county auditor. Again, the appeal can be made in person, by letter, or through an agent.

Area farm profits are highest since 1955

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Highest dollar profit per average farm since the farm business management program of the Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls was started in 1955 was recorded for the 1992 farm operating year. Operator's net profit averaged $59,420, eclipsing 1991 net profit of $40,015 by $19,405. Previous highest net profit since 1955 was $41,827 in 1987.

It was a much better year even for the farmers at the lower end of the scale where there have been losses in most of the past few years. The low 67 farms in the analysis this year averaged a net profit of $5,459. The top 67 farms averaged a net profit of $155,739.

"It is important to recognize that the analysis covers only 337 farms in the 13-county area of northwestern Minnesota," stated Verne Spengler, director of the farm management program. "Data in the report is not intended to be inclusive or indicative of the operations of all farms in the region."

Annual analysis meeting for farm families enrolled in the program was held Tuesday, April 6, with a noon meal at Lon's Restaurant in Thief River Falls. Individual analysis reports were distributed at the meeting and summary reports presented.

Spengler said that the high net profit on average in the area could be attributed to three primary factors:

(1) The cool, wet weather which favored small grain crops and sugar beets and resulted in outstanding wheat and barley yields;

(2) Increased average milk production and a higher than average price per hundredweight; and

(3) A record high $13,518 average in income from non-farm sources.

ACTIVITIES

Jiggler Easter Eggs

Many children are familiar with "jigglers" but here is an idea to make them into delicious Easter eggs. With a pin, prick both ends of an egg. Gently blow on one end of the egg and blow the contents of the egg out. Wash the shell carefully and allow to dry.

Prepare the jiggler solution. You may use any flavor you like.

1 1/4 cups of boiling water

Stir the solution until all of the gelatin is dissolved. Place tape over one end of the egg. Place the egg end up in a pan and fill with the solution. Refrigerate. When the solution is set, break the egg shell and you will have Easter egg jigglers!

PARENTING TIPS

Signs of Spring

Finally the weather has caught up to the calendar. Spring is here! Signs of spring are everywhere. This is an excellent time to introduce young children to the renewal of life all around.

On a nice day, take a walking tour of your yard or neighborhood. Keep a watchful eye for changes taking place. Point them out and explain what's happening.

For example, warmer temperatures mean trees and bushes begin to bud. Look at the ground for signs of budding flowers. What happens next?

Days are getting longer, birds are returning from their winter homes, and will soon be looking for new homes. Can you spot any birds at work?

Decide what nature signs you'd like to check again in a month and note them on a card.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

As you look for signs of spring, label and talk about what you see. Remember your young child may not remember these things from last year.

Impressions . . .

This is Holy Week. It is a week in which we reflect upon One whose life was far better than any of ours. It's a week in which I at least realize how far I have to go to live a life that is holy. It's a week in which I also realize how far all of us have to go to be able to live holy lives.

In the papers recently I have seen ads asking the people of Minnesota to support education with more dollars and more time and talent. In the news we hear of all the things we should be doing to better our world for our children and for their children. We hear of dollars and more dollars that NEED to be spent yesterday so that our world will be a better place tomorrow. We hear of the additional taxes that NEED to be implemented by today's legislatures so that our children will have a better tomorrow.

We begin to think that all that is needed to better our world is dollars and more dollars and more dollars.

I would propose that instead of spending more dollars we seriously ponder whether or not we are living lives that are holy.

One of the definitions I find for holy is "pure of heart." As we ponder how to live holy lives, perhaps that is where we start—at the heart of each of us. How pure are our hearts?

Each of us finds himself or herself in various roles in life. We are sisters and brothers and mothers and fathers. We are grandparents and aunts and uncles. We are friends. We are employers and employees. We are parishioners and clergy. We are teachers. In each of the roles we find ourselves in are we living holy lives?

It's easy to perhaps live a holy life on Sundays when all the other holy people around us can see just how holy we are—we go to church, we donate to the funds of the church, we may even teach Sunday School. But it's not so easy living a holy life after the Sunday morning service is finished for yet another week.

It's in the daily living that our true selves appear. It's in the daily living that the pureness of our hearts and minds appear. We like to appear holy on Sundays, but we don't always bring that appearance of the holy into our daily lives.

Think for a moment how much better our world would be if each one of us would strive for even one day to live holy lives. Wouldn't we be living in a world which we wouldn't recognize? Children who normally cower in fear of their parents would instead feel the love and tenderness that parents striving to live holy lives can create for their children.

Consider how holy living would affect the other relationships in your life. If spouses truly lived lives pure in heart, wouldn't they strive to treat that person closest to their heart with a greater amount of caring tender love and respect? If children strived to live holy lives and not lives of holy terror, wouldn't the peace in our families be a thing to marvel at?

If employers treated their employees with that extra bit of pureness of heart wouldn't there be a bit more honesty and willingness to excel in the workplace? Conversely, if employees decided to treat their bosses as if they were worthy of respect, perhaps the workplace would become a place of holy living.

We can always cry for more of anything. More money will provide more programs to better our world. More programs will probably lead to the need for more programs and even more dollars spent. Why not stop and instead of crying for more, challenge each individual to ethically, morally, lovingly, become a better human being. This does not necessarily take more dollars, although we have come to think that only dollars will help us live successful lives.

Living holy lives can be a very cheap investment in our world's future. Perhaps our governing bodies should be encouraging each of us to look inside ourselves first to see where we can individually make a small change in our life so that our world will be a bit better place in which to live.

You may think that I am being much too simplistic in suggesting that we look to ourselves and in the looking to ourselves find ways to better our lives so that we are living holier lives and in the living of holy lives we will influence our world. Simplistic this idea of mine may be, but what about the alternative?

Do we really think that more and better programs will make the difference in our world of tomorrow? We already have the best programs our money can buy today in so many areas—our schools are full of programs, so too are our social help agencies. Our governments can find the most talented people already to create the best of just about anything. But, we, the people are still asking for more. When do we stop asking for more and instead look inside ourselves for the reasons we need to ask for more? When do we say "enough already" and then look inside ourselves for the betterment of our families and our world.

This Holy Week I challenge each of us to look inside ourselves and find the places where we need to live a holier life. Simplistic, yes, but then our example of holiness was a model in simplicity.

AAL Branches earn gold star service ratings

Branch 1669 of Thief River Falls and Branch 2444 of Plummer have earned gold star ratings from Aid Association for Lutherans for volunteer service in their communities.

Officers of Branch 1669 at St. John Lutheran church include Norm Busse, president; Dale Koop, vice president; and Joanne Kohler, secretary-treasurer.

Officers of Branch 2444 include Loretta Hesse, president; Barbara Culkins, vice president; and Marjorie Ann Hesse, secretary.

A group of Egyptians recently visited Northwest Minnesota. The tour, sponsored by Minnesota Crop Inspection Association, included a visit to Forsbergs, Inc. MCIA President Hartay Ofto said Egyptian interest in U.S. agriculture is growing as their seed operations move from a government-based to a private-based system. Forsbergs, a Thief River Falls business, specializes in gravity separators and seed cleaning equipment. Ofto is pictured top row, far left. Dennis Bakke, Forsbergs general manager, is pictured top row third from the left.

Hanson herd tops DHIA for February

Mark Hanson dairy herd topped the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of February, according to Randy and Marge Hanson, supervisors.

Hanson's herd of 54 cows, of which 89 per cent were in milk, averaged daily production of 68.6 pounds of milk and 2.23 pounds of butterfat.

Second place herd was owned by Mylo Carlson. With 87 per cent of the 63-cow herd in milk, it averaged 65.4 pounds of milk and 2.34 pounds of butterfat per cow per day.

Third place went to Walter Bros. with 90 per cent of the 128-cow herd in milk and an average of 63.9 pounds of milk and 2.15 pounds of butterfat.

Other herds in the top 10 included the following with number of cows, percentage in milk, pounds of milk and pounds of butterfat listed respectively:

L & R Dairy, 105, 100%, 61.0 and 2.25; Ben Kleinwachter, 45, 96%, 60.1 and 2.12; Steve Nelson, 58, 90%, 58.6 and 2.07; Lyle Swanson, 43, 77%, 55.7 and 2.10; Leonard and Marge Geske, 44, 84%, 52.6 and 1.72; Hamrick Farms, Inc., 91, 86%, 52.5 and 2.05; and Kelly & Gary Lundeen, 44, 82%, 51.9 and 1.79.

All cows in the herd are included in the averages, so the number of dry cows has a strong affect on the average production.

On display through Thursday, April 8 at the Thief River Falls public library will be this quilt square made by Cheryl Petersen of Thief River Falls and entitled "My Lila's Precious Links.". It is one of 16 in a traveling exhibit of National Quilt Festival Challenge quilts from Silver Dollar City in Missouri. A color calendar with pictures of the quilts states the following about Cheryl's entry: "This quilt is very special to Cheryl. The eight Linked Stars represent her mother, best friend, herself and five sisters. The black expresses the relief from cancer after her father's death. The surrounding vine also denotes her father and how he seemed to keep the family together. The four doves represent her husband Rick and her three children. The flowers and leaves are for all the other extended family members. The miniature Friendship Stars in the center of the Linked Stars are for the friendships that quilts have been to all quilters throughout time."

Speaking Of . . .

. . . La-de-dah—Springtime—Bah!

Somewhere between the pristine whiteness of winter snow and the lush green grass of summer lies...springtime.

The springtime that is lauded in poetry and song is filled with the sounds of birds and the scent of flowers. We hear about tiny buds bursting into full-blown flowers and green leaves. We hear about fresh shoots of grass poking through moist soil. We hear about newborn baby chicks, lambs, rabbits and ducklings. We hear about the warmth of the sun and the sparkle of it on the clear water of springs and rivers that have been liberated from their icy crust.

Springtime is supposed to be wonderful, the time when things are born anew, clean and fresh. Springtime is the time when nature replenishes herself and we are supposed to be replenished, too, filled with vigor and vitality in celebration of winter's passing and anticipation of the summer to come.

Anyone who reads this column regularly knows how I feel about spring. Blame it on the fact that I am a mother and have seen too many icy mud puddles and too many wet feet and the colds that come afterward. Blame it on the fact that I and my entire family inevitably get some sort of flu bug every spring and suffer with it until summer. Blame it on the fact that I am just an old, crabby lady after having another January birthday.

Whatever the reason, I really dislike spring in northwestern Minnesota. To me, our spring is just not the stuff that all the sappy spring poems and songs are made of. Spring in northwestern Minnesota is not what spring is supposed to be.

To me, springtime is filled with muck and mud, rain and heavy snow, colds and flu bugs, dogs that stand outside and bark for no reason at all, cats that sit inside the door and peek outside through the crack in the door and glare at the barking dogs while sniffing the air, muddy feet tracks throughout the house, wet gloves and mittens, wet feet, wet hair, wet noses.

Where are the sounds of birds and scents of flowers? (No matter how many songs the shivering little birdies sing, or how much perfume the poor little flowers produce, they are blown away to some other place by the cold northern wind.)

Where are the budding flowers and leaves? (They are trying to work their way out from under several inches of heavy, cold, wet, spring snow.)

Where are the fresh, green shoots of grass? (Lost, buried, hidden under last fall's leaves and this spring's mud.)

Where are the newborn baby chicks, lambs, rabbits and ducklings? (Inside where it is warm, where everyone else with any sense in northwestern Minnesota is, too.)

Where is the sun? (Hidden behind the rain clouds that spring skies bring.)

Where is the sparkle of fresh flowing springs and rivers? (Buried under raging torrents of rivers gone awry with the combination of spring rains and winter snow melt.)

As you can see, springtime is not my favorite time of year. However, I will suffer through it again this year because I know that summer will come, sooner or later, and I know summertime in northwestern Minnesota will be well worth the wait.

Hasnedls are Pennington Outstanding Farm Family

[illegible]

"Jerry and Ruth believe they will never be through learning or improving their skills, as evidenced by their current enrollment in the adult farm management program," said Deb Zak, Pennington county extension director. "A continuing goal is to farm in harmony with the environment. Crop rotation helps the Hasnedls control weeds without heavy chemical use."

Annual production on the Hasnedl farm includes about 1,300 acres of wheat, 400 acres of barley, 100 acres of corn and 500 acres of sunflowers.

Jerry is an active member of the St. Hilaire Lions club and Ruth has been involved in volunteer activities with the local school district. She was named Pennington County Farm Woman of the Year in 1991. The Hasnedl family, including 16-year old Angie and 13-year-old Jeremiah, is also active in the county 4-H club program.

The farm family award is sponsored by the university's institute which includes the colleges of agriculture, human ecology and natural resources, Minnesota Extension Service, Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, and the University of Minnesota—Crookston.

Farm profits up from 1991 report

more dollars being spent on family living and taxes paid—$40,397 in 1992 compared with $36,217 in 1991. Investment in capital items also increased—to $33,658 in 1992 from $24,779 in 1991.

In addition, farmers built inventories and paid down indebtedness for an annual improvement in net worth of $34,128, based on book value of assets (cost minus depreciation).

Despite the high yields of small grain crops, prices remained in the "reasonable" range, Spengler said, and resulted in much higher net returns per acre than a year ago.

Spring wheat, for instance, averaged 53 bushels with a net return per acre of $59 in 1992 compared with only 32 bushels and a net return of $30 per acre in 1991. The average was based on 809 units—usually fields—operated by most of the 337 farms enrolled in the analysis program.

Barley averaged 79 bushels per acre with a net return of $51 in 1992 while the averages were 57 bushels and only $18 in 1991. Barley data was from 395 units.

Oats averaged 70 bushels per acre in 1992 with a net return of $16 compared with an average of only 56 bushels and a loss of $14 per acre in 1991.

Sugar beet tonnage was down only slightly in 1992 from 1991—from 17.5 to 17.2 tons per acre—and the net dipped from $201 to $186 per acre. Cost of contract leases for sugar beet production is one contributing factor to increased costs.

What was good for small grains during the 1992 growing season was decidedly not good for most row crops. What corn matured and could be harvested yielded only 62 bushels per acre and resulted in a net loss of $41 per acre. Soybeans averaged 26 bushels per acre and lost $6 per acre.

Sunflowers overall were slightly better, with oilseed types averaging a $6.33 net on an average yield of 1,380 pounds per acre and confectionery averaging $67.65 on a yield of 1,610 pounds. There were 133 farms with oilseed sunflowers and only 23 with confectionery types.

Bluegrass growers had a banner year, although only 10 farms were listed as raising bluegrass seed. The yield averaged 265.1 pounds per acre with an average price of $1.32. Net return was $263.30 per acre. Timothy yield on 16 farms averaged 360 pounds but the price was only 33 cents and the net was $38.21 per acre.

On the 95 farms with dairy cattle in the farm management program, production averaged 16,669 pounds of milk and 596 pounds of butterfat per cow, with an average of 48.3 cows per herd. Total value of product was $2,053 per cow and net return over listed costs was $548.99 per cow.

Average production per cow increased from 15,882 pounds of milk in 1991 to 16,699 pounds in 1992—an average increase of 817 pounds per cow. Average price received per hundredweight of milk sold was $12.95 for the year, an average of $1.08 per hundredweight more than the average price of $11.87 in 1991.

Feeders finishing beef cattle did a little better in 1992, receiving an average price of $76.77 per hundredweight compared with $71.86 the previous year. Beef feeders averaged $82.94 per hundredweight, down from $84.78 in 1991.

Prices for finished hogs dropped from $46.77 to $40.40 per hundredweight from 1991 to 1992 while feeder pigs dropped from $46.48 per head to $33.77 per head during the same period.

Farm size increased substantially among participants in the program. Tillable acres averaged 1,002 in 1992, up by 137 acres from the average of 865 acres in 1991.

This year, for the first time, the report includes a market value of assets in addition to book value, although the book value is what is used in the computations.

In 1992 the average farmer in the farm management program spent $236,842 in the community or service area. In addition to $40,397 for food, clothing, furnishings, education, contributions, medical, gifts, recreation and investments, the expenditures included the following:

$10,622 to other farmers for livestock and custom work; $99,785 to the agribusiness community for fertilizer, chemicals, feed, seed, fuel, repairs and supplies; $9,209 for extra labor; $2,717 for support of local government through property taxes; $2,689 for utilities including telephone, electricity and water;

Also $44,478 for use of other people's capital through interest and cash rent; $15,465 for farm equipment and machinery; and $11,480 for purchases of and improvements to real estate.

Minnesota Selects weekend includes three TRF skaters

Wade Chiodo, Keith Anderson and Kaine Martell of Thief River Falls participated in the Minnesota Selects Hockey Festival in St. Cloud April 2-4.

Approximately 400 players took part in the event, featuring round-robin competition between North, South, East, and West teams in six age groups for players born from 1976 to 1981.

Chiodo's team, featuring players born in 1980, and Anderson's squad for players born in 1978, both finished 1-2-1. Martell played on a team of players born in 1977 who finished 2-2.

Martell played regularly as a freshman on the Lincoln High School varsity hockey team this winter. Anderson was a member of the Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team, while Chiodo played for the Thief River Falls Eagles Pee-Wee A team.

Anderson and Chiodo, who were both named to the Festival's All-Academic team for players carrying a grade-point average of 3.0 or higher, had been selected to participate in the annual Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association District 15-16 Pee-Wee/Bantam series, but declined the invitation in favor of the Minnesota Selects program being held at the same time.

Gunstad named Prowlers' MVP

Senior John Gunstad was named the Prowlers' most valuable player Monday during the annual Thief River Falls boys high school basketball banquet.

Other special recognition went to senior Jason Lambert, cited for his hustle; senior Tony Greene, selected as the team's top defensive player; and freshman Kyle Sanden, voted most improved.

Firearms safety training class held in TRF

Thirty-eight people were in attendance at a Department of Natural Resources Youth Firearms Safety program in Thief River Falls March 1.

Sponsored by the Pennington County Sportsmen's Club, the meeting in the basement of the city auditorium was designed for the training and certification of firearms safety instructors.

DNR Enforcement Division officers conducted the training sessions.

Purpose of Minnesota's Firearms Safety Training Program is to promote responsible, ethical hunter conduct; emphasize the importance of wildlife management, laws and regulations; and to encourage the safe handling of hunting equipment. It is hoped that through the class, students will obtain a better understanding of their obligations to the resources, the landowners, other hunters, and to themselves.

Minnesota law specifies that any person under the age of 16 applying for a hunting license must show proof of successfully completing a firearms safety training course provided by the DNR. The Department of Natural Resources is responsible for formulating the course of instruction and designating "competent persons or organizations to give such instruction." These concerned individuals gave their time and effort so that others will be able to enjoy the sport of hunting safely and responsibly.

Those participating in the Thief River Falls training session included a wide variety of backgrounds, from business people to farmers and retired individuals, pointed out James County of the Pennington County Sportsmen's Club.

Counter said several other individuals indicated an interest in attending the session, but missed the instructions because of scheduling conflicts. To accommodate them, club officials have tentatively planned to stage another class in September.

1993 Northland baseball...

Pioneers to begin play at UND, BSU

Weather permitting, Northland Community College is scheduled to open its 1993 baseball season this week with nonconference doubleheaders against the University of North Dakota and Bemidji State University junior varsity teams.

The Pioneers were scheduled to meet the Sioux today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. in Grand Forks and will be matched up against the Beavers Friday at 1 p.m. in Bemidji.

A planned five-day Northland spring trip to Nebraska was cut short by rain and snow in the Omaha area last week. All scrimmages and practice sessions were erased by the weather, prompting the Pioneers' Thursday departure. Ironically, they were able to stage intra-squad scrimmages on their own field upon returning to Thief River Falls.

First-game Northland starting infield is expected to include Ryan Bothum (Karlstad) at first base; Brian King (Warroad) or Chip Carter (Chicago) at second; Mitch Bernstein (Grygla) at shortstop; and either Lenniton Bryant (Chicago) or Jarrod Spoor (East Grand Forks) at third base.

Troy Storeby (Karlstad) will be the catcher.

Mike Swanson (Thief River Falls), Roger Bienusa (Staples) and Parrish Tatum (Chicago) will likely start in the outfield.

Todd Martin (Hawley), John Pearson (Karlstad), Tatum, and Bernstein – all righthanders – are penciled in as the Pioneers' season-opening pitching staff. They will each be limited to four innings of work initially, said Northland coach Terry Wiseth.

Early season work-outs have not diminished Wiseth's optimism for the 1993 squad, but the search continues, he said, for someone to step in and take over the jobs at second and third base, "and we could use another outfielder or two," he noted.

"The pitching looks solid, hopefully our defense will be okay, and we'll just have to wait and see how our offense develops," offered Wiseth. "You generally need two of those three areas to come around if you are going to be successful, and you always hope it'll be the pitching and defense that comes through. Offensively, we generally seem to be okay. If we can get the pitching, and if we can play some defense, we should be all right."

Northland begins Minnesota Community College Conference play Saturday, April 17, at Fergus Falls. The Pioneers' home opener is a Wednesday, April 21, encounter with Itasca.

TRF boys basketball program makes strides in 1992-93

Thief River Falls boys doubled their win total in a one-year span, but it'll take another two-fold increase in the still-modest figure before head coach Scott Brekke will be completely satisfied with the progress of his high school basketball program.

As a first-year head coach, Brekke watched the Prowlers struggle through a 2-21 season in 1991-92. Although it looked for much of the recently-completed 1992-93 campaign that even two wins might be hard to come by, a 3-4 finish put Thief River Falls at 4-19 for the year.

"There was definitely some improvement from last year to this year," said Brekke. "We started to come around. We did win twice as many games as we did last year, and we did end the year on a fairly good note. Hopefully that will give us a little confidence boost heading into the off-season."

Improved shooting was the most notable change from last year to this year, said Brekke. "We shot the ball much better this year," he noted. "Things are a lot easier when the ball is going in the hole."

But the offense was plagued with turnover trouble, acknowledged Brekke, and rebounding was not the Prowlers' strong suit, either. "You look at our shooting figures and you would think we would win more than four games," he explained. "But when you look at the turnovers, you know why we didn't win more."

Improvement will also have to be made on defense, according to Brekke.

It didn't help when the season started with narrow losses to Crookston 60-59 and Kittson Central 66-62 in overtime. For a team desperately needing confidence, consecutive heart-breaking defeats like those set the program back, figured Brekke. "If we would have won those close games, I think it would have really changed our season around," he said. "It would have given us a real boost confidence-wise."

Instead, it took until Jan. 19 to pick up a win – 57-49 over Tri-County to end a season-opening 11-game losing streak.

Kyle Sanden, a 6-8 freshman, enjoyed a successful rookie season by averaging a team-high 13 points and 7.7 rebounds per game. Only other double figure scoring average on the team belonged to 6-0 senior Tony Greene, who scored 12.2 points per game.

Eight seniors, most of them regulars or top reserves, will be lost to graduation, including John Gunstad, Jason Lambert, Shane Zutz, Josh Balmer, Kyle Evenson, Corey Thorson, Jason Schuster, and Greene.

Sanden and 5-11 junior guard Preston Treat will be the only players back with extensive varsity experience, but Nathan Anderson, Eric Bjorgaard, Lee Lund and David Johnson all showed promise as shooters on a 10-12 junior varsity this winter.

"We'll have Kyle back, and we'll have a number of good shooters to go with him," pointed out Brekke. "We're still a few years away from being a good Class AA team, but the kids coming back know what it will take for them to be competitive – a lot of off-season work; a lot of shooting during the summer. If they will make that commitment, it will show next winter."

DNR News

Redeem Certificates for Opener

It's time to set the hook. Anyone who received a Department of Natural Resources gift certificate for a 1993 fishing license should redeem the certificate now to ensure receipt of the license by this year's fishing opener.

Approximately 500 gift certificates for 1993 fishing licenses have been sold, according to Dawn Thell, sales and service coordinator for the DNR License Bureau. As of mid-March, only about half of those had been redeemed.

"We want to remind people who have received a gift certificate the fishing opener is May 15," Thell said. "If people are planning an outing that day, they should be sure to redeem their certificates in time."

DNR gift certificates are available and redeemable in person, or through the mail only at the DNR License Bureau, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4026.

Applications for '93 state bear hunt are currently available

Applications are now available for the 1993 Minnesota black bear hunting season, which will run from Sept. 1 to Oct. 17.

Each hunter who entered the 1992 lottery has been sent a preprinted application for this year's drawing, according to Department of Natural Resources officials. Hunters are encouraged to use the preprinted applications to help reduce errors and processing costs. Application forms are also available from license agents throughout the state.

Applications for the computerized drawing will be accepted through May 7 rather than April 30 as is incorrectly noted on the applications.

Bear licenses cost $35 for residents and $166 for nonresidents. Hunters should not send money with their applications, according to the DNR. Successful applicants will be notified by May 21 to submit the appropriate fees to receive a license.

Bear permit drawing is based on a preference system similar to the system used for antlerless deer permits and turkey permits. Hunters receive preference for each year that they apply but are not issued a permit.

All applicants who have reached their 18th birthday by May 7 must provide a driver's license number, Minnesota public safety ID number or a 13-digit firearms safety certificate number to apply for the drawing. Those applicants under age 18 who do not supply one of those numbers will have a number assigned and will be automatically entered into the drawing.

Portions of the bear range in east-center and northwest Minnesota will be open to an unlimited number of hunters. Licenses for this no-quota area will be available after July 1 at county auditor offices and at license vendors in Marshall, Roseau, Mille Lacs, Isanti, Chisago, Kanabec, and Pine counties.

Peace officers plan meeting

Spring quarterly meeting and pistol shoot of the Red River Valley Peace Officers Association will be held Thursday and Friday, April 22 and 23, at the Pennington County Sportsmen club north of Thief River Falls.

Members of the organization come from Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada. Because of the travel distance, the quarterly meeting has been extended to a two-day event this year. Activities will include a business meeting, pistol shooting matches and a social time including a pig roast and bonfire.

The Red River Valley Peace Officers Association was organized in 1938 by a number of sheriffs, chiefs of police and county attorneys. Membership now includes all federal and state law enforcement and members may be from any part of the United States or Canada. In 1991 four law enforcement officers from Hong Kong attended the meeting and shoot held in Winnipeg, Man., Canada.

When the association was formed in 1938, it included a strip two counties wide along the Red river from Wahpeton-Breckenridge to the Canadian border. Purpose at that time was to enable police officers and others in law enforcement to have a personal acquaintance with some of the people they may have to work with on a professional basis.

A challenge of shooting abilities of Minnesota officers was issued by the North Dakota officers, and the pistol shoot was added as a part of the meetings whenever it is possible. Pennington County Sportsmen club is a popular meeting site since it has a shooting range as well as club house facilities for the business meeting.

In the mid-1960s an invitation was extended to officers in Manitoba to become members of the Red River Valley association. Many joined the group and have continued to participate as members since that time.

Thief River Falls and Pennington county law enforcement personnel were involved in the formation of the organization in 1938 and have maintained an active membership throughout the years.

The group toured agricultural manufacturing centers in Northwest Minnesota for one week and the Twin Cities for one week. One member of the group already placed an order for Forsbergs machinery. Overseas markets compose one-third of Forsbergs' business. Some of their markets include Egypt, Russia, Iran, South Africa, Scotland, Japan, Germany and Poland.

Two others face charges in string of area burglaries

As a result of the investigation into the burglaries in which three men received prison sentences recently, other individuals have been charged. A Pennington county sheriff's department spokesperson said that the investigation resulted in 22 cases being cleared in Pennington county alone. The 22 cases solved in Pennington county do not include cases cleared in Red Lake, Marshall, Polk, Roseau, Ottertail and Kittson counties.

Jeff Scott Frei, 19, Thief River Falls, has been charged with burglary in the second degree and theft over $200 and under $500 in an incident reported June 14, 1992. In that incident a resident of Black River township reported that someone had taken a portable television set, cassette player, Walkman, and flashlight. Michael Lynn Verbout, 19, Red Lake Falls, was also charged with crimes in this incident, but a plea agreement was reached with Verbout last week. In that plea agreement Verbout will be sentenced to 44 months in prison. The charges in this incident were included in the plea agreement.

Chad Lee Erickson, 19, Bagley, has been charged with burglary in the third degree and theft over $500 in an incident reported September 22, 1991. In that incident at a Cloverleaf township shop, items reported missing included a battery charger, drill press, various tools, a rifle scope, knife, skill saw, a set of welding tanks, a cutting torch and gauges. Some of the items were recovered. Robert Eldon Swenson and Michael Lynn Verbout of Red Lake Falls, were also charged in connection with this incident, but both men recently pled guilty to charges in a plea agreement. These charges were included in the plea agreement. Both men face prison sentences.

Three face burglary charges

Three men face charges of burglary and theft following an investigation into incidents by the sheriff's department.

Pennington county sheriff's department charged Richard Fredrick Beier, 20, Thief River Falls, Christopher Michael Hruby, 19, Thief River Falls, and Brian Douglas Johnson, 21, Thief River Falls, with two counts each of burglary in the third degree, and one count each of theft over $500, and one count each of theft over $200 but under $500.

A sheriff's department spokesperson explained that the charges stem from two incidents. On October 12, 1992, a Wyandotte township resident reported that tools, a dye set, gas, 30 drill bits, a battery charger, three batteries, and a depth finder had been taken. The loss was in excess of $500. Some of the items were recovered during the investigation.

The second incident resulting in charges against the three men stem from an incident reported June 25, 1992 at a farm in Smiley township. In that incident items reported stolen included gas, a cutting and welding torch, a tackle box, and welding glasses and helmet. Most of the items taken in this burglary were recovered.

Project 2000 is explained

More than 60 people turned out Tuesday evening for a meeting at Northland Community College on Project 2000.

Minnesota 2000 is a process that puts the focus of community action and resources on learning. Through this process, citizens of Minnesota have the opportunity to discuss, describe and develop solutions to the challenges which face students and schools in their own communities.

Minnesota 2000 is based on goals established by America 2000, thus the goals and objectives of the programs are very similar. Tuesday's meeting was one of the first steps taken in Thief River Falls to further localize the goals and objectives of the program.

The goals and objectives of the program are based on the premise that students of the 90's must learn more complex skills, and that schools are not equipped to meet mounting social needs facing students and their families. But it is also a program that encourages community participation in the education of its students.

The prescription for improved learning include developing strategies for delivering essential social services to students in cooperation with schools, and strengthening both the content and rigor of the educational program.

Tuesday night, the national goals of the Minnesota 2000 process were explained and then those participating in the program joined smaller groups which focused on specific goals. The national goals of the Minnesota 2000 project [illegible] as follows:

1) All children in Minnesota will start school ready to learn. (Minnesotans will also make it possible for children to be ready to learn throughout their school years by ensuring that they have adequate nutritional, emotional and social support.) Jane [illegible], community education director, explained that this goal applies to all students not just pre-schoolers. [illegible] said "we want each student to be ready to learn each day." That may be accomplished through meeting nutritional needs, handling stress, examining cultural diversity, social changes, and who teaches and who learns.

2) The high school graduation rate will increase to at least 90 per cent. Carol Ihle, volunteer coordinator, explained that reaching this goal in Minnesota will not be difficult because typically, 91 per cent of the students graduate. The figures, however, are somewhat misleading when individual groups or races are examined. The graduation rate for different races varies. The overall graduation rate in Thief River Falls is even higher than what the state has achieved.

3) Students will leave grades four, eight and 12 having demonstrated competency in challenging (relevant, meaningful, significant) subject matter including English, mathematics, science, history and geography (and every school in Minnesota will ensure that all students learn to use their minds well.

Tim Finseth, manager of the Marshall County Soil and Water Conservation District with offices in Warren, has been named by Gov. Arne Carlson to the 13-member Minnesota Sustainable Development Initiative for Agriculture Committee. Finseth is pictured at right with Gov. Carlson.

Finseth named to state committee

Tim Finseth, manager of the Marshall County Soil and Water Conservation District at Warren, has been appointed by Gov. Arne Carlson to the Minnesota Sustainable Development Initiative for Agriculture.

Thirteen members were selected for the committee state-wide and Finseth is the only member named from the northern half of the state.

Role of the committee is to develop policies that preserve and enhance agriculture and make agriculture sustainable into the next century. Committee members do not receive any pay but travel expenses are paid by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

"I'm very excited to play a role in helping preserve and protect our farmers and farming communities," Finseth said. "I will do my best to see that the farmers in northern Minnesota have a strong voice in this process.

"I am organizing a public meeting for farmers, ag businesses and community citizens to give everyone a chance to tell me what obstacles and problems exist, suggestions for change, success (I also need to know what works) and ideas to make agriculture sustainable into the next century. It will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, April 16, at the community room at the First American Bank in Warren.

"I hope everyone takes this opportunity to discuss these issues with me," Finseth added. "Any issue related to agriculture is open to discussion. Those who cannot attend the meeting should feel free to stop by the Soil and Water Conservation District office in Warren or give me a call at 745-5010."

114 donate blood

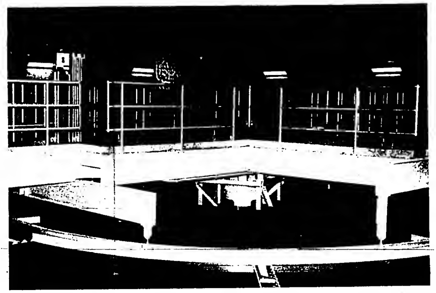
United Blood Services drew 114 units of blood at two drives held in Thief River Falls in March.

In the Arctco, Inc./Digi-Key drive coordinated by Pam Cwikla and Marie Finney, 80 people volunteered to donate and 64 were able to give. Assisting with the drive were Clara Olson, Terry Sollund and Tony Hoglo.

In the Northland Community College/Northwest Technical College drive coordinated by Avis Dyrud and Dean Dahlen—and sponsored by Phi Theta Kappa and the student council—61 people volunteered and 50 were able to give.

Members of the Telephone Pioneers assisting at the drives were Clarice Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Murphy, Dolores Wengeler, Mr. and Mrs. Emery Horien, Harriet Philipp and Arlen Booren.



Water plant director Al Lamm and Allan Wilson stand on a runway down the middle of the large pre-sedimentation tank in the new water treatment plant in Thief River Falls. Improvements and additions at the plant are nearing completion. Recently the pre-sedimentation tank was filled and put into operation. It is 68 feet square, 16 feet deep and contains approximately 553,400 gallons of water. From the pre-sedimentation tank, water flows to the primary treatment tank, which is 33.3 feet square, 18.4 feet deep and contains 137,000 gallons of water. Water quality, Lamm said, is much better now than in the past, but there is a long way to go to "fine tune" the new system. Lamm said he expects the entire facility to be on line in three weeks to a month. A grand opening is being planned, but probably won't take place until fall.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

Suffering

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

When you decided to stop living to the flesh and started to live to the Spirit by practicing righteousness to please God every day, things started happening to you that you may not understand (Rom. 8:13; 1 John 3:7; Matt. 5:16). The Apostle Peter says not to be surprised at the fiery ordeal which comes upon you for your testing. Don't think that some strange thing is happening to you. Instead, remember that you share in the sufferings of Christ. Keep on rejoicing so at the revelation of His glory, you may rejoice with great enthusiasm (1 Peter 4:12-13; Gal. 4:19).

Look what's happening to you! "After you have suffered for a little while, the God of all grace, who called you to His eternal glory in Christ, will Himself perfect, confirm, strengthen and establish you" (1 Peter 5:10). You are being made complete in Christ (2 Cor. 13:9, 11). You are being made into a new creation (Gal. 6:15).

Yes, we have need of endurance so that when we have done the Will of God—which is practicing righteousness—we may receive what is promised—a brand new nature created in us by God Himself (Heb. 10:36). We are told not to get weary in well-doing when we are practicing righteousness because that is how we allow God to form that new nature in us (Gal. 6:9; 2 Thess. 3:13; Titus 3:8, 14; 2:7).

Now you can begin to see why the Scripture tells us to consider how to stimulate, provoke or encourage one another to more love and more good deeds or works (Heb. 10:24). Doing good works is how you put on Christ (Rom. 13:14). It is how you abide in Christ (John 15:5). It is how you imitate Christ and the Father (1 Cor. 11:1; Eph. 5:1). Doing good works is how you put your old nature to death (Rev. 2:26). Doing good works for God's glory is how Satan, your old nature, is crushed under your heel (Rom. 16:20).

Yes, we must suffer to enter the kingdom within, but it is only momentary light affliction (Phil. 1:29; Rom. 8:17; Luke 17:21; Acts 14:22; 2 Cor. 4:17). By doing the Will of the Father daily, we come out of the captivity of Satan and put his will to death in our bodies (1 John 2:17; Heb. 10:36; Matt. 7:21; 2 Tim. 2:26).

So let's understand suffering and know that God is working with us, making us perfect by perfecting Jesus Christ's nature within us (Heb. 12:1-15, 23; Matt. 5:48; Gal. 4:19; 1 John 2:6).

Horticultural Society holds district meeting

Tips to consider when showing or exhibiting flowers were given by Lew Wallace at the annual 13th District Horticultural Society spring workshop. Lew emphasized how to preserve the quality of flowers and what can be done to improve quality. Points mentioned during the workshop were sanitation, using clean containers, removing foliage below the water line, cutting stems under water, hardening off plants, which is also called conditioning, using floral preservatives — either a commercial product or your own recipe; and using high quality water. He also showed various techniques for grooming plants before exhibiting them or using them in an arrangement.

The theme of the workshop held in Williams this year, was "My Thing — Welcome to Spring". The workshop room was decorated with spring arrangements made in wooden berry baskets, which were given away as door prizes at the end of the day. The day was hosted by the Williams gardeners and North Star Garden club of Baudette.

Awards for club program booklets were made by LaVonne Radniecki, district historian. Williams gardeners received a purple ribbon. The Green Thumb garden club of Roseau received a blue ribbon. The Lady Slipper Garden Club of Roseau received a red ribbon. White ribbons were awarded to Deer Park Garden club, the Gro-Rite Garden club of Badger, the Roseau Garden club and the North Star Garden club of Baudette. Participation awards were presented to the Moccasin Garden club and Four Seasons Garden club of Roseau. During the meeting it was announced that Ethel Wiseth of Deer Park had an entry in the state logo contest that had received recognition.

District gardening awards were also presented during the meeting. Receiving outstanding district gardener were Betty Johnson of the Roseau Garden club and Shirley Andol of the Gro-Rite Garden club. Betty is very involved in organic gardening and the Agassiz environmental education council. Shirley is a very avid exhibitor and has won points at the annual horticultural shows for a number of years. She is involved in most aspects of gardening including African violets, gladiolus, arrangements, and other aspects. She is also very community oriented in sharing her products and knowledge.

Receiving the gold medal award were Jeanne Hamness of Four Seasons Garden club of Roseau and Beverly Carlson of the Williams gardeners. # Project 2000 explained at citizens' meeting

so they may be prepared for responsible citizenship, further learning and productive employment in our modern economy.)

Demonstrating competency in these areas will not be easy. More requirements have been placed on students and the body of knowledge that students are expected to know is much greater. Determining how students should be required to demonstrate competency and to what degree also poses a difficult challenge.

4) The fourth goal requires that students will be first in the world in mathematics and science achievement (relevant 21st century knowledge.)

5) Every adult in Minnesota will be literate and possess the knowledge and skills necessary to compete in a global economy and exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship. ("Literate" means the possession of such skills as reading, writing, speaking and computing necessary to function effectively as family and community members, citizens, consumers and job holders.)

6) Every Minnesota school will be free of drugs, (alcohol) and violence and will offer disciplined (and nurturing) environment conducive to learning.

Before breaking up into small discussion groups, a brainstorming session was held to give those in attendance an opportunity to add any goals to the list that they would like to see included in a local list of goals. They added such goals or objectives as the following: continue emphasis on art; promote early multiple language development; less emphasis on sports activities; welcome community involvement at all levels; encourage flexible teaching styles; emphasize physical fitness; start new programs at earlier or lower levels.

Part of the purpose of the small group discussion was to allow participants an opportunity to discuss a specific goal and refine or change the goal. A group leader then reported on the discussion before the large group.

Jean Heinrichs, vice-mayor and facilitator of the Project 2000 meeting said she was pleased with the number of people who turned out for the meeting. She noted that Moorhead had 80 people at its meeting.

Heinrichs asked that those in attendance complete and return a survey which will be used by the local Project 2000 committee. The local Project 2000 committee is an expanded version of the Planning, Evaluating and Reporting committee in the school district.

A Senator's View On The Mille Lacs Treaty Issue

Many northwestern Minnesota residents have not shown a specific interest in the proposed agreement between the state of Minnesota and the Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa Indians because they believe it does not involve this area. Most fishermen from this area ply the waters of Lake of the Woods rather than Mille Lacs and are unfamiliar with treaty terms and agreements.

We have heard and read a number of comments and articles and believe that this area's residents should take an interest in the issue. A settlement could involve state money and state land. Following is an article prepared by Sen. Dan Stevens of Mora, who is a legislator from the area concerned. From our viewpoint, his points are well made and his reasoning is sound. Sen. Stevens writes.

Recently, there has been a great deal of analysis and conjecture regarding legislative opposition to the proposed agreement between the State of Minnesota and the Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa Indians.

Contrary to many expressed opinions, the legislative opposition to the proposed agreement is due more to questions about policy and procedure than it is fish and game or politics.

The central issue in this discussion is, of course, the validity of claims by the Mille Lacs Band members regarding gathering rights under an 1837 treaty between the Band and the United States government.

Most peaple apposed to the proposed agreement at the state level believe this question belongs in the jurisdiction of the federal courts for two key reasons: (1) Treaty questions ultimately must and will be resolved in federal court, and (2) because the state's offer to the Mille Lacs Chippewa is an agreement and not a settlement.

There are a number of intricate factors that must be cansidered in the resolution of the treaty rights questions, including the language of several treaties between the Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa and the United States gavemment, whether the State of Minnesota has the authority to resolve this issue, and previous court decisions in similar situations.

Will the state's citizens lose more if the matter goes to court than if the negotiated agreement is accepted? Not necessarily. A federal judge can only define the nature and the scope of those rights in the treaty, which means the judge cauld not award $8.6 million, create an exclusive tribal fishing zone, nor transfer 7,500 acres of public land to the Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa.

But don't we also need to focus more attention to a basic issue that being the difference in the definitions of "settlement" and "agreement?"

The pending legislation represents an agreement between four factions which support the proposed language—a majority of the members of the Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa, the state Department of Natural Resources, the state attorney general's office and the governor's office.

This proposal can't accurately be termed a settlement because of the exclusion from the negotiations of at least four identifiable factions with a direct interest in the issue: counties and other local governments, riparian landowners, resort owners and other area businesses and the members of the public and sporting organizations who enjoy the use of the state's public lands and waters. Joining them in opposition to the proposed agreement is a sizable minority of the members of the Mille Lacs Band itself and Native Americans from other tribes that were signators ta the treaty.

Although the central issue in this discussion is the treaty rights of Mille Lacs Chippewa, dan't the non-tribal members in the affected area and the dissenting Band members have rights too?

Filled with disappointment and frustration at being left out of the negotiations, the people opposed to the agreement are being told there isn't any time for any other options: they must either get on board or get out of the way. These people who oppose the agreement prefer to have a final settlement, a federal court decision with be a final settlement of the 1837 treaty.

Perhaps there is a secondary issue that is as important as a definitive and fair resolution to the questions surrounding the treaty rights af the Mille Lacs Band af Chippewa: Has the democratic process in this case given way to insider politics and procedure?

If this agreement is indeed a fair one, as is being alleged, then it should be able to withstand and should be subject to impartial scrutiny and fair consideration. There should be no need to force this issue through the Minnesota Legislature, and policy should prevail over politics.

As a newly-elected legislator who represents a large part of the area and resources that are at stake, and as a former township and county afficial who has lived in this east-central Minnesota area all my life, I do understand the views and concerns of the persons on both sides af this issue. I am among the vast majority af Mille Lacs area residents, and the majority of Minnesotans, who oppose the agreement offer and support a federal court resolution of the issue at hand.

Spring Salvage Drive Discussed

"Salvage committeemen and implement dealers to the number of fifty, representing eight northwestern Minnesota counties will assemble at a dinner meeting in the evelyn hotel next Tuesday to map plans for launching the spring scrap campaign in this area. Several men from the War Production board in Minneapolis will be present to outline the objectives."

Nets $306.62 from Bull

"Testifying to the current high prices for livestock, a six-year-old Holstein bull consigned to South St. Paul livestock yards last week by Syvert Hanson, farming northeast of this city, brought the record price of $306.62. The animal, weighing 2,230 pounds, sold for $13.75 per hundredweight."

Mayor Kinghorn Asks Citizens to Display Flag Mon.

"No more patriotic endeavor could be asked of our citizens in this time of stress than to invest in war bonds to the limit of their ability during the campaign starting Monday. With this thought in mind, I urge all residents of the community to display the American flag at their homes and business places next Monday, as a demonstration that we are wholeheartedly behind the government in its effort to back up the American soldiers on [illegible] battle fronts."

All Civilian Defense Workers to Meet

"J. Robert Petersen, chairman of the Pennington county civilian defense council, today announced that an important meeting of all local civilian defense workers will be held in the auditorium Friday evening. He urged the attendance of all air raid wardens, fire wardens and Victory Aides in this community. The principal speaker will be F. J. Hubbard of Moorhead, district civilian defense chief, who will discuss matters pertaining to the local organization. Motion pictures dealing with various phases of civilian defense will be shown and songs sung by a quartet including Dr. J. N. Nesse, W. M. Ferguson, Elmer and Justus Larson."

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Polk County, Minnesota — April 12, 1893

From Newspaper Files Of One Hundred Years Ago

From the Social Page

"As the 'shades of night were falling fast' the other evening, a reporter spied Levi Stranahan armed to the teeth with an old army musket and Ed Olste likewise equipped with Carl Johnson's goose gun. They were starting for the west and we learned that they were going to see their best girls. They gave as an excuse for their hostile appearance that they were afraid of wolves, but we learn from reliable authority that it was not wolves but a couple of young men who were intent upon calling on the aforesaid best girls; that caused the warlike preparations. Up to the hour of going to press, no blood had been shed but every evening the whole town awaits with abated breath, the report of the first gun, which will tell that the war is on."

Strandquist....

Saturday Debbie and children had breakfast with Peter and Pearl Thompson, and then visited at the Becky and Danny Johnson home. They returned home on Sunday.

Visitors at Elsie Lefrooth's this past week have been Margaret, Alauro and Sara Donaldson, Dean and JoAnne Holmstrom, Donnie and Marlys Lefrooth, Isaac and Betsy Thompson, Pearl Thompson, Helen Roy, Gloria Ronstrom and Shirley Lefrooth.

Plummer......

Members of the Presbyterian church in Plummer enjoyed a fish fry on Sunday evening at the church, hosted by the men of the congregation. This was followed by a film on the Prodigal Son, with a narration that made it easy to understand.

Corlan and Bob Kleinschmidt of Oklee entertained at supper on Sunday the following: Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson, Todd and Annette Frederickson, Darrick, Erica, Lindsay and Nicholas Vettleson, Jason Magnell, Krista Magnell and Tony Molugin.

Radon risk in state's schools listed very low

Following a 1989 survey of one-third of all sources of radon that might affect schoolchildren in Minnesota schools, it has been determined that there is no cause for concern in 95 per cent of the cases.

Len Nachman of the Minnesota Department of Education said the remainder of the schools were advised to conduct further monitoring or take remedial action, such as sealing cracks and venting the rooms.

Radon is a colorless, odorless gas from decaying uranium which is believed to be the second leading cause of lung cancer in the U.S. It seeps out of the soil and can build to dangerous levels in poorly ventilated rooms or buildings.

School district gets petition on Northrop

Presentation of a petition containing 619 signatures asking consideration of possible uses for Northrop elementary school took place at the regular meeting of the School District 564 board of education Monday in the school district service center.

Rufus Olson, a former school board member who now lives in the Northrop school area, obtained most of the signatures and presented the petition to the board.

Included with the petition was a letter from Olson which pointed out that he had decided to get the feelings and views of some of the property owners and voters in the school district after meeting with the school board March 25. He said he had drafted the petition and that only four of all the people he contacted declined to sign the petition.

"As this petition was presented to the voters, many activities were suggested for the use of the Northrop school property," Olson's letter states. "First and foremost to keep this as a playground, recreational area and activity center. Here are some of the suggested uses: skating, softball, kickball, karate, dance, volleyball, basketball, exercise (aerobics, step class, walking and jogging).

"In addition, the stage area could be used for play practice and musical and drama rehearsals. It could also provide meeting rooms for small groups such as music, arts, hobbies, disability programs for all ages and dog obedience classes.

"All of these needs were expressed to me," the letter states, "however, the suggestion that occurred most frequently was that of a swimming pool (indoor if possible). These are a few of the suggested activities which could take place at Northrop school. This property would be beneficial to the entire School District 564 which not only includes Thief River Falls but also a large part of the surrounding area.

"I firmly believe that this property is not a 'white elephant' to be disposed of at a school garage sale, but rather a valuable community resource that should be kept for the good of the area," Olson's letter concludes.

School district program to help define competency

by David Hill
Times Associate Editor

Stories about youths who graduate from high school without being able to read and write the English language are the type of horror stories the Assurance of Mastery program in School District 564 is trying to prevent.

Assurance of Mastery (AOM) was designed to assure residents that Minnesota school districts were assessing the progress of all students in acquiring necessary competencies and skills in mathematics and reading. Simply stated, the state is asking that students meet minimum requirements. The school has the responsibility to define the expectations for basic reading and math skills, to identify students who are not attaining mastery, and to plan a remediation program in cooperation with the student and parent/guardian.

Mastery of skills is determined through testing at various grade levels. Two committees, a reading and math committee, have been established to develop the philosophy, goals, and scope and sequence for the district reading and math programs.

In practice, the math test is generated by staff in the district and is not standardized. Students who receive a score that is below 70 per cent are targeted for remedial instruction. Mastery of reading skills are determined by results of the Iowa basics. Students below the 20th percentile in this standardized test are identified as needing remedial instruction.

Since it is very difficult to determine mastery of specific skills in the lower grades, teacher judgement and outcome based checklists are also used to determine whether a student needs remedial instruction.

Marie Hvidsten, curriculum coordinator and director of the Center for School Change, said students identified as needing remedial instruction hopefully will be able to meet requirements after receiving remedial instruction so they aren't stuck in remedial classes for the remainder of their education. It's not the intent of the program to separate students from mainstream education. Other programs are available for students who need special attention for lack of development. The emphasis of AOM is on the individual, thus remedial instruction plans are highly individualized.

When students are identified as needing remedial instruction parents or guardians and teachers are brought into the process and a team

525 attend annual meeting of Red Lake Electric Co-op

"Commitment to Community" was the theme for the 55th annual meeting and customer appreciation day for Red Lake Electric Cooperative recently at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. There were about 525 members and guests in attendance at the event.

Norman Dufault of Crookston from District 1, Michael Bachand of Brooks from District 5 and John Hammer of Thief River Falls from District 5 were reelected to the board of directors.

Roger Johanneck, manager of finance and administration for the cooperative, reported that margins of $425,368 were earned during the year. "We did not borrow any money for construction in 1992," he said, "and had ample cash reserves of $761,623 at year end."

Board president Veral Mosbeck said the cooperative had "continued a tradition of excellent electric service continuity in 1992. The average outage time per customer was only 1.1 hours, a record low."

Safe worker awards for service without a lost time accident went to Marge Josephson, 25 years; Darlene Valley, 20 years; and Doug Hagl, five years.

Mark Naplin, president of Red Lake Electric Trust—the governing body of Operation Round Up—presented the first donation with Operation Round Up funds— $3,000 to the Northland Community Hospice.

Manager Ron Kennedy said Operation Round Up will financially assist worthy community organizations and projects. "With 85 per cent of the members participating," he said, "and with each contributing only pennies a month, nearly $20,000 will be raised annually."

Yvonne Philipp arranges nature's beauty

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Family members tell Yvonne Philipp that if her car stalls along the road, no one she knows will stop to help her. They will assume she is just out on a weed-picking expedition.

Collecting wild plants from ditches and fields is one aspect of Yvonne's hobby-turned-business of creating home decorating arrangements from silk flowers and dried natural materials. She has had the hobby for more than a dozen years but has been actively selling her creations since 1979 when she gave up her job as an aide with the Thief River Falls school district.

Most of her sales are at the four or five craft shows she attends each year, with other sales through orders taken or consignment sales. Her creations are on display and for sale at the Rex Cafe in Thief River Falls, and purchasers have been from a wide geographic area.

While she doesn't have the walls of her home covered with her creations, many of the items she sells are home-tested.

"After I have created an arrangement, swag or other item on order for someone, I move it to a spot in my house until it is delivered or picked up," she said. "That way I get a feel for its use in decorating, and how it matches other things in the home for color and size."

Like most successful craftspeople, Yvonne depends on creativity, originality and response to public preferences. She pays close attention to color, selection of materials, design and workmanship. If an idea works she sticks with it as much as possible. Sometimes it isn't possible.

"About four years ago I used a plant which grew wild to create decorated wreaths," Yvonne said. "They were a popular seller. Since then, however, growing conditions have changed and the wild plant has been almost impossible to find. It is a little frustrating to develop a good selling item and then not be able to get the material needed."

In addition to the many plants she harvests from the wild, Yvonne also grows perennials in her own garden. She has about a third of an acre devoted to approximately 40 varieties of flower and foliage plants, including about 10 kinds of "wild" plants she needs and has domesticated. "These plants have their good and bad production years just as the wild ones do," she said, "but I can control the conditions better with a little tender loving care."

Whether the plant materials are wild or cultivated, virtually all are dried before they are used. Half of the Philipp garage becomes a drying room and storage area for dried materials. Most of the basement area of the home—where Yvonne

"You need an understanding husband," states craftsperson Yvonne Philipp of rural Goodridge, "when half your garage and most of your basement is filled with your materials." Less informed people may consider Yvonne's basement workshop and storage area to be "cluttered." As Yvonne knows, however, it is simply "well-stocked."

Impressions . . .

Beth Johnson

My life has been invaded by a monster. It's not the kind of monster that goes bump in the night, but it does cause me much grief. Let me explain—

For the past two or three years I have been typing this column weekly with the help of a nifty word processor/typewriter. It did everything I could possibly need it to do. It checked spelling. It let me correct mistakes. It let me do all the kinds of editing I could possibly want to do. And it counted the lines and spaces I was using as I typed. It let me save my work on a disc. It printed slowly, but it printed it just like a typewriter. In fact, if I wanted it to be an ordinary typewriter, all I needed to do was to press a little button and it magically became a typewriter. It and I were made for each other. It was as uncomplicated as I needed it to be. It was most user friendly.

But, now comes the monster part of this story—

Others in my family decided that what was truly needed in our household was a computer. So, off to the friendly computer store we went, and after some checking around, a computer monster was unleashed in our household.

Now, it wouldn't be so bad if this computer monster had not decided that the only place it could occupy was the very spot that my simple little word processor/typewriter had occupied. So, now, instead of my friendly, simple, uncomplicated little machine, I am confronted with a monster in the place where I could so easily in times gone by sit and meditate and type a column.

Now, the best thing to do I have decided is to confront this monster and try to make it less frightening. So, with instruction booklet in one hand, I and a mouse sat down with this monster computer. I got through page 45 of the first instruction booklet when I realized that it was now, without a question of a doubt, time to figure out how to use this thing and type a column.

So, be forewarned. This new monster so far does not tell me how much I have typed, or where I am on any page. I imagine that somewhere in the pages of my instruction books I will find out how to determine where I am on a page, but until then, this column could grow by volumes and my monster machine would still tell me I'm on page 1 of 1 when actually I have typed pages of nonsense!!!

Every so often this new monster makes me jump a foot as invading the stillness of my typing comes a loud sounding bell. I guess it's supposed to tell me I'm doing something wrong, but so far, what that is remains mysteriously hidden in my instruction books. Maybe until I figure out this machine, I should turn down the volume of the bell so that at least I won't fall off my chair every time this monster thinks I'm doing something amiss.

The actual typing on this new monster is within the realms of possible. It seems to type a bit harder than my faithful word processor/typewriter, but after my fingers adjust, I'm sure that will be the least of my problems with this monster.

As I said, the actual typing goes pretty smoothly, it's after the typing that this monster truly rears its head. For after the typing, I need to save the text on a disc and then after saving it I need to print the text.

The first thing I needed to learn was that even a hard disc was called a floppy disc. Now, that does not meet my definition of floppy, but then nothing surprises me about the inaneness of computer terminology. I mean, I used to think that a menu was something one read in a restaurant in hopes of ordering a meal—but, no longer does menu have such a simple meaning. Menu is just one of the computer terms that has invaded our society.

Well, I guess it's just about time to figure out how to save the above text on my floppy hard disc!! Then comes the printing.

If there is no column this week, or in any future week, you will know that it is because I simply could not figure out how in the world to get the text off the computer and onto paper. Or, better yet, the printer monster, which is attached to the computer monster simply ate my paper!!

Oh, how I long for the simple days of a fancy typewriter/word processor! But, maybe my tackling this new monster in my life will cause me to be more learned—I hope so!

Capitol Commentary

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District I

Sometimes thinking about the future means facing dramatic change. That type of change could help a lot more people with their education in the future, even when the nearest college campus is a long way off.

The Legislature is working on a system to allow more Minnesotans to take classes offered at institutions in other parts of the state. It is an interactive television (ITV) network and many of the pieces of this system are already in place.

A new legislative plan would connect those pieces. The sections in place now are kind of like two-lane roads for technology. The new plan would add some freeway links to give northwestern Minnesota and other areas better connections with other Minnesotans.

Thousands of Minnesotans have already taken classes through interactive television (ITV). For example, students in a Thief River Falls classroom have discussed issues with teachers in the Twin Cities. However, most people have used it for only a small part of their education through a local college.

The network is meant to expand opportunities so people can enroll in programs at schools that are too far to drive to. This is particularly important for older students with families. They may live in one region, but need to be retained through classes offered in another.

In the future, more students will probably get degrees from institutions that are hundreds of miles away. This has happened in other states, including North Dakota where several students recently earned degrees entirely through ITV.

This is a dramatic change because it could change the way we think of a campus, and how we approach education. In the future, your access to college courses and degrees might not be limited by how close you are to bricks, mortar and ivy-covered walls.

All of these things combine to offer exciting chances for people who have never had them before. They also seem to be a frightening mix for people who mistakenly believe it will make their local college unnecessary or obsolete.

Telecommunications could do just the opposite. It could increase enrollment in some programs because distance from the campus will no longer be as big an obstacle.

It is also not meant to replace the experience of campus life and personal interaction with teachers. Those experiences are valuable.

Dear Readers,
A mother said, "When I lost my oldest son, I knew my two younger children needed individual attention, but it was all I could do to face each day myself." If you are a close relative, you can be of tremendous help in a situation such as this. Listen to these surviving children - play with them - cry with them - hold them. Their family circle has been broken and they need someone to help them accept the confusion and pain they are feeling.

Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Disaster relief for producers of corn available

Congressman Collin Peterson announced recently that the Department of Agriculture will lend a hand to corn producers whose crops were damaged in natural disasters last year.

According to Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy, corn producers may be eligible for assistance based on the low quality of their crops, even though the quantity harvested would normally disqualify them for aid.

Production adjustments will be made for corn farmers who suffered losses from reduced quality caused by bad weather or related conditions. These adjustments will be used to determine whether producers qualify for first-time or additional payments.

"Farmers are in a world of hurt right now, and I'm glad to see the Administration has stepped in with aid. It's important that we help get farmers who suffered natural disasters last year back on their feet and back in the marketplace," commented Congressman Peterson.

Producers who have not completed a written disaster application for 1992 can file one through May 7, 1993. Corn farmers who need more information should contact their ASCS county office.

Ice went out of river Wed. at 7:29 p.m.

Ice officially went out of the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls at 7:29 p.m. Wednesday, April 7, according to Dick Sjoberg, chairman of the Thief River Falls Rotary Club's 1993 Rotary Ice Classic.

Club members accept donations in exchange for an opportunity to guess the ice-out time and win a cash prize of $500. Deadline for making the guess had been set at March 15 but was extended for a week because of the extended cold weather this spring.

Winner of the $500 prize was Andrea Ault of Thief River Falls, who guessed a time of 6:15 p.m. on April 7. Official time is recorded when the ice moves or breaks up sufficiently to stop a clock set up for that purpose.

Tom Szymanski of KTHI to visit St. Bernard's

St. Bernard's school will be welcoming Tom Szymanski of KTHI on April 21.

Arrangements were made last November by the second grade teacher, Pat Krystosek, to have the KTHI (Channel 11) meteorologist, Tom Szymanski, come for an all-school question and answer session on weather information. Szymanski or "Too Tall Tom", as he is commonly known, will conduct an informal weather discussion involving all of St. Bernard's students, faculty and staff.

All this came about through a request from some free weather materials offered by KTHI in connection with their Weather School promotion. St. Bernard's teachers used those materials during the month of February along with the daily quizzes for that month presented on the KTHI weather program. On the program, Szymanski would present a question along with his daily forecast and then provide the answer to that question with a brief explanation.

Police enforce no parking on Hwy. 32 south

Police in Thief River Falls will begin enforcing the no parking rule on Highway 32 south in Thief River Falls.

As part of the Highway 32 project last summer the city agreed to sign as no parking that area from 7th Avenue to Oakland Park road, except for that area between Model Country and Riverside avenue on the south side of Highway 32.

People have been parking along the highway for many years. Some of the parking has been due to activities at the Armory or the Dairy Queen. Chief Froschheiser said people need to be reminded that the rules will be enforced. It will be an education process, he said.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Planting Seeds

Spring is a time when we start thinking about plants. An interesting and educational activity to do with a young child is to grow plants from seeds.

You will need seeds that are large enough for children to handle themselves. You will also need potting soil and a small container. Plant the seed, put it near a bright window and start to watch the seed for growth. When the seed starts to sprout and grow be sure to point this out to your child and watch as the various stages start to develop.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through their new selection of children's books including the following:

Bunting, Eve. Our Teacher's Having a Baby. This is a warmly illustrated story which explores children's fascination with babies as they find out that teachers can be mothers, too.

Hazen, Barbara Shook. Mommy's Office. A little girl spends the day with her mommy at work to surprisingly find out that there are a lot of similarities to their daily activities.

VIDEO VARIETY

Babies of the Home. This is a highly entertaining and educational video about baby animals adjusting to their new environment.

 Don't forget to attend Storytime every Tuesday morning at 9:30 a.m.

PARENTING TIPS

Playing Together

For children, play is work. For them, it may not be as simple as it looks. In fact, there are several categories of play that can be observed when two or more pre-school children are present. In a recent article from the Growing Together newsletter, April 1993, play was categorized as follows:

Onlooker Play: A child is a passive spectator as he watches another child or two play without participating in the activity. Through onlooker play, a child may learn new behaviors or muster up the courage to try a new skill at a later time. Onlooker play often enables a shy child, a younger child or a child who is in unfamiliar surrounding to adjust more easily to a new situation.

Parallel Play: Two or more children will play in close proximity but independently of one another. Although playing alongside one another, each is focused on his or her own activity. Sometimes a child will alternate from parallel play to onlooker play and then later imitate the play of the other child in resumed parallel play.

Next week, more on play.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When playing with a child who is involved in one of these two stages, do not overwhelm the child with lots of talk or questions. It is better to observed and imitate the child's actions and words.

"Watch the Lamb" to be presented April 16 and 18

"Watch the Lamb," a [illegible] Easter musical, will be presented by the [illegible] and [illegible] Friday, April 16 and Sunday, April 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Seventh-day Adventist church, 24[illegible] Avenue North, Thief River Falls.

A musical prelude will include [illegible] singing [illegible] a [illegible] instrumental ensemble and a vocal trio. Members of the hand[illegible] include Elaine Juhl and Amy Pervis of Middle River, [illegible] and Mindy Simpson of Plummer, Sarah Erickson, Diane Meekma, Heather Forbes and Marilyne Sayler of Thief River Falls. The director is Margie Stevenson. The instrumental ensemble will include Sylvia Grindley on marimba, Marie Havalsten on flute, Mrs. Ida Nordvall on piano. Members of the vocal trio are Jim Grindley, Margie Stevenson and Marilyne Sayler and Sylvia Grindley as the accompanist on piano.

The major work to be performed, "Watch the Lamb", was written by Ray Boltz and Steve Millikan. The story is the story of the Messiah as seen through the eyes and experiences of a father and his two sons as they travel to Jerusalem for Passover. The father, portrayed by Allan Rogalla, is a Jew from the distant city of Cyrene who uses storytelling as a way to instruct his sons in Jewish history. His sons, Rufus and Alexander (Benji and Danny Sayler) hold divergent views of what the hoped-for Messiah will be like. Sibling rivalry is evident in the exchanges between the two boys as young Alexander dares to question what his older brother has been taught in the synagogue. During their stay in Jerusalem, the little family becomes caught up in the excitement of Messiah's triumphal entry. Shortly thereafter they encounter the tragedy of a crucifixion march during which the father, Simon, is forced by a Roman soldier, Larry Juhl, to carry the cross for Jesus of Nazareth portrayed by Jim Hoks. During all of their encounters, the family keeps a careful eye on their little lamb, (Tiny Tim, a three-week old lamb from the farm of Glenn Meekma of rural Newfolden). Methuselah, as he is fondly named by Alexander, is a lamb destined to be sacrificed on Passover as an atonement for sins. Will the family discover in time that another Lamb would die instead?

Choir members include Larry Jr., and Grace Juhl of Lake Bronson, Chuck, Jolayne and Mindy Simpson of Plummer; Twila Brandon, Elaine Juhl and Amy, Aaron and Lisa Pervis of Middle River, Penny Nordvick of Grygla; Candy Kroll of Argyle; Gloria and John Umber of Viking; Jodi Meekma of Newfolden; Cori and Arlene Walseth, Deb and Diane Meekma, Sylvia and Dr. Jim Grindley; Lois and Dr. Jerry Bray; Margie Stevenson, Sarah Erickson, Heather Forbes, Dennis Johnson, Marilyne Sayler and Jim Daag, of Thief River Falls. Soloists will be Dennis Johnson, Aaron Pervis, Margie Stevenson, Benji Sayler and Dr. Jim Grindley. The director is Dr. Ben Sayler. The accompanist is Mrs. Ida Nordvall.

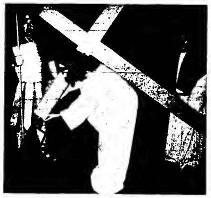
Orchestra members include: Kari Lindemoen of Holt, concertmistress; Jim Solsten, Bonnie Swantek, Melanie Krepp, and Jeff Wengler of Thief River Falls, and Margie Schaeffer of Red Lake Falls on violin; Dawn Klopp on cello, Jan Klopp on Bassoon, all of Thief River Falls, and Tom Swantek of Thief River Falls on bass. The conductor is Dr. Ben Sayler.

Supporting cast members include Ken Juhl of Middle River and Alvin Nordvick of Grygla as priests, Dave Stevenson as a Roman soldier, Eugene Meyer, George and Elsie Dailey of Red Lake Falls, James and Lillie Pervis of Middle River, Steven and Amanda Umber of Viking, Marie Nordvick of Grygla, Leonard and Sylvia Rondorf, Cody and Allison Frame and Geri, Matt and Annie Forbes of Thief River Falls, all as members of the crowd. The stage director is Joyce Meekma of Newfolden. The narrator is Pastor Robert Forbes of Thief River Falls.

"This is a most tender cantata," observed stage director Joyce Meekma. "The music itself is very moving. By including a real live lamb with the cast of father and young sons we've found the presentation to be even more real and touching. We think the result will be a program that will capture the interest of the younger set as well as adults."

There will be no admission charge for the performance, but a freewill offering will be accepted. A time of fellowship and refreshments will follow the program in the adjacent SDA school auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Al Rogalla as Simon of Cyrana visits with Danny and Banji Sayler, who portray his sons in tha Seventh-day Adventist production of "Watch tha Lamb". Watch the Lamb, which was writtan by Ray Botz and Steva Millikan, Is about tha story of tha Messlah as saan through tha ayas and experiancas of Simon of Cyrana and his two sons. Behind Hoks is Larry Juhl of Karlstad who portrays a Roman soldier, and Eugana Meyer of Rad Lake Falls. Tha dramatic Easter musical will be performed Friday, April 16, and Sunday, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. in tha Seventh-day Adventist church.



Jim Hoks struggles under tha weight of a cross. Joks portrays Jesus In Saventh-day Adventists' Eastar production of "Watch tha Lamb". ## Speaking Of . . .

. . . Taxes, 1992

The IRS has said that people are waiting until the last minute to file taxes this year. They say the reason for this is that many people will have to pay taxes this year rather than getting refunds, thanks to President Bush's meddling with the withholding allowances last year.

Nonetheless, if you are one of those people who are waiting until the last minute to file your tax return, you might like to take a look at the schedule of estimated tax preparation time at the end of this column. You may be surprised to learn that this tax business is going to take somewhat longer than you anticipated and you might want to get at it.

In 1990, I wrote a column about taxes and the handy dandy time schedule that comes with the tax booklet that tells you how many hours and minutes the "average" person will take to complete the various forms. I couldn't resist dragging that column out and comparing the times from 1990 to the times listed in this year's booklet.

After that enjoyable exercise, I decided to go back a couple of years more, to 1988 (the first year I could find the handy dandy time guide printed in the booklet) and compare the times from that year.

Looks to me like this year's tax forms are going to take longer than ever for the "average" person to complete (why doesn't that come as a surprise?). If my figures are correct, the "average" person is going to spend about an hour more this year doing their 1040 than they did in 1988.

Of course, one can't help but wonder what kind of person the IRS uses to represent the "average" person (who is supposed to represent you and me, after all) when times are listed in amounts of "1 hour 8 minutes," "3 hours 37 minutes," or "51 minutes." Wouldn't you just love to meet the "average person" who is slaving over all of the tax forms to come up with such strangely specific "average" times?

Does the IRS just grab someone off the street to represent us, or do they use one of their employees? If they use one of their employees, I don't think that is fair. I'm sure any one of their employees would be much more familiar with numbers than I am, since I am very poor at working with numbers, and they surely would not represent me and the time I take filling out my tax forms. I think they should use the janitor or cleaning woman to represent me when it comes to time spent on tax returns.

However, despite all of that, and speaking of last minute tax preparation, you might like to take a look at and add up how much time it is going to take you to do your 1040 form and any schedules you need this year. From what I can see, form 1040 will take 10 hours and 16 minutes to do this year, figuring from start to finish.

Sparby bill would limit trophy fish

Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls has introduced legislation which would limit Minnesota anglers to one trophy walleye and one trophy northern pike per day.

Sparby told The Times late last week that his bill would permit the taking of one walleye over 20 inches and one northern over 30 inches per day beginning in the spring of 1994. The trophy fish restriction for Minnesota would match the restriction on Manitoba waters, Sparby said, and is intended to protect the future of the state's sport fishing industry.

Co-sponsors of the bill include Rep. Willard Munger of Duluth, Rep. Fred Stanius of White Bear Lake; Rep. David Battaglia of Two Harbors; and Rep. Bob Milbert of St. Paul. Rep. Sparby said he also expects the bill to be supported by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Philipp arranges beauty of nature

spends at least some time nearly every day at her craft work. It also crammed with materials or completed projects ready for the next consignment placement, order delivery or craft show. Her items range in price from $10 to $40.

"When you have half of the garage and most of the downstairs space filled with these materials, you need an understanding husband," Yvonne said. Her husband Vernon is more than tolerant. He has even been known to help a bit in collecting materials and transporting items to shows. Other family members also help with craft shows.

Yvonne keeps a notebook with locations of plants and what time of year they can be expected to be ready for collecting. She advises looking for cattails, for instance, around the Fourth of July when the flowering "tail" is about the diameter of a pencil.

Wild materials are collected from about a 30-mile radius of the Philipp home located 18 miles northeast of Thief River Falls, although interesting plants may be gathered anywhere while traveling. Yvonne is careful [illegible] plants and [illegible].

In creating her natural material arrangements, Yvonne often includes crop materials such as grains and sunflowers and adds silk flowers, ribbon and paper twist. She has accumulated an arsenal of spray paint cans for coloring many of the natural materials.

Yvonne said that five or six years ago she was one of very few doing dry flower arranging in the area. Now many are trying their hand at the craft and the competition has increased. Although she tries to avoid copying ideas of other craftspeople in the area, she subscribes to many magazines and while traveling is always looking for ideas she can adapt to her work.

One of her new creations is "Grandma's Cookbook," a spiral bound collection of 400 pages of her mother's recipes which is printed in a neat stand up, plastic covered format that can stand on counter or cupboard.

"I'm not a typist, but I took the winter of 1991-92 to design and type the book which is dedicated to my mother, Dolly Mead, who died in May of 1990," Yvonne said. "I guess you could call it a labor of love. I had 300 copies printed late last fall and I'm offering it for sale at craft shows and at the Rex Cafe for $8.95."

Yvonne loves antiques, collects old cookbooks and depression glass, and would prefer an auction sale or good flea market to a day at the Mall of America.

She grew up west of Thief River Falls and is a graduate of Lincoln high school. She has farmed with her husband Vernon, who was employed 10 years by Lakehead Pipeline Company, in the Mavie community for most of her adult life.

The Philipps have four children. Joe is married to Sue Morben of Thief River Falls. They farm in the area and have three children. Dale is married to Wendy Burtness of Thief River Falls and they have one child. Dale operates Dale's Automotive in Thief River Falls.

Mike is single and director of the Red Lake County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office. Paulette is married to Daryl Augustine of Holt and they live in Higginsville, MO, where she teaches junior high school English. They have two children.

"To me crafts are either a hobby or a business," Yvonne said. "When I really enjoy what I'm making, it's a hobby. When it gets to be work, it's a business."

"I have a great admiration for artists, quilters and knitters," she added. Her own craft experiments have included crocheting, glass etching, decoupage and needlework and one of her popular creations is a dried flower arrangement in a crocheted basket which she stiffens over a form.

"We all have talents, it just requires time to work at them and develop them."

And in Yvonne's case, there's nothing like a bountiful crop of weeds to stimulate that creative talent.

HOW DOES CROP LOSS HAPPEN?

As you might expect, drought is historically the major peril to crop production. But in an average year, more than 4 out of every 10 crop losses are due to causes other than drought.

While drought accounts for 55% of the losses, the following percentages may be of interest:

| Hail | 8% |
| Wind | 3% |
| Disease | 3% |

Half of the Vernon and Yvonne Philipp garage on their farm 18 miles northeast of Thief River Falls is used as Yvonne's drying shed and storage area. She collects plant material from her garden and ditches and fields to dry for use in dried flower arrangements.

Yvonne Philipp has created "Grandma's Cookbook" (pictured in the foreground) from boxes of hand-written recipes and clippings collected by her mother, Dolly Mead, who died in 1990. While the cookbook has 400 pages of recipes, it does not contain one for the item Dolly was most often asked to bring to family gatherings.....cole slaw. Her ingredients for the cole slaw dressing remain a secret. Yvonne had 300 of the cookbooks printed and sells them with her craft work at shows and a consignment location.

VA searching for vets exposed

U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs is searching for thousands of veterans exposed to mustard gas while participating in classified tests of protective equipment and ointments during World War II.

They participated in these tests under an oath of secrecy recently lifted when evidence indicated long-term health effects related to that exposure. Many of them, or their survivors, may be eligible for VA benefits based upon certain health conditions related to their exposure.

Some of the medical conditions which could be caused by poison gas include respiratory cancers, skin cancer, obstructive pulmonary disease, non-lymphocytic leukemia, chronic laryngitis, bronchitis, emphysema and asthma, chronic conjunctivitis, keratitis and clouded vision.

To determine eligibility for for benefits based on that chemical exposure some 50 years ago, call the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs at 1-800-827-1000.

School Dist. gets petition on Northrop

At its meeting the board established a vacated facilities advisory committee as had been recommended by a prior committee investigating possible uses for the elementary schools to be vacated when the new district-wide elementary school is completed in the fall of 1994. Persons interested in serving on that committee are invited to contact the superintendent's office at the school district service center, phone 681-8711.

The board also adopted a resolution to close Knox and Northrop elementary schools, to convert Washington elementary school to an educational service center and to offer for sale the present school district service center and Northwest Vocational Center.

The board voted to discontinue several positions currently filled in the district including .67 German teaching position district-wide, 1.0 full-time equivalent elementary, 2.0 full-time equivalent area learning center instructional positions, .5 full time equivalent industrial arts and .5 full-time equivalent hearing impaired positions district wide. No tenured staff members are involved in the position reductions.

Approval was given to call for bids on elementary school construction package No. 2, which involves footings and foundations for the school. Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 5.

Extra-curricular assignments approved were Ryan Haugen, head middle school boys tennis coach; Chris Mills, assistant high school baseball coach; and Ken Fletcher, assistant high school softball coach.

Salary structure for the 1993 community education summer golf program was approved at the same rate as a year ago: $12 per hour for four coordinators, $8 per hour for instructors and $5 per hour for assistant instructors.

Extension of an agreement with Whittle Educational Network for a three-year period for the Channel One programming was approved by the board. Teachers in the district were surveyed and reportedly gave overwhelming approval to continuance of the Channel One program.

Regular meeting of the board on April 26 was changed from 7 p.m. to 5 p.m. to avoid conflict with a hearing scheduled by the City of Thief River Falls on storm sewers. Among agenda items April 26 will be to propose tenured teachers for unrequested leave, terminate probationary teachers and approve the 1993-94 school calendar.

Program helps define student competency conference is held. During that meeting an individualized remediation plan is developed and the program later implemented. At that time, the parent or guardian can also refuse services.

Some of the services provided through AOM include: help from classroom teachers; help from Chapter I teachers; help from paraprofessionals; computer software; alternative grouping; classroom modifications; remedial classes; parent tutoring; peer tutoring; summer school; alternative learning; course repetition; and cooperative learning.

Parents and guardians are encouraged to participate as team members. Parents and guardians also have a number of rights, such as the right to request a conference, additional staff, and the right to refuse AOM services.

Students may require remedial instruction for many different reasons. Typically, the reasons can not be explained medically. Hvidsten said it may be a result of transferring from school to school, skipping classes, problems at home. There are all kinds of reasons why a student might require remedial instruction, which explains why so many people may be involved in the development of an individual remedial instruction plan.

The Minnesota legislature passed the first Assurance of Mastery legislation in 1986. It was designed to assure the public that Minnesota school districts were assessing the progress of all students in acquiring necessary competencies and skills in mathematics and reading. The school districts generally support the program with a matching grant from the state.

Although the legislature passed the first AOM legislation in 1986, it has been in effect in School District 564 for three years.

Students in School District 564 will soon be taking local Assurance of Mastery tests. They are expected to be given in April. Parents or guardians interested in learning more about the AOM program are encouraged to contact Marie Hvidsten at 681-8677.

A new slate of officers has been approved by the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club for the 1993-94 season.

The group includes president John Michael Anderson, vice-president Steve Stokke and secretary-treasurer Kathy Treat; board members Dave Olin, Ruth Ostby, Don Balmer, Bruce Russell, Linda Spyhalski, and John Nickelson; athletic directors Rick Nelson of Northland Community College and Lee Alger of School District 564; along with gaming manager Teresa Reierson.

Final Sports Boosters weekly noon luncheon meeting of the 1992-93 season will held Thursday at Lon's Restaurant.

Northland Community College pitcher Todd Martin faced a Bemidji State University junior varsity batter during the first game of Friday's baseball doubleheader in Thief River Falls. The Beavers beat the Pioneers 9-1 in Game 1, with the two teams playing to a 2-2 eight-inning tie in Game 2.

NCC to open MCCC play at Fergus Falls

Minnesota Community College Conference play starts Saturday for the Northland Community College baseball team when the Pioneers head to Fergus Falls for a 1 p.m. doubleheader against the Spartans.

"We play to win now," said Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "No more evaluating."

A 9-1 loss and 2-2 eight-inning tie against the Bemidji State University junior varsity Friday ended the first week of the Pioneers' 1993 season at 0-3-1. They lost both ends of a Wednesday doubleheader against the University of North Dakota junior varsity in Grand Forks.

The Friday twinbill was switched from Bemidji to Thief River Falls because of the conditions the Beavers' diamond. It was all-Bemidji in the opener. The nightcap ended prematurely because of darkness.

"We were looking at a lot of different kids in the first game," explained Wiseth. "We played some different kids and we got a good look at them."

The second game was played a little closer-to-the-vest. "We played well," said Wiseth. "We played good defense, and we got some good pitching."

Bemidji State University junior varsity combined seven hits with five walks and five Northland errors as the Beavers began the day with a 9-1 win over the Pioneers.

Dave Stengrim, a former Lincoln High School, Northland Community College and Thief River Falls American Legion catcher, was behind the plate for the winners. He led the Beavers' offense with two hits in four at-bats.

Mitch Bernstein went 2-for-3 and had two stolen bases for the Pioneers.

TRF baseball opener is Thursday

An American Legion state tournament appearance last summer with a line up predominately staffed by underclassmen has produced pre-season recognition for the Lincoln High School baseball program – a No. 16 listing in Class AA, according to the voters involved in the Coaches Association state poll.

The Prowlers will now try to live up to those expectations beginning Thursday when they kick off the 1993 season with a 4:30 p.m. game against Tri-County at Irv Wilson Field. North Sub-Section 8AA play starts Saturday with a doubleheader in Detroit Lakes, where the Prowlers meet the Lakers at 10 a.m. and Fergus Falls at 12-noon.

"I'm excited about the season," said Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wensloff. "If our pitching staff holds up, we'll be tough. Offensively and defensively we'll be okay."

Seven senior lettermen return from the Prowlers' 12-7 squad of a year ago, including Wade Evenson, Marc Haugen, Nathan Knutson, Jeremy Olson, Rick Olson, Carter Rogalla, and Jason Svir.

Rogalla hit .500 as a junior (24/48), while Knutson hit .460 (23/50), Haugen .300 (12/40), and Olson .294 (10/34).

Only seniors on last year's team were Mitch Bernstein, Barry Dowers and Darin Wald. Bot Bernstein (5-1, 37 innings of work) and Wald (4-1, 34 innings) were the Prowlers' top two pitchers, and both contributed offensively as Bernstein hit .340 and Wald checked in at .308.

Olson (2-2, 19 1/3 innings) and Ostby 1-0 (13 1/3 innings) were part of of the 1993 pitching rotation. They will be joined this spring by Haugen, juniors Joby Looker and Jason Olson, plus senior Trevor Haugen, who has played tennis in the spring in the past before joining the summer baseball programs.

Looker is penciled in to start at first base against Tri-County. The rest of the infield has a two-deep line-up at each position, according to Wensloff, including Knutson/junior Andy Peterson at second base; Rogalla/junior Eric Dowers at shortstop; and Trevor Haugen/Jason Olson at third base.

Catchers are Svir and sophomore Steve Burslie.

The all-senior group in the outfield includes Marc Haugen, Evenson, Jeremy Olson, Ostby, Eric Halbert, and Robert Nelson.

Others in the program this spring are juniors Jason Jensen and Brian Minka, sophomores Casey Anderson, Nathan Anderson, Michael Baumann, Eric Bjorgaard, Dusty Eddleman, Ben Halbert, Adam Henney, Jason Hruby, Cory Jenkins, Cayler Olson, Justin Phillips, Joey Sabol, Kevin Shetler, Brad Thayer, and Chris Vanyo, plus freshmen Ryan Bendickson, Nick Chiodo, Chris Efta, John Elizondo, Paul Oonsorowski, James Jorgenson, Chane Keefe, Kaine Martell, Derrick McFarlane, Darren Nelson, Ryan Poole, Chris Sorenson, David Halsa, and Josh Hamlin.

Tim Olson leads Marshall County Central boys

Tim Olson saved his best for last. The 6-1 Marshall County Central senior finished his high school basketball career in outstanding fashion this winter by scoring a school-record 597 points while carrying the Nordics to a Section 8A Sub-Section 4 tournament title.

En route to membership into the 1,000-Point Club (1,066 career total), Olson averaged 22.1 points and 10.7 rebounds per game while earning All-North Border Conference and team MVP honors.

"Tim scored the quietest 22 points (per game) you'll ever see," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, who praised Olson's persistent hard work without the ball – wearing out defenders who tried to keep up to him for an entire game.

Olson is the fourth Newfolden boy to surpass the 1,000-point barrier, joining Don Engelsrud (Class of 1960), Mike Fincher ('77) and Jeremy Underdahl ('91). The school also has three girls in that group – Sue Olson ('83), Darcene Moen ('91) and Sara Lokstad (who made it as a junior this winter).

Marshall County Central guards Shane Borg, a 5-10 senior, and Jake Rantanen, a 6-0 junior, joined Olson as all-conference picks this year.

Rantanen was named the Nordics' top defensive player, Travas Knutson was selected most improved, while Steve Nelson and Chad Hanson were co-recipients of the Coaches Award. Knutson, Nelson and Hanson are all seniors.

Rantanen and Scott Zak, a 6-1 junior, were chosen as the Nordics' co-captains for 1993-94.

Marshall County Central finished the 1992-93 season at 18-9 overall. The Nordics went 15-7 during the regular season, beat Kittson Central 52-48, Stephen 46-38 and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 51-48 for the Sub-Section 4 title, but lost to Warren 53-39 and Ada-Borup 63-56 in Section 8AA play.

"At the beginning of the year, we would not have settled for 18-9," said Ueland, "but all things considered, it was a pretty good year. The sub-section championship was a major accomplishment. We were really pleased with it. It was probably the biggest sub-section/district title we've ever won, just because we weren't expected to win it."

In addition his single-season point total, Olson set a school record with 1,076 season performance points – a combination of figures used in the Nordics' statistical sheets.

Only other Marshall County Central scorer sporting a double-figure average this winter was 6-3 senior Ivan Hirst, who averaged 11.3 points per game. But Hirst, an all-conference pick as a junior, was limited to 12 games this winter, including the five post-season contests, because of a knee injury.

In Hirst's absence, Olson's numbers grew. "Ivan was a complete player," mentioned Ueland. "He was an excellent passer, and a good scorer from any range. Tim did pick up the slack when Ivan got hurt, but we became a blue-collar team after he went down."

Jeremy Tallum, a 6-2 senior, put his name in the record books twice this winter for drawing charges – 4 in one game and 14 for the season. Rantanen set a single-season record in shooting 48 percent from 3-point range (14/29).

"We had a number of players capable of coming up with big games," pointed out Ueland. "They all had their moments, and Tim was steady."

Four team records set this year included single-game field goal shooting percentage (69.7 vs. Warroad); season rebounds (888), season assists (511), and season fouls (460). The Nordics tied a single-game mark with 30 fouls against Red Lake County Central.

"Defensively we improved throughout the year," said Ueland, who reached a milestone himself during the 1992-93 season by surpassing the 400-win plateau. "We started the year shooting real well, but, ironically, we lost those games. Our shooting dropped off steadily the rest of the year, but we played better defense, and we did a good job on the boards."

Health In The Long Run races will be held May 8

Plans have been made for the tenth annual Thief River Falls Health In The Long Run Saturday, May 8.

Scheduled to get underway at 9:30 a.m. at Northwest Medical Center, the event will again feature both a 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) and 2.1 mile course for runners, walkers and joggers.

All finishers will receive an official race T-shirt and free refreshments. In addition, flowers will be presented to all mothers entering the race because the event is being held on Mother's Day weekend, and in observance of the tenth anniversary of the event, free cholesterol screenings will be offered to all race participants over 18 years of age.

Exercise is something that is important to participate in throughout life to achieve maximum health benefits, note race officials.

Medals will be awarded to the first place male and female finisher in several age categories for each race. In the 2.1 mile event, age categories are 7-under, 8-12, 13-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, 60-69, 70-79, and 80-over. Age groups in the 10 kilometer event include 19-under, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, and 50-over.

Gift certificates from Hugo's will be awarded for setting age group and course records – $10 to anyone breaking an existing age group record and $25 for setting a course record.

Those interested in registering for the Health In The Long Run may do so by calling Northwest Medical Center Public Relations Coordinator Gail Holland at 681-4240, extension 210. Entry fee is $7 before May 5; $10 from May 5-7; and $12 the day of the race.
